Fog Blankets Many Areas Over Nation

Accidents Soar, Some Airfields Close For Hours

By The Associated Press

Fog cast a perilous pall over many areas of the nation Saturday, shutting some airfields for hours and causing scores of highway accidents.

The heavy mist closed airports in California over a 700-mile stretch from Sacramento to San Diego during the late night and early morning hours.

As the fog spread into Southern California there were more automobile accidents than police could keep up with.

TRAFFIC DEATHS

Fog persisted in California's Central Valley, where it has caused 28 traffic deaths in a week. But some hope for improvement was raised for residents of the foggy San Joaquin Valley.

The Weather Bureau reported zero visibility early in the day in Sacramento, Stockton, Fresno and Bakersfield, Calif., and Reno, Nev.

A United Air Lines jetliner carrying 124 persons skidded after landing at New York's Idlewild Airport. The DC8 skidded when it neared the end of a runway and the right main landing gear rolled over snow and sand. Haze shrouded the field at the time.

A Northwest Airlines jet, with 107 passengers aboard, coming in high because of fog, landed at Milwaukee's Billy Mitchell Field and went off a runway into snow. Nobody was hurt and no damage was reported.

Poor visibility filled night driving with hazards in Oregon. A ferry was lost in the fog for nine hours off Vancouver Island.

Temperatures rose to normal levels or higher in most of the country except the northeastern corner. The onset of mild weather converted much of the thick covering of snow and ice into slush and water.

The rise in temperature eased a shore-to-shore ice jam in the east branch of the Niagara River about three miles above Niagara Falls.

Mayor Blames Race Agitators For N.J. Furor

ENGLEWOOD, N.J. (AP)—Mayor Austin N. Volk said Saturday that the furor in this community over alleged racial segregation in the schools has been created by agitators.

He said that, "Agitators are distorting Englewood's image as one of the most fully integrated communities north of the Mason-Dixon line."

Volk, in his prepared statement, said that every one of Englewood's seven public schools is integrated, as are the various city departments.

A group of six pickets returned to City Hall at 3 p.m. and began parading in front of the building.

Fifteen sit-in demonstrators—eight white persons and seven Negroes—have been arrested. Thirteen paid their bail and were released, but two women remained in the Bergen County jail Saturday.

Barbara Kay, 37, a Negro, and Ann S. Baer, 30, white, both of Englewood, refused to post bails of $10, however, and were locked up.

Eleven of the demonstrators were arrested Friday morning after they had rejected an ultimatum by the mayor to leave City Hall within 10 minutes.

Reds Sentence 8 Evangelists

MOSCOW (AP) — Eight leaders of evangelist sects in the Soviet Union have been sentenced to prison and to labor camps, the Soviet press reported Saturday.

Three leaders of one sect were sentenced to prison in Soviet Kazakhstan, the newspaper Kavakhstan Pravda reported.

It said the unnamed sect was founded in the United States in 1907 and organized in Russia shortly after the Bolshevik Revolution by a group of Americans under the motto "America and Russia for Christ." The paper said the sect held "a hostile position toward everything Soviet."

MAN IS CHARGED

Woman Killed Near Tallulah

TALLULAH (Special) — A Jackson, Miss., woman was killed instantly Saturday in a head-on collision near here and her husband was seriously injured.

A West Monroe man was charged with negligent homicide in the accident.

The dead woman was identified by Highway Patrolman Clyde May as Mrs. Paul W. Maxwell, 68, Jackson resident.

Mrs. Maxwell's husband, Paul Maxwell, 70, driver, was seriously injured. He was treated at a Tallulah hospital and then transfered to Mercy Hospital in Vicksburg.

May said last night Maxwell was suffering from a broken knee cap, compound fracture of the leg, both arms broken and severe lacerations.

CHARGED

James L. Shackleford, 22, resident at 1515 Woodland in West Monroe, driver of the second car, is in St. Francis hospital in Monroe suffering from a broken nose, face lacerations and bruises.

The accident occured around 8:30 a.m., on U. S. Highway 80 about eight miles west of Tallulah, May reported.

Sources last night reported that the Maxwell couple were enroute to West Monroe to visit a daughter, but her name was unknown and the report could not be verified.

May said that Shackleford pulled out and attempted to pass when he met the Maxwell car head-on. Because of a very heavy fog, visibility was less than 200 feet, May reported.

May added that charges of negligent homicide were filed in Tallulah against Shackleford and that no bond had been set pending his release from the hospital.

The Maxwell woman's body is being transferred from Young's Funeral Home here to the Baldwin Funeral Home in Jackson. Funeral arrangements were incomplete last night.

MCNAMARA DISPUTE

Sen. Case Calls For Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) —Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., said Saturday congressional self-respect requires a showdown in a row between Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and a Senate investigating subcommittee.

McNamara and the subcommittee were reported still at logger-heads over the secretary's refusal to tell its members which Pentagon censors had altered the texts of specific anti-Communist speeches prepared for delivery by military officers.

The secretary said he would shoulder full responsibility, rather than let subordinates face possible criticism for having obeyed his directives. He explained he felt it would injure department morale to expose subordinates.

McNamara has disclosed the censors' names but not what specific censoring they did.

Subcommittee members, Case among them, have been talking of possible contempt of Congress citations to back their demands for the information. McNamara has indicated belief that if anyone is to be cited for contempt it should be he and not any censor who might refuse, on his orders, to answer questions.

A peace conference between McNamara and a delegation from the subcommittee ended Friday with both sides described as giving no

Improving

Friends of young Joe McCormick will be pleased to learn that he is much improved after being on the critical list at the St. Francis hospital for almost a week.

Joe, son of West Monroe Judge John McCormick, was reported last night to be progressing satisfactorily. He was seriously injured in an automobile accident. Joe is still in the hospital and can't have company yet, according to a relieved father, but is "doing much better."

U.S. Plans Launch Of Tiros Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP)—The space agency plans to launch the fourth Tiros weather satellite this week.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the launching was scheduled "in the near future."

Tiros IV will be almost identical to its predecessors except for a considerably improved lens system for one of its two television cameras.

Th Weather Bureau announced that a few hours after Tiros IV goes into orbit, information from it would be on the way to Weather Bureau stations around the world.

The bureau said that cloud photographs sent to earth by the first three Tiros satellites on many occasions have revealed information that led to significant improvement in current weather analyses.

"To the forecaster, the greatest value of the satellites is their ability to observe weather systems over the four-fifths of the earth's surface—oceans, deserts and uninhabited areas—where there is little or no conventional meteorological information," the bureau said.

The fourth in a series of seven Tiros satellites now planned, the cylindrical, hatbox-shaped, 285-pound package of instruments will be launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla. by a three-stage Thor-Delta vehicle.

If the launching is successful, the satellite will circle the earth about every 99 minutes, at an altitude of about 400 miles.

Argentina's Chief Sounds Defiant Note

'Soft Stand' On OAS Ouster Of Cuba Defended

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Defying his powerful critics at home, President Arturo Frondizi declared Saturday Argentina's refusal to vote for expulsion of Cuba from the inter-American family was a blow for "the basic principles of self-determination and nonintervention."

In a warning to the United States and 13 latin-American nations voting to expel Cuba at Punta del Este, Uruguay Frondizi said the death of these principles would turn the hemisphere over to "the law of the jungle."

CRISIS COOLS

Frondizi spoke out in an address at Parana at a time when he appeared to have settled a crisis with his armed forces chiefs. Angered by Argentina's so-called soft stand at the hemisphere's foreign ministers' meeting, they had demanded he break relations with Communist Cuba.

Frondizi then summoned home ambassador Julio Amoedo from Havana and a communique announced that Argentina would vote to oust Cuba from the Organization of American States when the issue came before the group's council meeting in Washington.

But now his defiant defense of Argentina's position in the speech at Parana seemed certain to set the crisis boiling again.

Frondizi accused "reactionary sectors" in the United States of conspiring with "their direct and indirect agents in Latin-American countries to foster insurrection against the national governments which fight for the dignity and independence of their peoples."

He declared he would die for the dignity of Argentina.

Frondizi emphasized that Argentina demonstrated its contempt for communism in Cuba by voting for the resolution saying Castro-communism was incomoatible with the inter-American system.

Saturn Rocket For Moon Trip To Be Gigantic

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—An advanced Saturn rocket, designed to carry men on round trips to the moon, will stand more than twice as tall as the Statue of Liberty.

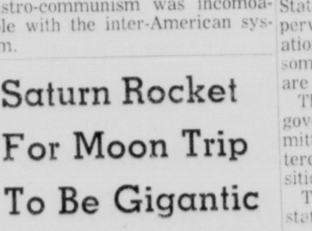
And it will weigh more than 25 fully-loaded 707 jet aircraft.

The dimensions — height: 350 feet, weight: more than 6 million pounds — were detailed Saturday by Wernher Von Braun, director of the Marshall Space Flight Center here.

Von Braun wrote about the advance Saturn — known as the C5 —in an article in Astronautics, a publication of the American Rocket Society.

The first stage of the C-5 will have five engines with a total thrust of 7.5 million pounds. The second stage also will have five engines, generating one million pounds of thrust. The third stage, composed of one engine, will have 200,000 pounds of thrust.

The C-5 is being developed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at the Marshall Space Flight Center.



If Saturday was any example of the six weeks of bad weather due because the groundhog saw his shadow, residents of the Twin City area have a treat in store.

This supposedly "bad weather" is expected to continue through today. In the words of the weather man, clear to partly cloudy through tonight with fog and winds 5-15 m.p.h.

High temperature for today is expected to reach 70-74 degrees and the low is forecast to fall to 50-54 degrees.

Bright sunshine broke through early morning fog and drove the temperature to a high of 73 degrees Saturday. Low was recorded at 43 degrees.

State School Deficits Pay Is Defended

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Supt. Shelby M. Jackson's finance officer Saturday defended state payments to school boards with deficits, which have been drawing the critical fire of recent state audits.

Finance officer George B. Benton Jr., suggested that Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, as chairman of the State Budget Committee which supervises school board fiscal operations, holds the audits affecting some 20 school boards until all are completed.

Then, Benton suggested to the governor, the State Budget Committee should meet with the interested parties for a final disposition.

The office of J. B. Lancaster, state supervisor of public funds, so far has made public four such audits, each criticizing what they termed excessive payments by the State Department of Education to school boards reporting deficits last year.

The audits, in general, held the school boards did not include all assets in reporting deficits.

All this is the outcome of spadework by a joint legislative committee headed by Rep. Jerry Ashley of Acadia Parish.

His committee has been serving as a watchdog over school boards reporting deficits, which have been followed by requests for the state to bail them out.

WOULD AID BUDGET

Sale Of Surplus Stockpile Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., proposed Saturday that Congress direct President Kennedy to sell $3.4 billion in stockpiled strategic materials and use the receipts to balance the budget.

"If we could get money from this excessive accumulation of materials flowing into the Treasury we might be able to balance the budget and keep from increasing the debt limit," Byrd said in an interview.

Byrd disclosed he has agreed to clear the road for an investigation by a special committee headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., of what Kennedy called the excessive stockpiling of $7.7 billion in war emergency items.

INQUIRY DUE

The Senate is expected to be asked to approve a $30,000 outlay for a staff to inquire into the situation before the group begins hearings in about a month.

Senate Republican leaders had urged Byrd, a conservative critic of many administration policies, to undertake the inquiry through the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures which he heads.

For a time it appeared possible that there might be collateral hearings by both the Symington and Byrd groups but Byrd made it clear Saturday his committee will not play a direct role in the inquiry.

Kennedy called for an investigation by a Senate Armed Services

Birds Disquiet Area; Police Go On A Hunt

Most everyone is familiar with, and probably fond of the old nursery rhyme—"Sing a song of sixpence, Sing a song of rye. Four and twenty blackbirds baked into a pie."

But West Monroe residents living along McMillan Road and Su-quaknatch-ah Lane were wishing they had never heard of a "blackbird" Saturday.

The little feathered fowl have chosen as their roosting place, apparently for the rest of the winter, the wooded area that lies between U. S. Highway 80 and McMillan Road, and between Su-quaknatch-ah Lane and Fairview Street.

And the residents in that area set up a howl this week because of the terrific chattering noise and odor that accompanies any flock of birds of a considerable size.

CATAHOULA PARISH

Area Wildlife Unit Quits State Group

HARRISONBURG (Special) — The Catahoula Wildlife Unit has withdrawn its affiliation from the Louisiana Wildlife Federation and accused the state organization of fighting projects sponsored by the local unit.

This action was taken by unanimous vote of the members of the local unit at a recent meeting in Harrisonburg, it was revealed Saturday by J. W. Boyd, president of the Catahoula Parish unit.

"We see no justification for supporting an organization which uses our own membership money to fight projects sponsored by our unit, and especially when it directly affects our area," Boyd said.

Boyd named the projects as the location of the proposed locks and dam on Black River in Catahoula Parish, and their resolution directed to the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission seeking permission to use dogs in deer hunting during the season in the hill country of Catahoula, Caldwell and LaSalle Parishes.

All three parish units had asked for the open season with dogs and had endorsed the south location of the locks in Black River.

Bill Knippers, shortly after being elected president of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation endorsed the north of Jonesville location of the locks in the proposed 9-foot navigation project on the Ouachita-Black Rivers in concurrence with the stand taken by the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

"This stand was taken against us without even hearing our side of the 'so-called controversy'," Boyd said, "and every civic club and governing body in the entire

Action Cuts Off Millions To Aid Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy tightened the U.S. economic squeeze on Cuba Saturday, ordering a complete ban on imports of Cuban products. The action will cost Cuba $35 million a year.

Administration officials said that the embargo, effective next Wednesday, will be a severe blow to the ability of Prime Minister Fidel Castro to export Communist subversion to other Latin-American countries.

SLICES INCOME

His dollar income last year was under $100 million, officials said, so the new U.S. action will reduce it by one-third this year.

While clamping the embargo on imports, Kennedy specifically authorized the continued sale of U.S. food and medicine to Cuba. Officials said also that airline and telephone service to Cuba would not be affected.

The trade embargo, officials said, is only one of several steps Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk are plannnig. Their aim is to fasten a kind of economic, military and political stranglehold around the island country which all other American governments now officially regard as a Communist beachhead in the Western Hemisphere.

The U.S. government itself is understood to be strengthening and extending its air and sea patrols over the international waters around Cuba.

Diplomatic efforts will be undertaken next week to get Canada and other Allied countries trading with Cuba to bring their policies into line with those of the United States and other American governments.

University Negro Ban Is Upheld

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Federal district Judge Sidney Mize Saturday ruled Negro James Meredith failed to prove he was refused admission to the all-white University of Mississippi because of race.

In turning down the Negro's second request for court-ordered admission to the university, Judge Mize said the burden of proof a segregation policy existed was on Meredith.

The 29-year-old Air Force veteran sought a permanent injunction, admitting him to the university. A request of preliminary injunction is pending in the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Judge Mize said "the evidence is insufficient to hold that policy (segregation) is now in effect.

"In as much as plaintiff has failed to meet the burden of showing a preponderance of the evidence that he was denied admission to the University of Mississippi solely because of his race, the complaint must be dismissed," the court said.

"The plaintiff undertook to bring the action as a class . . . but since plaintiff failed to maintain this action in his own behalf, he cannot maintain it as a class action."

The judge said evidence not needed in the case was produced by both sides but that his only job was to decide whether or not the university refused Meredith because of race or color.

SERVES AS 'MESS BOY'

Long Sea Odyssey Of Girl Near End

But Agatha Johnson, 23, is the exception. The blonde, blue-eyed lass always wanted to see the sea.

"And oh boy, have I seen it," she said Saturday.

Last year—and 30,000 miles ago—the California college student interrupted a trip from San Francisco to New York to sign on a Norwegian ship at New Orleans as a mess boy.

Since then she has seen the Co Sea, the South China Sea, the Sea of Japan and a lot ocean between.

"Now I just want to see a bit of land for a change," she said with a sigh.

Her ship, the SS Gisna, is docked in Houston. The next stop is New Orleans and the end of Agatha's wandering for a while.

"I've got to go back to school," she said, "apart from the fact I can't take any more seascape."

Someone suggested "it might be good fun to work on a ship and see the world," she said, "so I signed on as a mess boy."

That means she waits tables in the junior officers' mess. And it means she has had some memorable experiences.

"I ran into a number of very romantically-inclined young men," she said.

"One individual tried to get in through the porthole of my cabin by sliding down a rope from the deck," she said. "He might have killed himself.

"And I had a dreadful job getting rid of him," she said.

Jury Convicts Ex-Policeman For Burglary

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A 12-man jury returned a verdict of guilty Saturday against one of two ex - policemen accused of breaking into an appliance store and hauling away three television sets last March. The other defendant pleaded guilty.

The jury recommended no more than three years in prison for James S. DiSalvo, 24, who pleaded guilty, and not more than four years, six months for Robert A. Westerfield, 27, who had pleaded innocent.

DiSalvo and Westerfield were the first of six former policemen due to stand trial here on burglary indictments returned last summer. Westerfield still faces trial on four other charges and DiSalvo on three others.

Criminal Court Judge Sam Campbell set Feb. 28 to hear arguments on a motion for a new trial for the pair, who remained free on $3,000 bonds.

The case went to the jury Friday night after a week-long trial. The verdict was returned Saturday afternoon.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Skies remained cloudy over the northeastern portion of the country late Saturday afternoon from Washington, D. C. northward and a little light snow was still falling in northern New England. Fog and cloudy weather was quite prevalent from this area westward into the Lakes Region.

In sharp contrast extremely warm summerlike temperatures under clear skies prevailed today through the Plains states. Maximum readings in the 80s were registered in Texas with Cotulla reporting 85 degrees, Childress 83 and Wichita Falls 81, a new record for this date. Readings well up in the 70s were recorded northward into Nebraska. The maximum of 68 at Norfolk, Nebraska also set a new record for this date. Previous highest was 65 set in 1928. Readings in the mid 60s extended as far north as Miles City, Montana. This very warm weather which produced rapid melting of the remaining snow cover in Missouri and Kansas along with ice jams has resulted in considerable local flooding in some areas. Readings were also in the mid 70s over the southern states this afternoon but cloudy skies and a little light rain kept readings in the 60s over the lower Mississippi Valley. Cool temperatures in the 30s again prevailed in the Central Plateau region of the west. Salt Lake City Utah and Boise, Idaho recorded midday readings in the 20s. Considerable fog continued in valley regions of California but in the sunny southwest CMA maximum temperatures were again in the 80s. Skies were cloudy and a little light rain fell along the North Pacific coast.

The forecast for Sunday . . . much colder weather will move into the extreme Northern Plains tomorrow along with strong northerly winds and occasional periods of snow. Cloudy and colder weather is also indicated over Minnesota and the Upper Lakes Region with temperatures remaining mostly in the lower 30s. Cloudy skies remain in the forecast for the Pacific Northwest and across portions of the Northern Rockies. Skies will partially clear tomorrow throughout New England with temperatures rising into the high 20s in northern Maine and up to the low 40s in southeastern Massachusetts. Elsewhere over the nation sunny and mild weather is promised. Readings will be in the 70s and 80s in southern regions of the Ohio Valley and throughout the east from Virginia southward. The 70s and 80s will cover the middle and lower Mississippi Valley and the greater portion of the Plains states. Fair and warm weather will continue in the southwest.

U.S. Returns Bail Jumpers From Spain

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three alleged leaders of an international narcotics ring, who jumped bail totaling $110,000 and fled from New York to Spain, were returned here by plane Saturday. They were met by 45 federal narcotics agents and other lawmen carrying shotguns and a machine gun.

Authorities said the three — Frank Caruso, Vincent Mauro and Salvatore Maneri — were tracked down in Spain because they had been in contact with the late Charles (Lucky) Luciano.

Luciano, former U. S. narcotics prostitution kingpin who was deported to Italy, collapsed and died apparently of natural causes, at a Naples airport Jan. 26. He was being shadowed at the time by Italian and American narcotics agents.

Mauro, Caruso and Maneri fled to Spain last year while awaiting trial in New York on narcotics charges. Mauro and Caruso were seized in a Barcelona hideout Jan. 22. Maneri was arrested the following day in Majorca. They were returned here by four Spanish policemen.

Charles G. Ward, of the Federal Narcotics Bureau in New York, said a heavy guard was set up at Idlewild Airport because of reports that there might be an attempt to free or kill the three suspects.

GOP Leader Assails U.N. Bonds Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six hundred Young Republicans received graduation certificates in leadership training Saturday night, and speakers assailed the $100-million United Nations bond issue proposal and asserted President Kennedy is trying to sell shopworn stuff.

The Young Republicans received their certificates after four days of learning about practical politics from their leaders in Congress and state administrations.

They topped off their training program Saturday with precinct canvasses of metropolitan area voters designed, in part, to separate the Democrats, Republicans and independents in preparation for 1964 when Washington residents vote for president for the first time.

GOP National Chairman William E. Miller told the graduates in prepared remarks the United States should try to find out whether the United Nations Charter needs revising before it accepts the Kennedy proposal to buy $100 million in U.N. bonds.

"Before we buy the bonds," he said, "it is time that we said to all of these other nations who can't pay anything, who don't want to pay their share to support the United Nations—look, you are a smaller nation, you have more to gain than we from the United Nations. If you don't pay your fair share, then what good to us is the United Nations?

"I think we might as well say before we do this that we are going to take a whole new look-see at the charter and see whether or not it needs revising."

Boys Say Car Stolen Because World To End

DAVENPORT, Iowa (UPI) — Two 16-year-old boys told authorities Saturday they stole a white cadillac for a trip to New Mexico because the world is coming to an end anyhow.

Before the two could get to New Mexico, and while the world still was spinning, they were captured near Silvus, Ill., across the river from Davenport. The car, which belongs to Allen Lusk, Bettendorf, Iowa, was wrecked during a police chase.

The boys took the car from a parking lot here Friday, authorities said, and returned to Illinois to pick up clothes for the New Mexico trip. They didn't explain why they chose New Mexico.

Officers said the boys talked about reports from India concerning fears of religious men there that the world's end is fast approaching.

Miss Middleton

RAYVILLE (Special) — Miss Mary E. "Mollie" Middleton, 96, died Saturday morning in her Rayville residence after an illness of about two months.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Grace Baptist Church with the Rev. H. L. Weeks officiating.

Burial will follow in the Rayville Masonic Cemetery under the direction of Gay's Funeral Home.

Miss Middleton was a member of the Old Union Church of Caldwell Parish and had been a resident of Rayville for the past 29 years.

Injured Youth Lying In Street Robbed Of $50

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) —Thieves posing as good samaritans robbed a young man of $50 early Saturday as he lay badly injured in the street after being struck down by a car, police reported.

Officers said Nelson Paul Sharger, about 20, Beverly Hills, Calif., was changing a tire on his car when he was hit by a car. He suffered multiple internal and hip injuries.

His companions, Ena C. Suncin and Lucila G. Zamudio, said that after Sharger was struck down another car stopped as though to offer help.

ABRAMS ADVANCES

WINNFIELD (Special) — When Dr. John Hunter assumed office as president at Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge Thursday, people around here also had their eye on another man.

Also taking office was Dr. Morris Abrams, new dean of LSU at Alexandria. Dr. Abrams is a former superintendent of schools in Winn Parish.

UNIQUE DRIVE

VIDALIA (Special)—Coach Dan Chase's V-Club recently conducted a unique drive that reaped immediate benefits. Members collected books for the three schools of Vidalia. Received, along with books, were cash donations toward the purchase of new books.

FERRY SERVICE

ST. JOSEPH (Special) — Ferry service is being planned between this Tensas Parish town and Grand Gulf, Miss., separated by the Mississippi River.

It will be a big help in transportation plus a closer link between Louisiana and Mississippi.

Several points of interest in the Grand Gulf area, including an old fort where the Confederacy fought the gunboats of Gen. U.S. Grant, will be developed.

OLE MAN RIVER

What with a nine-foot navigation channel for the Ouachita River in the works, there seems to be renewed interest in water transportation in the area.

In addition to being a very cheap means of transportation, good waterways mean recreation and power.

The Ouachita River story is pretty well known around here by now, but it might be interesting to note that it may not be too long before the people along the Red River take a good long look at their situation.

A veteran barge operator said at Shreveport the other day that the Rev River can be made navigable, but that it would take a lot of time and money.

At the same time, movements were underway in Washington to make it unnecessary for local interests to pay a share of the cost of three Red River Valley flood control projects.

As if to point out that the days of river travel are far from being past, one of the government's most modern rockets was transported downstream on the Mississippi River several months ago.

So don't count Ole Man River out. He just keeps rollin' along

GRADUAL GILLISES

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Remember the Leon Gillis family — the eight who are traveling from Virginia to California in a covered wagon? They were in Shreveport several days, and just left that city Friday, headed into Texas.

"The Gradual Gillises," as they were dubbed by the Shreveport Times, were really given a big whirl by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

It seems to us that whenever something out of the ordinary comes along such as this, it should be seized upon by appropriate persons as a vehicle to carry the story of our area.

The Monroe Chamber of Commerce, with the help of Bobby Pappas, gave them a royal welcome in Monroe.

The important thing is this —an event such as a covered wagon rolling cross country quite naturally attracts a lot of attention. And if you can get your town linked closely with the event, your town begins to be a source of interest also. It may sound slightly mercenary, but if tourism and the attraction of industry, etc. are the things Louisianians want, and almost everyone thinks it is, then you've got to do a selling job — it won't just sell itself.

The covered wagon scheme was just a little thing, but you have to be able to make little things work before you can tackle the big ones.

And, (this was to be expected) there were some who thought the covered wagon people should not have been given any publicity—newspapers were aiding and abetting.

Our answer to that is that if the newspapers had not carried the story, it would have been ridiculous. They would have been kind of silly to ignore it, now wouldn't it?

THE WIDE ANGLE

Number one, to prove that newspapers are being reborn as greater servants of the public than ever before, although their number may be dwindling.

Number two, to show that city dailies and town weeklies need not consider one another as journalistic enemies.

Mr. White agrees that weeklies and dailies, with proper respect one for another, should serve as supplements to each other. That is, the more news generated by a daily in the weekly area, the more people will become news concious, the more like the news their hometown paper is carrying.

And, likewise, the more news generated by a weekly, the more the people in that area appreciate their dailies, for news of happenings elsewhere.

Consequently, better acceptance of both by the public. This view is not shared by some newspaper people, but we believe they will soon reconsider their position, for the good of the newspaper field in general.

GROUNDHOG WAR

Well, the National Geographic Society has declared war on the groundhog. They don't take any stock in his Feb. 2 weather predictions at all, says a wire story out of Washington.

But we noted that the groundhog predicted more cold weather. Didn't notice the society making any kind of predictions.

CITY CAMPAIGNS

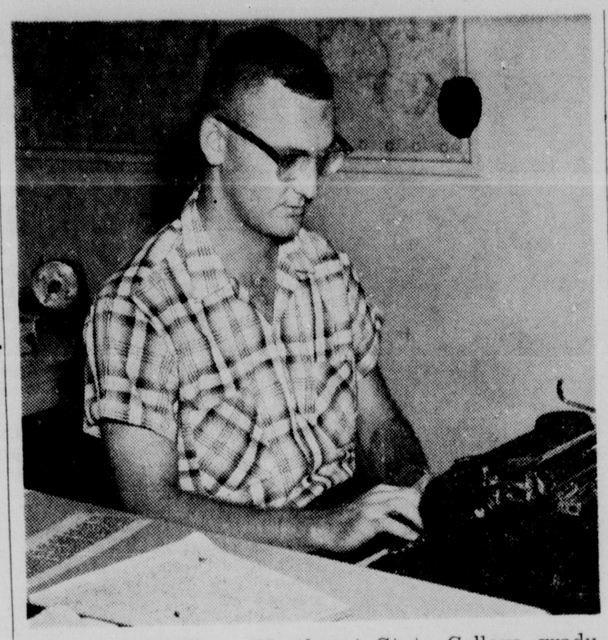
Campaigns for mayor and city council posts are picking up steam around the area. Particularly in West Monroe, Winnsboro, Bernice, Winnfield, Lake Providence, Rayville.

We've even got a correspondent tied up in one down in Winnfield. Ray Eagles is running for mayor.

CROSSED FINGERS

Although State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell was quoted as saying the state may be forced to close its general fund by March because of a cash shortage, Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily has assured that "there will be no curtailment of any state operation, no schools will be closed, and no hospitals closed."

Seems to be a paradox somewhere, but keep your fingers crossed and hope that Reily is right.



JIM CALHOUN, a Northeast State College graduate and former sports writer for the Morning World, has accepted a position as research assistant in the public relations bureau at LSU. Calhoun has completed requirements for his master's degree in journalism at LSU.

ABOARD TRAMP STEAMER

Arrest Of Seamen Ends Terror Reign

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A month long reign of terror aboard the Peruvian tramp steamer Dominga ended here Saturday with the arrest of two Peruvian seamen with police records.

Pedro Bejerran, 24, and Leon Ivan Asayaz, 25, were held in Orleans Parish prison for deportation. The ship's purser, Oswald Aguier, said Asayaz was wanted by Peruvian police for theft and Bejarran also had a police record.

The two were hired hurriedly at Callao, Peru, last month before the Dominga set sail with a cargo of scrap metal for New Orleans; Baton Rouge, La.; Houston, Tex., and eventually Japan.

Once aboard, they threatened crewmen with knives, exacted tribute and stole money, according to the ship's officers. Shortly before the men were arrested, they threatened the captain, Jose Marquel, and other officers with an axe.

Adding confusion to the situation, a third crewman, a former stowaway, Tomas Neyra Campos, about 25, jumped into the Mississippi River and fought rescue efforts for about two minutes before being pulled out of the water.

U.S. immigration officers, not realizing the background of the affair, brought Bejarran and Asayaz back to the Dominga Saturday. Aguier told the captain:

"I tell you, captain, if these men get aboard, I won't go aboard. That goes for all the officers of the ship."

The men were then returned to parish prison.

Honor Society Meeting Slated

The Honor Society at Northeast State will hold its annual open meeting Thursday, Feb. 8 at 7 p.m. in Biedenharn Hall Auditorium.

Mrs. Gloria Robertson May, a member of the foreign language department, will show slides taken during her stay in Europe where she spent a year studying at the Sorbonne in Paris.

DUBBED COSTLY INTERFERENCE

Ruston Chamber Hits Urban Plan

RUSTON (Special) — Ruston Chamber of Commerce board of directors and governmental affairs committee have gone on record to oppose the establishment of the Department of Urban Affairs and Housing, it was reported Saturday.

"The Chamber of Commerce feels that such a department would interfere with every city and community in the United States and that once established, within a few years it would cost $5 billion or more to operate," said Lundy Cavender, Chamber manager.

The resolution adopted said:

"The Chamber of Commerce of Ruston is strongly opposed to the proposed new Cabinet Department of Urban Affairs and Housing and resolve that the entire Louisiana Congressional Delegation of Senators and Representatives be so advised and requested to oppose this proposal with all means at their disposal.

The need for this new department has not been justified and if established would be an extremely dangerous advance in the centralization of more power in the Federal Government at the expense of the states.

"We hope that every citizen and voter of Ruston and Lincoln Parish will express his views to our senators and representatives on this issue."

IN SPECIAL MESSAGE

JFK To Outline Education Goals

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reportedly will stress to Congress Tuesday the importance of education to the nation's survival, without unveiling any new proposals.

Informed sources said Saturday the special education message will spell out in more detail the need as Kennedy sees it for programs already outlined in the State of the Union and budget messages.

Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff, whose department handles most of the educational programs, said in a speech last week that this country needs to recognize that "education is power." He said Russia already recognizes this value of education.

The President's budget message put estimated expenditure for existing and proposed education programs during the year beginning July 1 at $1.5 billion.

"The new and expanded programs for education proposed in the 1963 budget represent an important step toward the goal of giving every young American the opportunity for the best education commensurate with his abilities," Kennedy said in his budget message.

Persons familiar with the forthcoming message said it will carry new appeals for these programs:

—Aid for classroom construction and teacher salaries for public elementary and secondary schools, a three-year program estimated to cost $600 million the first year and a total of $2.1 billion. This legislation foundered in Congress last year, largely because of a controversy over aid to church schools. Its 1962 prospects are not regarded as bright.

—Loans of $300 million annually for five years to colleges and universities for construction of academic facilities, and provision for four-year scholarships and cost allowances to the institutions. The House has passed a bill to aid the institutions in construction programs but the scholarship program was omitted. The Senate is debating a bill containing both proposals.

—Improvement of educational quality through provision for financial aid for advanced study by teachers of elementary and secondary schools and for grants to colleges and universities to strengthen teacher education programs.

—Reduction of adult illiteracy through provision of grants and contracts to develop teaching materials and methods for use in instruction of adult illiterates.

—A 10-year program of grants for construction of medical, dental, osteopathic and public health teaching facilities along with scholarships for students in such schools and cost allowances to the schools.

—Additionally, the budget proposes increases of about $31 million in existing education programs of the Office of Education and increases in other education programs handled by the National Science Foundation and other agencies.

Catahoula Fund Drive Underway

JONESVILLE (Special) — The annual Catahoula Parish Heart Fund Drive is officially underway here according to Mrs. Doris Alexander, chairman of the parish council, a unit of the Louisiana Heart Association and sponsored by the Catahoula Parish Home Demonstration Council.

The quota for Catahoula parish has been set at $612.00.

HOSPITAL OPENS TODAY

Shrine To St. Jude Built By Laughter

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A $5-million hospital built by laughter opens here Sunday thus making Danny Thomas the happiest comedian around.

The handsome star-shaped structure is St. Jude Research Hospital.

Many helped in its creation. But in the main the hospital is the result of years of benefit shows staged by Thomas to raise cash.

Though it will be nonsectarian, the hospital will be—in the best sense of the word—Danny's shrine to St. Jude.

It wasn't originally planned that way, at least, not by Danny. When he offered a shrine to St. Jude back in 1937 in a prayer for success, he had something much more modest in mind.

Danny offered his desperation prayer at a time when he was barely able to scratch up cheap nightclub stints. A Roman Catholic, he turned to St. Jude, patron of hopeless causes.

Success came with such a rush, the outpouring of riches was so lavish that a modest shrine was clearly not in order. But what?

The Lebanese comedian with the noble nose was still pondering when he mentioned his problem to the late Samuel Cardinal Stritch about 10 years ago.

The cardinal seized the opportunity. He wasn't vague about shrines. A hospital would be a grand shrine, he told Danny, and Memphis would be a fine location. Work for it, he said, and you can do it.

So there stands the hospital, shining white. The dedication, said Danny, will involve "what St. Jude has done for me and what I'm trying to do for him."

In addition to the hospital, the funnyman founded the American Lebanese-Syrian Associated Charities. It will pay St. Jude's operating expenses—$1 million a year.

The hospital's research mission: find a cure for Leukemia and catastrophic children's diseases. Patients— there are now 36 beds—will be treated free.

Spade 1st Dirt For Headquarters

CHASE (Special) — Construction of District 58 headquarters of the Louisiana Department of Highways here is expected to be completed in four to six months.

Sen. J. C. Gilbert, Lantz Womack, Franklin Parish representative and Ray Burgess, director of the Louisiana Highways Commission, spaded the first shovelfuls of dirt at ground-breaking ceremonies last week.

Building of the headquarters will entail an expenditure of approximately $360,000. Contract for the job was awarded to Womack Construction Co., of Baton Rouge.

Solon Predicts South To Win Urban Battle

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—Rep. William Colmer, D-Miss., said Saturday the South will be solid for the first time since the civil rights legislation in opposing the creation of a urban affairs cabinet position.

Colmer, in a statement released here, said he believed the South would win the battle against the President's reorganization plan to create the post "after a close fight by a few votes in the House."

The outcome, he said, would depend on how firm the Republicans stand in their declared opposition.

President Kennedy wants to put Robert Weaver, a Negro, in the post.

Colmer said the racial factor is just one point in his opposition to creation of the post. "It is just another step in centralization of government.

"In the long run, the cities would be the losers and not the gainers because they would all look to Washington for help and guidance.

"It would be a further centralization, for federal bureauxracy would eventually control what has been historically a local responsibility."

U.N. Ferrying Forces To War On Marauders

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—United Nations planes Saturday flew 445 Ethiopian soldiers into Kindu in a buildup for a major offensive against maruading Gizengist troops and fanatical youth gangs terrorizing whites and natives in Kivu province and Northern Katanga for the past few months.

British Maj. Dick Lawson, meantime, flew into the town of Sentery in East Kasai province and brought out three European nuns and two priests, U. N. headquarters reported.

Lawson, dubbed "Richard the Lionhearted" by the British press for his bold forays into the lawless hinterland to rescue European priests, missionaries and nuns, was scheduled to fly back to Sentery Sunday to pick up two more priests.

Election Set

Officers will be elected at a 3 p.m. special meeting today of Monroe Temple No. One of Pythian Sisters at Castle Hall, 127½ St. John St., it was announced by Most Excellent Chief Mae Modes.

IN CARIBBEAN AREA

Military Chiefs Confer On Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Military means to help Latin-American nations ward off Cuban communism presumably had high priority in the Panama Canal Zone conference Saturday between Pentagon officials and U.S. military chiefs in the Caribbean area.

The intensive, one-day conference brought together Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Deputy Secretary Roswell Gilpatric, Assistant Secretary Paul Nitze, Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. Claude V. Ricketts, vice chief of naval operations, with Gen. Andrew O'Meara, head of the Unified Caribbean Command. The session had been planned for several weeks as a continuation of similar meetings with other area commanders.

But by coincidence Saturday's Panama session came hard on the heels of the Punta del Este foreign ministers' gathering at which Cuba was read out of the Organization of American States. And as the Panama meeting was under way, the White House announced a complete embargo on imports from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's country.

These two actions were designed to bolster the campaign to curb Castroism by diplomatic methods. Secretary of State Dean Rusk called it an effort to defeat subversion before it leads to military action.

However, beyond that remains the menace of Communist attemps to augment subversion by sending Red "liberation" forces to overthrow governments of some of the smaller nations. This threat has been aggravated by the mounting arsenal of Russian-made weapons being poured into Cuba.

The U.S. Navy normally has a dozen or more warships operating in the Caribbean, most of them at work on routine training in an area extending south and east of Guantanamo Bay, Cuba toward the Antilles. Ships there usually included a carrier, a number of destroyers, an occasional cruiser or submarine.

As concern over Cuban intervention in affairs of her neighbors has mounted, it has been necessary to step up patrol operations.

These surface and air patrols, so far as is known, are purely for observation to inform interested countries of any suspicious movements of shipping or aircraft in their direction. Unless there were a call for direct support from a threatened nation, no shooting would be expected.

The U.S. Air Force has bases in the Panama Canal Zone and in Puerto Rico from which observation patrols also can be made.

SHIP VISIT CANCELED

Sale Of Surplus Stockpile Urged

subcommittee on stockpiling, which Symington heads. Subsequently the White House said it was up to the Senate to decide which committee should do the job.

Byrd said his committee—which does not have authority to sponsor legislation—will continue to assemble and publish reports about the stockpile holdings. He has asked Kennedy to lift the secret classification which covers about $6 billion of the materials on hand.

"We intend to make all the information we have available to Sen. Symington's committee," Byrd said. "We want to be helpful in every way. There will be no conflict between us. What I want is results."

Byrd said it is his understanding that Kennedy has authority to sell nonagricultural products in the strategic stockpile. But he said he thinks Congress ought to direct the sale of the $3.4 billion in supplies Kennedy said have accumulated above national defense needs.

"If these materials are not needed, the President should move to sell them off in the best way possible," Byrd said. "Of course, this would have to be a gradual operation designed to have the least possible effect on the materials markets."

Byrd has been given confidential reports on the products which have been purchased, some of them under 10-year contracts made under previous administrations. But he said he has had to keep this information "locked up in a safe."

"There is no reason that I can see why the public should not have this information, just as the President said," Byrd added.

From other sources it was learned that more than $1 billion has been invested in two metals, one of which now is said to have little strategic value.

Kennedy called the stockpile program a "potential source of excessive and unconscionable profits." Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., a member of Byrd's committee, told the Senate Friday there had been "unwarranted windfall profits to certain mining companies" in connection with the program.

Byrd said his committee has been supplied with no information about profits. And Symington told reporters he has received no reports of dishonesty in connection with the program.

Youth Injured, Man Is Charged In Auto Crash

An 18-year-old youth suffered minor injuries in a two-car collision on Forsythe Avenue Saturday morning and charges were filed against the other driver.

Bobby Don Giddings, of 124 Selman Dr., was injured as he was driving east on Forsythe Avenue at its intersection with North Fourth Street.

Monroe police investigating the incident which occurred at 10:25 a.m. charged the driver of the other vehicle involved, Jack O. May, 48 of 1908 Spencer St., Monroe, with reckless driving.

According to investigation, the two vehicles collided when May made a left turn off Forsythe Street onto North Fourth Street.

Congratulations

Best wishes are in order to Maj. J. B. Hennon, supervisor of maintenance of West Monroe's police department, as he completes 20 years service on the force.

Major Hennon was surprised yesterday with a coffee and cake party in his honor in the department lounge. Mayor J. Allan Norris and city Judge John McCormick joined his fellow officers in congratulating Maj. Hennon.

Special congratulations were extended by Police Chief Jeff Caldwell. And Jes' Ramblin' also offers warmest thanks for a job well done.

affected area had endorsed the south location."

"We feel that we can no longer be affiliated with an organization which acts contrary to the wishes of our members which affects them and not the whole state," Boyd said.

"Other parish units have also withdrawn their affiliation from the parent organization," Boyd said.

It was also stated that Catahoula, Caldwell and LaSalle Parishes plan to organize an independent area wildlife association.

"We, especially in Catahoula Parish, feel that we have not been treated fairly by any means by the Louisiana Wildlife Federation," Boyd said. "We feel that they have taken our membership money and used it to fight the things we feel that is most beneficial for our particular area," he added.

of American States is set for Wednesday. The United States and various other members will press then for speedy action to devise an antisubversion strategy for protection of Red-menaced countries, particularly those in the Caribbean area.

The ban on imports was a major blow to the Cuban cigar manufacturing industry at Tampa, Fla. Cuban tobacco constituted about 90 per cent of the $35 million of U.S. purchases from Cuba last year.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg will provide all help possible to the "6,000 or 7,000 people involved in manufacturing cigars made from Cuban leaf."

The embargo announcement made formally by Salinger shortly after noon declared that "On humanitarian grounds exports of certain foodstuffs, medicines and medical supplies from the United States to Cuba would be excepted from this embargo."

Last year Cuba bought about $15 million worth of foods and medicines from the United States. Toward the end of the year its rate of purchases declined. It bought less food and more medicine and hospital supplies. Types of food shipped to Cuba by U.S. suppliers included wheat, beans and rice.

State Department officials decided that Cuban purchases in the United States dwindled because Castro has just about exhausted his foreign money supply. In other words, as long ago as last fall he was beginning to run short of dollars.

One reason he was beginning to run short, officials said, was that he was spending dollars on a relatively large scale for pro-Communist, anti-American propaganda, for Communist agitation by Cuban diplomats in other American countries, for visits of other Latin-American citizens to Cuba and similar activities. These add up to what Rusk earlier this week termed a "mounting Communist offensive in our hemisphere."

The foreign ministers' meeting at Punta del Este, Uruguay, from which Rusk returned Thursday, made a basic policy decision to put up a fight against Castro's cold war campaign.

The President, in proclaiming the embargo, said he was acting in accord with the recognition at Punta del Este of "the subversive offensive of Sino-Soviet communism with which the government of Cuba of the dollar exchange it has been deriving from sales of its products in the United States.

"The loss of this income will reduce the capacity of the Castro regime, intimately linked with the Sino-Soviet bloc, to engage in acts of aggression, subversion, or other activities endangering the security of the United States and other nations of the hemisphere."

State School Deficits Pay Is Defended

pick up the tab when they ran short.

State audits so far report "excessive" state reimbursements of $41,092 to the city of Bogalusa school board, $4,896 to the East Feliciana Parish School Board, and have called for the Iberville and LaSalle school boards to return to the state a total of $100,000 in what the audits termed overpayments on their deficits.

In commenting on this, Benton said, "each school board or its representative can, I feel sure, reconcile any difference between the figure it submitted with the findings of the audit report.

"The difference shown between the audit report and the notarized statements submitted by the parish and city school boards do not revolve around right or wrong, but rather on bookkeeping procedures which can involve differences of opinion."

Johansen Rites Slated Today; Former Resident

Funeral services will be held here Sunday for Mrs. Geraldine Johansen, 39-year-old New Orleans resident and formerly of Monroe, who died Thursday in a New Orleans hospital.

Mrs. Johansen who has lived in New Orleans for the past 15 years, was a member of the Calvary Baptist Church.

Services will be conducted from the chapel of Peters Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Sunday with the Rev. L. L. Morris officiating. Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery under the direction of Peters Funeral Home.

She is survived by her father, W. C. Roby, Monroe; two daughters, Mrs. Donald Appel, Tampa, Fla., and Mrs. Charles Cloyd, Houston, Tex.; three sisters, Mrs. Sherman Martin, Monroe, Mrs. Dorothy Beach, Monroe, and Mrs. James A. Doyle, Yonkers, N. Y.; two brothers, David F. Roby, Wichita, Kans., and C. K. Roby, Merriam, Kans.; and one grandchild.

Serving as pallbearers will be Ronny and Jerry Thomas, Billy and Bobby Clark, Joe Thurman and Vernon Tullos.

smell unbearable, but the noisy creatures are damaging young pine trees and shrubs in the wooded spot, according to the residents.

West Monroe police had received complaints all week from the residents and tried to do something about it yesterday afternoon.

Around dusk, a party composed of approximately 15 West Monroe policemen, auxiliary policemen, sheriff's department deputies, citizens and headed by Police Chief Jeff W. Caldwell and Sheriff Bailey Grant started shooting at the blackbirds.

Sgt. Dick Bell of the sheriff's department said the dead birds were "falling like flies," and instead of flying away, would come right back and land in the same trees. "There's just no getting rid of them," Bell, who lives on McMillan Road, said.

The party met around 5 p.m., when the birds begin coming in to roost and shot at them until dusk. Chief Caldwell said they had hoped to scare them away. He also planned to set up flares throughout the area in hopes that the light would frighten the pests away.

A group of trustees from the West Monroe jail accompanied the party and according to one source, picked up two 100-pound burlap bags full of the dead birds, and still probably missed some.

Mrs. Dewitt Pickens at 202 Su-quaknatch-ah Ln. said the noisy creatures fly away every day around daybreak and are usually all gone by 7 a.m. But nightfall finds them, en masse, on their way back to roost in the low, wooded area which covers approximately an acre of land.

"I've never seen as many birds in all my life," she said adding that "they look like a black cloud coming over."

They are knocking pine needles and pine cones off the trees, besides breaking twigs and limbs from other bushes, according to the residents. And the ground under the trees is a "sight to see — and smell," according to residents.

Bell said the birds have been encamped in the area for approximately the last five or six days.

Since Saturday's shoot seems to have been unsuccessful as far as discouraging the birds from their roosting place, police say they might try the same thing again Monday.

As far as the people living in the area are concerned, it's "open season" on blackbirds.

Blackbird pie may have been a delicacy back in the king's time, but Mother Goose couldn't "give" these residents one.

NLSC Annual Gets Book's Recognition

The Chacahoula, Northeast Louisiana State College yearbook, has won recognition in the Collegiate Specimen Book of Design issued currently by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas.

Pages from various yearbooks published in 1960 and 1961 are included in the volume with a view toward helping schools with ideas in planning and laying out the dummy of high school, college and university annuals.

Ten full pages from the 1960 Chacahoula are represented in the publishing company's Collegiate Design Book. The number is the largest selected from school yearbooks.

The publication includes pages and designs from yearbooks of such schools as the United States Naval Academy, Ohio State University, Southern Methodist University, Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, Duquesne University, New Mexico State University, Emory University, Memphis, Mississippi State University, Kansas State College, Mississippi State University, West Virginia Wesleyan, University of Houston, Drake University, Colorado State College, University of Southwestern, Centenary College, Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Southeastern State College, University of Corpus Christi and others.

The volume contains samples of title pages, forewords, dedications, campus views, organizations, sports, division pages, class sections, favorites, administration and faculty pages, advertising and other sections of yearbooks.

Gregory Moreau Succumbs; Rites Remain Pending

Funeral services will be held in Marksville for Gregory Dale Moreau, 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Moreau, of 5317 DeSiard St., Monroe, who died Saturday after a one-day illness.

Time for the services, to be held in the chapel of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home in Marksville, will be announced later. Burial will be in Christ, the King Cemetery in Simmesport.

Survivors other than the parents include paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kermitt T. Moreau, of Simmesport; and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Moreau, also of Simmesport.

Local arrangements for the funeral were handled by Hixson Brothers Funeral Home here.

4 Are Booked On DWI Charges By Local Police

Four persons were booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages by local police late Friday night and early Saturday.

Three were apprehended by West Monroe officers and one by Monroe police.

Booked at 10:40 p.m. Friday in West Monroe was James L. Laster, 26, of 627 MacArthur St., Shreveport. At 1:05 a.m. Saturday, John L. Person, 39-year-old Monroe Negro of 704 McGee St., was booked for DWI and reckless driving by West Monroe police. They took Parker J. Long, 38 of 401 Gulpha St., West Monroe, into custody at 2:50 a.m. on the DWI charge.

In Monroe, police booked Negro Mack Will, 39 of 200 North 10th St., for DWI, reckless driving and no driver's license at 12:30 a.m. Saturday.

Sen. Case Calls For Showdown

sign of budging. They are to meet again this week.

The inquiry is in recess.

Case told a reporter "the subcommittee in self-respect will have to assert the right of Congress to ask questions of members of the executive branch of the government, in my view."

He said that if the officials don't want to answer, they could then claim "executive privilege" — which McNamara has said he does not want done — "and the subcommittee then should determine whether the claim was properly taken."

Case said refusal to accept such a claim, and a continued deadlock, could bring contempt action by Congress.

He said he is not disturbed because a contempt citation, if voted by Congress, would go to the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy for determination whether it merited grand jury consideration.

"That is one of the entanglements that comes from that appointment," Case said, "but I am not ready to assume the attorney general would fail to do his duty just because his brother happens to be president."

McNamara reportedly was warned in his unsuccessful peace talks with Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the subcommittee chairman and Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., that it would reflect on Kennedy if the secretary stuck to his refusals. But Case said he doubts McNamara would have taken his position without prior consultation with the White House.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a spokesman for conservative Republicans but not a subcommittee member, said in a separate interview: "I rather admire McNamara for standing behind his people, but in this instance he is mistaken."

Goldwater said he wasn't accusing anyone of disloyalty, adding he believes an investigation would show that most of the changes in speeches came from State Department people "utterly afraid of nuclear war or any war—they fear hard decisions and hard answers."

Top military officers have testified in the hearings that none of them felt he had been muzzled, as Thurmond alleged. But a number of them complained that "nit-picking" censorship had stricken or softened some anti-Communist phrases in their speech texts.

Presidential directives, virtually unchanged since 1951, call for advance clearance of public statements by government personnel to make sure they don't conflict with national policy.

U.S. Cigar Industry Hit By Embargo

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Tampa cigar industry is like a groggy fighter — watching the knockout punch being delivered but unable to do anything about it.

This sums up the effect of President Kennedy's total embargo on imports of Cuban goods—including approximately $15 million worth of Cuban tobacco annually.

Reputations of Tampa cigar manufacturers are built on fine Havana cigars. Without Cuban tobacco leaf they cannot produce their high quality product.

There are 35 large and small cigar manufacturers listed in Tampa employing approximately 6,000 persons. The majority are of Cuban descent.

Tampa buyers have pushed purchases of Cuban leaf ever since embargo talk started about 18 months ago. They have stockpiled a supply figured to last six months to a year.

"The industry will regulate production to make best use of stockpiles," said James Corral, cigar manufacturing executive.

The industry appears to be in a state of confusion. Hurried conferences were called among leaders of the industry on the heels of the President's announcement.

However, no one would comment on plans for the future of the manufacturing trade.

Corral did predict that if the embargo lasts more than two years the industry probably will suffer permanent damage.

Cubans Will Hear New Castro Blast

HAVANA (AP)—Scores of sound trucks blared out a summons to Cubans Saturday to turn out Sunday to hear Prime Minister Fidel Castro deliver a counterpunch to the declarations of the Punta del Este conference—and presumably to the new U.S. embargo against Cuban imports.

Cubans were told to rally in Jose Marti Plaza and adopt by acclamation Castro's second declaration of Havana.

The first was on Sept. 2, 1960, in answer to the San Jose declaration of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers appealing for solidarity against communism. At that time Castro dramatically tore up the San Jose declaration, rejected the Monroe Doctrine, announced diplomatic relations with Red China and declared his reliance on Soviet missiles.

'PARADISE' RUNS AGAIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Volcanic eruptions and tumbling waterfalls are to be in action for a second season in "Paradise Island," producer Guy Lombardo's summer spectacle at Jones Beach.

The show was originally slated for a single season, but the 1961 box office gross was the highest in the amphitheater's 10-year history. The repeat run begins June 27.

Congo Leader, Soviet To Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula arranged Saturday to talk with Soviet U.N. Delegate Valerian A. Zorin. But he said he was still against the Security-Council debate on the Congo that Zorin initiated.

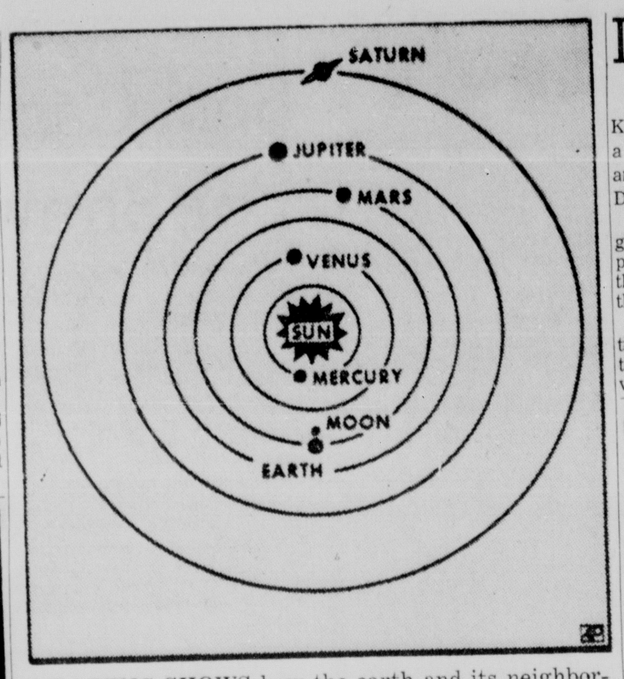
Arriving here to confer with acting Secretary-General U Thant, Adoula told reporters no council meeting on the Congo was necessary now.

He will receive Zorin, a deputy foreign minister, in his New York hotel suit Sunday noon. But he said he did not know why Zorin had asked to see him. He remarked with a smile that Zorin "may even say, "Excuse me," for requesting the council meeting.

Zorin made the request Jan. 25, saying the council should do something about the continued secession of Katanga Province.

SNOW PARALYZES TRAFFIC

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) —Four days of snow have paralyzed this capital. The fall, which reached a depth of more than three feet at some places, caused all streetcars and buses to stop Saturday and Belgrade Airport was shut down.



DRAWING SHOWS how the earth and its neighboring planets will appear in a relatively straight line Monday in their orbits around the sun. The planets, usually spread in random orbital positions in the solar system, will be lined up in this manner for the first time since 1821. The moon, between the earth and sun, will produce an eclipse shadow on earth from Borneo eastward to the western coast of the United States. The astronomical phenomenon has been interpreted as a sign of doomsday by astrologers in India, where mass prayer and near panic prevail in some areas. Chart is necessarily not drawn to scale. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

CELESTIAL SPECTACLE

Astrologers Split In Dire Forecasts

By ANDREW MEISELS
Associated Press Writer

In case you haven't noticed, doomsday is near.

That, at any rate, is the prediction of a group of Indian astrologers who have forecast a variety of dire events for either Sunday or Monday.

But whether the earth is in turmoil by the time you read this, astrologers certainly are. From the United States to India, they are in violent disagreement as to just what Sunday will portend.

To give you an idea of the range of their disagreement, one group has said the human race may end by Monday, while another says the earth may be in for a new golden age.

Astronomers think all of the astrologers are starstruck. They make it their business to observe the heavens from a purely detached point of view, and they see no fateful meaning in the way the planets are lined up.

That, by the way, is the cause of all this excitement. Although you won't be able to see anything special in the heavens unless you happen to be in the area of Borneo, the five visible planets are putting on quite a celestial spectacle.

Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are all lined up comparatively close together with the sun and the moon. In Borneo and out at sea in the Pacific, this lineup will cause an eclipse of the sun Monday.

Astronomers think all of this is very interesting, and several of them have gone on expeditions to New Guinea to watch the show. But they say it's all predictable and happens with a fair amount of regularity about 10 times every thouand years. The last time the line-up occurred was in 1821.

Astrologers — who believe the movements of the heavenly bodies affect human affairs — are considerably more impressed.

Last month, Tahahlita Mantzurani said she and a group of Californians moved to the Arizona mountain town of Cleator because astrologers designated it as one of 12 places in the world to be spared catastrophe. She has since moved away and others in the group, known as Understanding Inc., deny that they expect any dire event, explaining that they settled in Cleator only to retire.

U.S. Reports Laos Battle Tempo Gains

LUANG PRABANG, Laos (UPI) —American military advisers who braved a Communist mortar barrage to land at Nam Tha said Saturday the stiffest infantry fighting in a week had broken out 6,000 yards from the northwestern Laos defense bastion.

Government forces so far have been unable to silence the mortars which have been firing on the Nam Tha airstrip for the last 72 hours. T-6 fighter-trainers tried to knock them out with rockets Saturday but failed.

The Royal Laotian government called for a cease-fire at Nam Tha, 90 miles northwest of Luang Prabang Saturday and said if the rebels cease firing right-wing Premier Prince Boun Oum will begin the peace talks he called off Friday.

(The Chinese Communist New China news agency, quoting the clandestine rebel radio "the voice of Laos," said Saturday the rebels had termed "unacceptable and unreasonable" a Lao government demand the rebels lift the siege of Nam Tha as the price of peace talks.)

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, the right-wing strongman of Laos, said members of the International Control Commission flew to rebel headquarters Saturday to deliver the cease-fire appeal to "neutralist" Prinec Souvanna Phouma and propose the start of talks on Sunday.

A Royal government communique said the Communist-led rebels were shelling Nam Tha with 85 millimeter cannons and that the airstrip was being bombarded by various types of mortar fire. It said most women and children had fled to the surrounding hills.

American military advisers indicated the shelling was far less serious than reported by the royal government. Two planes flew in today with U.S. advisers and food for the defense garrison. Also flying in was Maj. Gen. Bounleut Sanichang, royal army commander-in-chief. Neither plane was damaged during the stay on the runway.

Five Are Killed In Home Fire

THREE SQUARE HOLLOW, Pa., (UPI)—A father, his three children and a housekeeper were killed Saturday when fire swept the self-built home they moved into only a few months ago after their first house was destroyed by fire.

Firemen found the bodies of the five victims in the ruins at the rear of the one-story wood house about 10 miles east of Shippensburg.

They were identified as Joseph Finkey, 49, a tree trimmer; his children, James, 16; Dixie, 14, and June,13, and Marion Long, of Harrisburg, a housekeeper who reportedly had been engaged to Finkey.

Du Pont Bill Signed Into Law By JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy signed into law Saturday a bill to ease the tax impact of an antitrust decision against the Du Pont Co.

At the same time, the President gave his backing to Justice Department efforts to keep control of the General Motors Corp. from the Du Pont family.

Du Pont had urged passage of the bill. Opponents had argued that it would abort the antitrust victory won by the government against the giant company.

The Supreme Court has ruled that Du Pont must get rid of its 63 million shares in GM, worth $3.5 billion. How this is to be done is still pending before a U.S. District Court in Chicago. A decision is expected late this month.

The Senate passed the bill by voice vote Jan. 23. The House had passed the bill last year.

The effect of the new law is to reduce by more than half the tax bite on Du Pont stockholders who would receive the 63 million GM shares under the company's planned distribution.

Without the new law, the stockholders would have had to pay at full income tax rates on the market value of the GM shares. This total tax could run to more than $1 billion.

The new law cuts this to about $470 million by treating transfer of GM stock to Du Pont stockholders as a return of capital.

A stockholder would pay no tax on the GM shares unless they were worth more than he paid for his Du Pont stock. In that case, he would pay a capital gains tax on the difference.

These rates are half the normal income tax rate up to a 25 per cent ceiling.

Kennedy said in a statement that despite the signing of the law:

"The court should not be influenced in its determination as to what relief is appropriate to carry out the decision of the Supreme Court, and the Department of Justice should not be prejudiced in any way in its efforts to enforce the antitrust decision of the Supreme Court."

The Justice Department is asking that the Christiana Securities Corp., more than two-thirds of whose shares are owned by members of the Du Pont family, be required to sell any GM stock distributed to it.

Thieves Take $1 Million In Jewels, Art

GROSSETO, Italy (UPI) — Thieves chopped a hole in the door of an unguarded Etruscan museum during the night and sole a 2,500-year-old gold necklace and other jewels and art treasures valued at more than $1 million, police reported Saturday.

It was one of the biggest hauls in the series of daring thefts which have stripped museums and private homes in Europe and the United States of more than $8 million worth of art treasures in the past year.

The robbery was discovered Saturday morning when the museum guardian reported for duty. He found a huge hole in the front door of the museum which is located on the ground floor of a downtown school building.

Missing were the filigreed gold necklace, Etrusan rings, earrings, and other gems and 15 Roman bronze statuettes.

Experts said the necklace, while aercheologically priceless, had a commercial value of about $960,000.

The necklace was about 12 inches long and adorned with pendants. Museum officials said it was made in the 5th or 6th century B.C. and was sold to the city of Grosseto by a private collector in the year 1885.

It was the third big robbery of art treasures in Italy since the first of the year. On New Year's eve, $160,000 worth of paintings were stolen from the home of a wealthy dentist in Bergamo. Early this morning, 26 painting valued at $500,000 were stolen from a villa near Como.

The rash of thefts began last Feb. 22 when a portrait by Bellini was taken from a museum in Dublin. It was later returned, however.

But there has been no sign of:

—59 paintings by Utrillo and Matisse, valued at $2 million, stolen from the Announciade museum in St. Tropez, France, on July 26.

—10 modern paintings, including works by Picasso and Miro, valued at $375,000, stolen from the home of industrialist G. David Thompson in Pittsburgh on July 29.

GET FREEDOM RINGS

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—One hundred thousand rings inscribed with the Chinese characters for freedom—Tzu Yu—are being delivered to the people of Communist China as Chinese New Year gifts. They are being sent in balloon-borne parcels from the Nationalist-held offshore islands. The Chinese New Year is Monday.

Damage To Citrus Trees Estimated

WESLACO, Tex. (AP)—A citrus expert estimated Saturday that 85 per cent of the Lower Rio Grande Valley citrus trees escaped damage during the early January freeze.

The estimate by Dr. P. W. Rohrbaugh, director of the Texas A&I Citrus Center here, was the first expert opinion given on tree damage since the freezing temperatures hit the area Jan. 9.

Roll Call Vote On Recent Bills

SENATE

On Mansfield, D-Mont., motion, adopted 61-25, upholding referral to Judiciary Committee of the first civil rights bill of the session, one dealing with literacy tests for voting: For—Ellender, Long.

On confirmation, 71-12, of nomination of John A. McCone of California to be director of Central Intelligence Agency: For—Long. Not voting—Ellender.

HOUSE

On passage, 319-79, of bill authorizing federal aid for expanding college and university facilities: For—Boggs, Morrison, Thompson, Willis. Against—Passman, Waggonner. Not voting—Hebert, McSween. (Hebert was paired for passage).

Suspect Held For Kidnaping, Torturing Girl

CONCORD, Mass. (UPI) — A near hysterical 12-year-old girl told police Saturday she was kidnaped and tortured and then left tied to a tree half-nude in subfreezing weather.

A man free on bond on two previous sex offense cases was held as the girl's attacker.

Two state troopers were questioning Frederick W. Rodgers Jr., 28, of North Andover, Mass., alongside a highway here early Saturday when the girl, half nude and hysterical, staggered out of nearby woods.

A widespread search for the youngster had been underway after she failed to return home on an errand for her mother late Friday.

She said she had been forced into an automobile and driven a few miles to a wooded area. She claimed she had been tied, stripped and burned repeatedly with lighted cigarettes and was subjected to several indignities. Police said she was not raped.

PILOT HAS OPERATION

FBI Requests Public Aid In Tracking Down Bombers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation appealed to the public Saturday for help in tracking down terrorists who bombed the homes of two ministers while they spoke on the threat of "the radical right."

Police Chief William H. Parker issued a detailed list of fragments from the two homemade bombs which he hoped might uncover where components for the explosive devices were made or purchased. Police crime laboratory men examining the fragments reported the bombs were identical.

The blasts Thursday night, in which no one was injured, touched off indignant protests throughout the nation, from high figures on both sides of the political fence. Among those deploring the incident were senators of both parties, California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and leaders of right wing groups.

Kennedy ordered an investigation by his office and the FBI to determine whether a federal violation had been committed.

Some of the most outspoken criticism of the attacks came from extreme right wing groups. But other leaders, particularly among liberals, were not so convinced that the extreme conservative movement did not share in responsibility for the attacks.

The Project Alert anti-Communist school, one right wing group, offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the bombers. A spokesman for the organization said its members deplored such "cowardly tactics."

A leader for the right wing John Birch Society said no member of that group "believes in this sort of thing." The California Minutemen, a militant right wing guerrilla organization, said it abhorred the bombings at the homes of the Revs. John Simmons and Brooks Walker.

Meanwhile, police maintained an around-the-clock guard at the homes of the two clergymen and actress Marsha Hunt. The explosions occurred while the ministers and the actress took part in a forum, "radical right—threat to democracy," at a West Los Angeles Synagogue.

Miss Hunt speculated that the reason her home was not bombed was because the terrorists did not know where she lived.

The blasts caused minor damage, and although the families of the ministers, including a total of four children, were at home at the time of the explosions, there were no injuries.

CARS HIT SNOWPLOWS

TORONTO (AP)—The Ontario Highway Department reported Saturday it was alarmed by the number of motorists who are crunching into snowplows.

M. L. OWENS JR., left, and Garland D. Shell, vice-president and president, respectively, of the Northeast Louisiana State College Scholarship Foundation, study a letter the Foundation has mailed to scholarships for outstanding students who want to attend Northeast.

FOUNDATION MOVE

NLSC Scholarship Drive Is Started

The Northeast Louisiana State College Scholarship Foundation has started a drive to secure funds to aid outstanding students to attend Northeast State, Garland D. Shell, Foundation president, has announced.

Recently incorporated in Monroe by outstanding businessmen, the Foundation was formed to encourage students of unusual ability to attend Northeast.

To carry out its goal, the Foundation seeks to encourage a widespread interest in promoting college attendance of all outstanding high school graduates and to obtain funds for scholarships for outstanding students who want to attend Northeast.

The foundation encourages the establishment of memorials in honor of teachers, students, and other persons who have made significant contributions to the general welfare of Louisiana.

Foundation brochures are now available from officers or members of the Board of Directors or from Northeast Louisiana State College Scholarship Foundation, Northeast Station, Monroe, Louisiana.

Directors are James W. Beaver, president of the Northeast Alumni Association; Conway E. Crossland Jr., president of Central Savings Bank & Trust Co.; John C. Loftin, president of Friendly Finance Company; Jack Masur, president of The Palace; M. L. Owens Jr., president of West Monroe Chamber of Commerce; Fred Petty, Insurance executive; J. W. Roberson, president of the First National Bank of West Monroe; Garland Shell, president of Shell Advertising Agency; R. Lee Vanderpool Jr., president of Ouachita National Bank; and Dr. George T. Walker, president of Northeast Louisiana State College.

Fund Campaign Leader Picked

JONESVILLE (Special) — Mrs. Raymond Mason of Jonesville has been named Catahoula Parish chairman of the 1962 Red Cross Fund Campaign.

Mrs. Mason is the newly elected president of the Jonesville Woman's Club, in addition to serving on various civic committees.

She met with local Red Cross officials during last week to outline plans for the 1962 fund campaign, which is expected to begin on March 1.

"Our goal this year is not excessive for Catahoula Parish, and it can easily be reached if everyone cooperates," she said.

21st Anniversary

JONESVILLE (Special) — The 21st anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. J. O. McNair of the First Baptist Church of Jonesville, will be observed Sunday with a dinner at the church given in his honor, according to Barney Cain, chairman of the Board of Deacons.

CHARLES WALKER III

Chuck Walker Wins Award In Cub Activities

Cub Scout Charles Sam "Chuck" Walker III will receive the Catholic Church's highest Cub Scout honor award at the 8:30 a.m. Mass at Our Lady of Fatima Church in Monroe today.

Chuck is a member of the pack 30, which is sponsored by the church.

The "Parvule Dei medal, which means "little ones of God", is awarded by Catholic Churches to cubs for "advancement in religious knowledge and spiritual formation." The purpose is to make Cub Scouts become aware of God's presence in the scouts' daily life."

The ceremony, blessing and presentation of this award is open to the public. Members of Cub Pack 30 will attend the service in a body in recognition of their fellow cub and of Boy Scout Week.

South Dakotans Set Program On State Facilities

Arthur Thornton, public relations coordinator for the South Dakota Department of Highways, and Mrs. Thornton will present a program on the facilities being offered throughout the state for visitors Monday night.

The program, which will feature color slides and a brief description of the area, will be in the Ballroom of the Virginia Hotel, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Thornton's appearance in Monroe is part of a tour of much of the South, including Louisiana, Florida and Texas, as well as one stop in Phoenix, Ariz.

Members of the Monroe Rotary Club have received special invitations to the program, at which time the men and their families will be invited to visit the state while enroute to or from the annual Rotary conference in June.

Among the points of interest to be pointed out, Thornton said, will be scenes from the eastern part of the state, known as the pheasant capital of the nation, Mount Rushmore and the four hewn figures of Washington, Jefferson, Roosevelt and Lincoln; the corn palace at Mitchell and many hunting and fishing facilities.

Orvel Goodwin, 59, Succumbs; Services Monday

Funeral services are scheduled 10 a.m. Monday at Blackwell and Golden Funeral Home for Orvel J .Goodwin, 59, of Bastrop, son of a Monroe woman, who died Friday night in Morehouse General Hospital.

The Rev. Rawls Pierce will officiate at services, and burial will be in Christ Church Cemetery.

A native of Lynn, Ark., Mr. Goodwin had been a resident of Morehouse Parish for about 50 years.

Survivors are his widow, of Bastrop; mother, Mrs. John Goodwin, Monroe; one daughter, Mrs. Alice Marie Wendecker, Los Angeles, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Henderson Day, Hodge; Mrs. June McGough, New Orleans; one brother, Charlie H. Goodwin, Lake Charles; six grandchildren.

Road Sections Relocation Set

JONESVILLE (Special) — A state highway survey crew is scheduled to begin work on the relocation of two sections of road between Enterprise and Rosefield in Catahoula parish within 10 days, Sen. J. C. Gilbert has announced.

Gilbert said that two sections of the road were in bad shape when he inspected the road following a plea for state assistance from A. W. Price, a school bus operator who transports children over the route.

The two sections of the road are impossible to maintain in that the road is too close to the banks of the Ouachita river, causing the road bed to slide and crack, it was stated. The road is a state highway in the hill section of Catahoula parish and is of gravel construction.

Monroe Family Owns

Kissin' Cat And Bird

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

"The Owl and the Pussy-Cat went to sea
"In a beautiful pea-green boat
"Pussy said to the Owl,
" 'you elegant fowl
'How charmingly sweet you sing.
'O let us be married — too long we have tarried:
'But what shall we do for a ring?' "

(From Edward Lear's poem "The Owl and the Pussy-Cat")

Impossible? Maybe. But in Monroe, there's a cat and a parakeet who kiss.

The J. W. Jackson family, 1407 S. First St., own the lovebirds (?)

AFFECTIONATE PECK

Tiger, a six-months-old feline, with a 'Jimmy Durante' nose, climbs all over the cage occupied by Pepper, aged two, then sits by the side, waiting. Eventually, Pepper scuttles to the bars and pecks the feline on the nose or mouth.

"That bird can mew like a cat," giggled Barbara, seven, youngest of the three Jackson children.

"When the bird gets excited and makes a lot of noise," said Mrs. Jackson, "Tiger comes running."

UNCATLIKE

"Tiger doesn't act like a cat," said Danny, 12. "He wades in water and plays with the dogs.

"Once he got into the culvert and wouldn't come out. We called Bullet (one of the family's two dogs) to 'go get him.' Bullet went in and pushed Tiger out with his nose."

The cat, "loves to ride in the car. He'd rather ride than sit in the house," revealed Sandra, 10. "When he's out in the yard, Kookie (the other dog) chases him and plays too rough."

While Pepper occupies a permanent site in the kitchen, Tiger has the run of the house, watches television with the children, even sleeps with them.

"They all want him to sleep with them," says Jackson, "so they have to take turns. Whenever I come in from work, there's the cat under the covers with one of them."

TIGER ZEROES in for sneak attack on the dog's tail — but Bullet looks around in time. Cat and canine play together.

Of Deportation

Lucky's Version

EDITOR'S NOTE: Before he died Jan. 26, "Lucky" Luciano revealed his latest version of why he was released from a long prison sentence in America and deported to relative freedom in Italy. His claim (one of a number made without much substantiation in his later years of exile): He had threatened to reveal "a book full of stuff" on an honorable public servant." This and Lucky's eyewitness story of the gangland "ride" he was taken on in 1929 are reported in the following dispatch by UPI sports columnist Oscar Fraley, author of the book "The Untouchables" and its new sequel "The Last of the Untouchables" (Popular Library). Luciano in 1960 granted Fraley one of the most extensive interviews he ever gave outside the DA's office. Fraley spent four days with him preparing a movie script on his life.

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press International

They called him "Lucky," but Charley Luciano didn't think he was.

Nor did he believe it was a gangland "ride" he survived to earn that pseudonym.

"How can you be lucky when you can't go home?" he asked wistfully, squinting into the soft September sunlight.

"And, as for that ride, it wasn't any gang job. They don't miss. It was the cops."

SPOKE SLOWLY

He spoke slowly, measuring his words in a gentle voice which was pure New York. The thick black hair was flecked heavily with white at the temples and the deep brown eyes peered almost benignly through glasses rimmed in white gold. His clothes were well cut and worn with an air of elegance.

But over it all you could feel the hunger for "home" and you wondered how it all had come to pass for Salvatore Lucania, alias Charley Luciano, alias "Charley Lucky" — gambler, gangster, overlord of the narcotics racket, imprisoned as a white slaver and, ultimately, deported

"I was born in Lercara Friddi, a sulphur mining town in Sicily," he shrugged. "My father slaved to get us all to America but the streets weren't full of gold, like he thought. He made seven dollars a week and we lived in a cold water flat. When I was in fifth grade I left school to get a job for $2 a week. One night, going home with my two bucks, I saw a crap game. I won $40. I never went back to school."

KNEW DETAILS

We rode up the fire-scarred flank of Mount Vesuvius to a little town which almost had been wiped out by an eruption. The caretaker of the church there greeted Luciano effusively and "Charley Lucky" proudly led the way through a still unfinished parish hospital he was "helping them to build.

"I know every nail," he said. "There isn't much else to do."

You had to wonder. Because back in Washington they said he still controlled the world narcotics racket and Interpol watched him constantly.

"Bunk," he snorted scornfully when I asked him about that. "They got nobody else, so I'm there pigeon. But I'm clean."

But he had run it?

"Somebody has to run everything." He said, rubbing his nose with a thumb in a typical gesture. "But I swear to this. I never had anything to do with white slavery. They couldn't get me on anything else, so they framed me on that. It was a lousy rap."

Compulsory prostitution was the charge brought by a young racket-buster named Thomas E. Dewey. Luciano, who by then had been arrested 25 times in 20 years (and convicted only once — a teen-age conviction for possession of narcotics — drew a Sing Sing sentence of 30 to 50 years in 1936.

SERVED TIME

Luciano had served nine and a half years when Dewey, by then governor of New York, commuted the sentence on condition he be deported and not attempt to return to America.

We were at the trotting races outside of Naples, where a hundred people whispered "information" into his ear but he never caught a winner, when I asked him how he got out of prison in 1946 — even by deportation. The current story was that from his cell he aided naval intelligence by organizing waterfront hoodlums into an anti-espionage and anti-sabotage ring.

"Yeah, the Navy sent an intelligence officer to see me in prison and I got some of the boys together and told them what to do," he nodded. "They even let the boys come up and see me in prison for instructions. But that wasn't the reason I got out.

"You know how I got out?" he grunted. "This is the truth. I told my lawyers to get together everything they could on a certain man. They had a book full of stuff. Then my lawyer walked in, threw it on his desk, and told him if I wasn't deported, anything to get out of prison, this would be made public information.

VIEW

"They think I was bad," he grunted. "They should have seen what we had on him, this honorable public servant."

On the boat to Capri we talked about the movie and I asked him why he wanted to make it.

"Money, mostly," he pursed his lips. "They all think I'm loaded. I'm not, no matter what they say. Even here, every time I turn around it's a touch. I can't even go back to Lercara Friddi any more. Every time I do there's a thousand 'cousins' and other relatives come around to put the bite on me. Most of them phonies, too. So I stay in Naples, where nobody bothers me too much.

"I got an idea, too," he added after a pause, "that maybe the movie would show people how things like this happen to a guy."

"You know," I told him, "that I can't whitewash you."

His smile was soft, showing strong white teeth.

"I don't think anybody could do that," he said.

Naples was cool in the strong breeze off the bay when he drove me to the airport in his two-year-old Mercedes.

"Lucky," he said, chuckling grimly! "They thought a mob took me for a ride. That's a lotta bunk.

LEGS DIAMOND

"It happens that I'm working for Legs Diamond and he went goofy and killed a guy in a night spot," Luciano said. "That night I get home late, I'm living uptown, and when I close the garage doors two guys come out from behind the hedge and grab me. They got their hats pulled down and I can't see them but they're big guys.

There's two more in the car but that's all I see," he went on. "They tie my hands behind me with adhesive tape, stick it across my mouth and eyes and throw me face up on the floor in the back of their car."

Luciano knuckled his nose and went on.

"I keep wondering, 'Charley, what did you do to get taken for a ride?' But then we stop for a light, I know because I hear a cop's whistle, so I kick out and break the side window. The car jolts off and one of these guys, wearing a big ring, starts smashing me in the face with his fist. I feel the blood but then I go unconscious."

FINGERED SCARS

Luciano fingered the long white scars running from lip to chin and down his throat.

"Later, I know we're on a ferry boat and I figure we're going to Jersey," he added. "The night's quiet, we bump down what has to be a back road and they haul me out and put a gun to my head. I figure this is it, although I still don't know what I did. Then one guy says 'we'll give you a break if you tell us where Legs Diamond is.'

"Now I know this is no gang job. They don't put a pistol to your head and make bargains. I tell 'em I don't know where he is and they belt me around some more and finally knock me down. I'm half unconscious when the car roared away."

Jobs For Liberal Arts Grads

EDITOR'S NOTE—Does America's increasingly technical industry have any place for the liberal arts grad? The help wanted ads would indicate not. But then take a look at some of the ex-poets, philosophers and history majors who run the firms that tell the slide rule boys what to do.

By JOHN T. CUFFIFF

NEW YORK (AP)—Consider the liberal arts student, the English or economics major.

What are his chances of success in a world growing increasingly technical; what are his chances of success in an economy tending more and more toward space-age techniques, computers and electronics?

Is he at a disadvantage?

Not necessarily. But very often he is sought less aggressively by employers. Some companies won't even consider him for a job.

WORRY

Douglas Aircraft Co. says, "Almost all our people have engineering or scientific degrees." Lockheed Aircraft says, "Of our 14,000 or so college graduates the greater part has a master of science degree."

—The more his knowledge of mathematics the better are his chances of being hired.

—The better he takes to additional education the better are his chances to advance.

—If, on top of knowledge and education, he shows administrative ability, there is no limit to his chances.

A casual glance at newspaper advertisements, however, shows that although the aim of a humanities education is the abundant life, life's abundancies more often are offered to the scientist.

But attitudes range widely.

Says North American Aviation, "Our company wants any college graduate capable of thinking." Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. says, "We recruit aggressively on the liberal arts campuses."

LITTLE CHANCE

But Litton Industries, an electronics firm, says, "A young person with only a BA degree (without a science major) would have almost no chance of employment at Litton."

But says Walter Finke, who majored in political science and later earned a law degree and taught, "I don't feel the breadth of my education is a deficit."

Finke—"not a scientific man but an administrator"—is president of Minneapolis-Honeywell's electronic data processing division in Wellesley Hills, Mass. He believes a basic love of mathematics and a desire to learn are essential for the humanities student to move from the world of ideas to the tangible area of wires, gadgets, numerals, microscopic and telescopic entities and problems solved in milliseconds.

Ted Glaser, manager of the systems department for Burroughs Laboratories, Paoli, Pa., decided on a career as a concert pianist before an old love of math was awakened in college.

Alex Bernstein, director of applied research for the Simulmatics Corp., which solves problems with computers, originally wanted to be a poet. He was studying medieval literature when the U.S. Army intervened, placed him in the Signal Corps and reawakened his interest in mathematics.

"What this field needs," said Bernstein, "is somebody with broad intelligence. One-half the computer problems to be solved today do not require substantial mathematical knowledge. They do require logical thinking, imagination and intelligence."

EXAMPLE

For example: "A language translation program requires knowledge of linguistics and logic. It is very much easier to find somebody with a knowledge of language and teach him the computer than to take a scientist and teach him the language."

International Business Machines Corp., which employs more than 75,000 workers in the United States, advertised recently: "Perhaps you're the sort of person whose interests are so varied that you haven't yet found a career that makes full use of your talents."

IBM sought "a person who can analyze problems and translate them into the language used by electronic computers."

It added: "No expereince is required. Talent, ability and a college degree are what count." And then: "You should also have two years of college mathematics."

Brand Blanshard, professor of philosophy at Yale and one of the worried educators wrote in a recent magazine article: "Science leaves values alone, except the value of truth, but men cannot afford to leave the other values alone, and therefore a scientific education is a defective one."

ALMOST MECHANICAL

Blanshard contends that much mathematical thinking is almost mechanical, that "it can be done, and done more surely and swiftly by machines."

A spokesman for the American Management Association noted that "companies look for people with a liberal education when going after management personnel. The technical man is a perfectionist. He always wants to make a product better than it is and thus could keep it from ever reaching production."

Says Finke: "In many ways a new technology needs balance from those not closely tied to technology, per se."

"We know how to build these computers," he said. "Now we have to find more uses for them. The people we want should be able to tell us how to adapt, apply, find uses for them."

Thus there is room, reports show, for the broadly educated person in these highly specialized industries. Often, however, he needs to discover an opening himself.

Welfare Mother's Work

Although Abraham A. Ribicoff, as would be expected of an appointee of President Kennedy, generally has socialistic views, two of his recent proposals seem good. One was that mothers on welfare be permitted to work and use their earnings for the education of their children. The other was that such a program be administered by the individual states, instead of the federal government.

Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare, outlined his plans for changes in the public assistance program at a three-day conference of state welfare administrators. This may have accounted for the fact that he proposed state administration of the program. That surely would bring heartier support of the state administrators and would keep the program away from federal control insofar as is possible under the welfare program.

The program would encourage mothers in welfare families to earn money for the education of their children.

Under the old policy, job earnings of a mother in a family on relief had to be deducted from the monthly welfare check. Since the mother received no more money by working than by not working, she naturally had no incentive and no desire to work. Ribicoff logically contended that this discouraged mothers from getting jobs.

His new policy would permit working mothers to channel their earnings into education of their children. Whatever was used for education would not have to be deducted from the family's' welfare grant.

For example, a woman receives $160 a month for support of four children under the aid-to-dependent-children program. Then she gets a job paying $25 a week.

Under the old policy, her entire salary would have been subtracted from the welfare grant, leaving her about $60 a month in relief payment.

The new policy would permit her to spend her earnings or a portion of them on things her children need to go to school. These could include books, bus fares, shoes, tuition payments for vocational training or savings for a college education.

States would be allowed to adopt or reject this plan for allowing mothers on relief to work.

Ribicoff put a similar policy change into effect about two months ago. It would permit children in welfare families to get jobs and keep whatever proportion of their earnings they needed for educational and training courses.

Ribicoff said these two job incentive policies would encourage families on relief to become independent and self-supporting and would cut the number of school dropouts. To the state administrators he said: "You administer this program; we don't."

There can be no doubt that encouraging youngsters to work, provided their labor is not exploited, will spur their incentive and give them a new and more optimistic outlook and will lead toward independence. Encouraging mothers with several children to work might pose more of a problem but it would seem that those who do work should be able to give their children the educational advantages the extra money could provide.

President Kennedy's proposed new welfare program is a different matter. His aim seems to be to bring more and more people under the welfare program and thus to make them dependent upon the government. It seems wise to encourage everyone to work, without placing a penalty on them but deliberately trying to bring more people under welfare is something that should be opposed all the way down the line.

Destructive Fires

In the splendid state of Louisiana, in which most people are upright and responsible citizens, it seems incredible that incendiarism is the most common and destructive cause of forest fires. Yet this is reported by the Louisiana forestry commission to be true. There has, however, been an encouraging improvement.

State Forester James E. Mixon said that during the calendar year of 1961, 3,914 wildfires burned 40,543 acres of forest lands. This was a decrease of 2,724 fires and 60,636 acres compared with the 1960 records.

"This downward trend in number of forest fires and acres lost indicates real progress," Mixon said, "since it reflects improved public attitudes toward both careless and malicious fires, as well as more efficient prevention and suppression activities." He admitted that well above normal rainfall in every month except April, May and October of last year also played a large part in reducing forest fires.

Listed as the three worst causes of fires, in the order named, were incendiarism or maliciousness, smokers, and brush-burning. It would be logical to assume that carelessness was responsible for more forest fires than any other cause, inasmuch as smokers often throw out lighted cigarettes and campers may not use enough care in extinguishing fires, but incendiarism, or deliberate burning, was placed ahead of carelessness.

This reportedly is caused by some resentment toward the forestry program and the consequent laws against allowing livestock, particularly hogs, which destroy young trees, to run at large. The decrease in fires, however seems to indicate less resentment and more acceptance of the vital importance of Louisiana's lucrative forests.

In the forest management stage of the Louisiana forestry commission program, Mixon said last year marked the establishment of the first state-controlled "seed orchard," a 400-acre area on the DeRidder air base, provided through the cooperation of the Beauregard parish police jury, on which "grafted seedlings of superior strains will be raised to produce genetically improved seed for sale to Louisiana forest landowners."

Other activities in this field included establishment of two seed production areas on the state forest near Alexandria. These are areas on which "native, high-quality trees are stimulated to produce seed which are expected to be superior."

One of the most important phases of the forestry program is education aimed at stimulating interest in forestry and in offsetting the feeling which has led to incendiarism.

Two of many high points of the year were the 4-H and FFA boys forestry training camps at the Alexandria state forest for white youths and at Camp Jessie Harrison, near Colfax, for Negro youths.

In addition, special educational programs were conducted on a continuing basis in "hot spot" areas, or areas known to rank high in wildfire occurrence.

The forestry division is one in which plans are being made for improved services without appreciable increases in budget requests. Among these services will be more complete assistance on forestry problems to landowners.

Without a doubt, the Louisiana forestry commission performs unusually valuable services for the people of this state.

Bigger States Getting More

Representative John W. McCormack Seventh Man From Massachusetts To Become Speaker Of House

When Representative Carl Albert of Oklahoma was elected Democratic leader of the House of Representatives, it was noted that he held a higher Congress post than had ever been held by any Oklahoma in the 54 years that the Sooner State has been one in the sisterhood of States.

At the same time, Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts was elected Speaker, the seventh man from the Bay State to hold that second most powerful office in the Federal Government, which gives that commonwealth clear title as Mother of Speakers.

The two elections point up that the bigger States get and the little ones do not. Of the 50 States, 48 of which have been States for 50 years or more, 30 have never had a Speaker of the National House of Representatives.

So-called "little States" are doing very well in Congressional leadership just now. Senator Mike Mansfield, Montana, is Majority Leader of the Senate, generally ranked third most powerful office in the Federal Government. Albert's Oklahoma and Mansfield's Montana together just hit the 3,000,000 mark in population.

Moreover, 24 Democratic Senators are senior to Mansfield in service and 61 Democratic Representatives are senior to Albert. But if aspiring to either high elective or appointive office, it is still good judgment to arrange to be born in one of the more populous States, or to take up residence there.

In Presidential nominations, the big States with the fat electoral college vote usually furnish the party standard bearers. The Democrats went to Nebraska for William Jennings Bryan, their 1908 candidate — but they had given him a couple of 19th century tries at that stage of his party position, State residence did not have much to do with it. The Republicans went to Kansas for Alfred E. Landon in 1936. Bryan and Landon, of course, were also rans in November, but theirs are the States of smallest population to furnish a Presidential candidate in this century.

Of the thirty candidates of the Democratic and Republican parties who have faced the voters in the 15 quadrennial elections since the beginning of this century (1901) eleven have been from New York, and although Democratic John W. Davis in 1924 was credited to West Virginia and Republican Wendell Willkie in 1940 was credited to Indiana, New York was the domicile of both when they were nominated.

In most Presidential elections since the beginning of this Government at least one, and often both candidates, came from States which ranked among the first five in population at the time.

Of the 48 States which have been in the Union at least a half century, 37 have never furnished a President; the other 13 have furnished them all.

New York leads in population and also leads in elected vice presidents of the United States, with 10.

The big states also get the appointments in non-elected officials. From the Administration of George Washington until the present time 48 Supreme Court Judges were appointed from one or the other of the 5 largest States, to 52 from all the remaining States; New York leading with 13. Twenty-two States have never had a citizen on the United States Supreme Court; ten more have made it only once each.

Nine of our 50 states never had a Cabinet member. For Secretary of State, the premier Cabinet post, New York has furnished 33 to 22 from all the other States combined. For the second highest cabinet post, Secretary of Treasury, 30 have come from New York to 26 from all the other States combined.

Ten of our States, the largest of which is Florida, have never had a member of a President's Cabinet. Five more have made it only once.

Here are the States from which most of the Cabinet officers have come from Washington's Administration until now: New York, 65; Pennsylvania, 41; Massachusetts, 35; Virginia and Ohio, 26 each, but most of Virginia's were in the early days of the Republic; Illinois, 19.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

I have long held great admiration for the true scholar. This is perhaps because I recognize my own limitations. Academicians generally find me in their audience, but I sometimes have difficulty keeping pace with their logic.

When Arthur Schlesinger Jr. suggested that the welfare state was the best defense against communism, I found it difficult to understand how, by adopting the Communist's materialistic concept of man, we could hope to challenge the validity of that concept. And when such a distinguished scholar as Prof. Theodore M. Newcomb, of the University of Michigan, offers the following in U. S. News & World Report, I am completely undone.

"Q. Is it likely that many politicians, rich or poor, feel they must espouse 'liberal' causes to get elected?

"A. That is certainly the case."

It seems to me the distinguished commentator is engaging in a rather dangerous speculation.

Men who will espouse a cause or adopt a program or give their allegiance to a set of principles merely to "get elected" constitute what I regard as a rather grave threat to the future of the Republic.

Because I'm on the opposite side of the fence, I would argue that men who espouse this kind of "liberal cause" are guilty of an error in judgment. But I would not do them the miserable disservice of suggesting that they were motivated entirely by a compulsive desire to "get elected."

Jack Kennedy is a fine young man. I disagree with him. But I deny that any observer has the right to say that his mind is so shallow, his conscience so adaptable that he would espouse a program presented by the "liberals" merely because he thought this was a way of "getting elected."

If Professor Newcomb's appraisal is valid, then I would suggest the Republic is indeed in grave danger. And we have reached that point predicted by Alexis de Tocqueville: When the people discover they can vote themselves benefits out of the public Treasury, self-government by responsible men will become an impossibility.

Professor Newcomb speaks of sincerity in that article, but what kind of sincerity is he contemplating? Merely a sincere desire to get elected?

It seems to me what this nation needs at this moment is a crop of candidates who will say, upon announcing for a particular office: "I don't have to get elected. Therefore, I have no intention of compromising my principles or my concept of truth as I see it. If, so be it, the majority of the electorate can find merit in my principles and my concepts, then I will appreciate their support, but I have not yet reached that pitiful condition where I will sacrifice my soul for public approval at the ballot box."

How do you stand, sir?

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, Feb. 4, the 35th day of the year with 330 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

There is no morning or evening star.

On this day in history:

In 1861, delegates from six seceding southern states, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, formed the Confederate States of America at Montgomery, Ala.

In 1948, Ceylon became a free and self-governing dominion of the British Empire.

JFK Flustered

High Praise For Him When He Muffed Arouses Suspicions

WASHINGTON, D. C. — President Kennedy held his 21st presidential news conference on last January 24th, and it was a so-so performance.

Not even a cub reporter would write such a lead as that — a stale, listless, so-what sentence—but I have a reason. A whole lot of daily reporters praised Mr. Kennedy's last performance (James Reston of the New York Times said JFK was "in his glory") so far beyond its merits that the bug of suspicion begins to bite.

What goes on here? A cult of the personality? A conspiracy of illusion about the Emperor's new clothes? Murray Marder of the Washington Post and Bill Knighton of the Baltimore Sun were among those who overpraised the handsome, articulate, popular, world-famous young man who is often brilliant but who, last week (and the week before), was in a conspicuous slump.

His most publicized rejoinder to Reporter Sarah McClendon was not the icy, sharp, shrewd riposte which some front page accounts made it appear. Mrs. McClendon got by far the better of the exchange. She mentioned "two well-known security risks" and instantly named them when the President challenged her. She was taloned and merciless for the kill. He was flustered and so much on the defensive that his grammar and sequence broke down, giving me a nostalgic sense of return to the Eisenhower era.

Moreover, for the first time in anybody's memory, the conference was abruptly terminated nearly five minutes ahead of the customary half-hour. To the astonishment of all around me, there came an abrupt, "Thank you, Mr. President," almost as if Press Secretary Salinger had signalled from the stage for somebody to get his man out of the ring.

And while the President quit early, Mrs. McClendon was quickly surrounded by a stellar group of reporters, led by Eddie Folliard of the Washington Post and Bob Donovan of the New York Herald Tribune, who drafted her for an impromptu press conference of her own.

Mr. Kennedy's admirers in the press credited him with quick thinking in coming to the defense of William Arthur Wieland and J. Clayton Miller, whom Mrs. McClendon named as "security risks." My opinion is that Mr. Kennedy made one of the big blunders of his White House career. J. Clayton Miller is a new man in town, but William Arthur Wieland, whatever his official security rating, is almost indefensible as a State Department public servant.

No less than four former Ambassadors — Smith, Pawley, Gardiner and Hill — have denounced Wieland by name as instrumental in the fall of Cuba to Communism. Both the Eisenhower and Kennedy Administrations have found Wieland to be an embarrassment and have tried to hide him in the State Department's organizational maze. Wieland is an ex-newspaperman who left journalism and entered diplomacy under circumstances that the President of the United States ought not to be defending. Had Mr. Kennedy, a former member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a former newsman, really been informed and quick-witted as ballyhooed in the press notices, he would have known enough about Wieland to play this one some other way.

When Mr. Kennedy is good in a press conference, he is very, very good, and he is never really bad except by his own high standards. He pays the penalty extracted from all champions and artists of being under pressure to deliver a masterpiece at every attempt. Perhaps it is uncharitable to hold a top national leader up to tests that are not by any means the full measurement of his powers and performance.

But the point is that his strikeouts ought to be reported as faithfully as his home runs—for a very special reason. It is an open secret that Mr. Kennedy plays favorites, bringing writers and publishers as guests to the White House, thereby setting up a situation for reciprocal trade of favors. Already it is routine conversation at the National Press Club to speculate whether an extreme "snow job" column of flattery by a non-Kennedy columnist, or a cosy, "inside" think piece by an influential journalist, are bread-and-butter notes.

There is no harm, and a lot of good, in the President's consorting with newspaper friends. But let's not permit sweet friendship to cloy the acid of skepticism in which every political writer's pen should be dipped.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Fritz Kreisler

Knowing Him Was To Taste Human Cultures Of Centuries

To have known Fritz Kreisler was to have tasted of the richness of centuries of human culture. During recent years, he and I spent our summers in the Berkshires and it was a joy to be with a man whose genius knew no limit. He was as much at home in Greek, Latin, and Hebrew as in the modern languages. He could discuss world politics in amazing detail. His knowledge of music was overwhelming and withal he was a modest man who was interested in the aspirations of the simplest, Tanglewood student.

During his last years, he was partially deaf and blind, the result of an accident when a truck hit and knocked him down and he lived in darkness. Even so, he did not lose his interest in the affairs of the world and a conversation with him was always an everlasting memory.

Two tragic occasions stand out in my memory. One was at the Dutch Treat Club when Fritz decided that he would try to play the piano and he could no longer strike the right notes. He was full of fun that night and could laugh at his mistakes.

The other was at Fiddletop, the home of Zino Francescatti in Monterey in the Berkshires. Our families were gossiping after lunch. Mrs. Harriet Kreisler always watched over Fritz motherly, fearful that he would be made miserable by his inabilities, but the two violinists got into a corner and had what might vulgarly be called a jam session. They played on and on, Kreisler showing Francescatti how he played Beethoven's Violin Concerto.

It was probably the last time that Kreisler played either the violin or the piano. He was a very happy man. He loved the Berkshires; he adored Francescatti; he was among friends. He let himself go.

I do not recall Kreisler coming to a Tanglewood concert after that. In fact, when I called on him during the following summer, he was already suffering from the numerous ailments that beset him. But we talked of the many worlds he loved.

To Kreisler, music was not something apart. It was a manifestation of life in all its richness. He composed perhaps 200 pieces in his lifetime, everything from the noblest music to a light opera, "Apple Blossom." For such a sentence as this, Fritz would have reprimanded me. He would have said that all music that is beautiful and that adds to the richness of life is good and that snobbery is always intolerable.

He loved the United States. Although during the frightful years of World War I, he suffered from a divided loyalty, he really never could think of his beloved Austria and his beloved America as separate or as enemies. In front of the Heaton Hall Hotel in Stockbridge, Massachusetts, stands a flagpole, erected in honor of Fritz Kreisler. I was present at the ceremonies and made a short address. The American flag was raised and flew each day during the season. It will be a permanent memorial to a noble soul. It will be his American memorial.

Fritz Kreisler was beyond doubt the greatest violinist of his day although younger generations cannot hear him play, the phonograph and radio will continue to bring him to them as it will continue to bring him to future generations. He loved life and he loved humanity and he knew no rancor or envy, expecting the next generation to be more wonderful than the one he would leave behind. His sense of humor was as rich as his understanding of man was keen.

To him music was not a profession but an art that brought light and love into a world that was cursed by hate and prejudice and war. Music was for him the antithesis of evil and his heart was open to all the youngsters who came to Tanglewood to find the richness and beauty that music could bring into life. He was never a big man, aloof; he was always Fritz.

But he could no longer hear. Like Beethoven, music became not sound but the grandeur of the intellect. He could think; he could remember, but he could not listen to the violins which he loved so. These he gave to the Library of Congress in Washington to be loaned to great violinists who could play these noble instruments.

Summary On Peace Corps

EDITOR'S NOTE—It's still too early to say whether the friends or the foes of the Peace Corps will have the final "I told you so." Even in Colombia, one of the first projects, the peasants say "si," the upper class "no." But the government spoke louder than words. It sent for 60 more corpsmen.

By JAMES DEWEY

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Lowering clouds rolling in over the Andes cut off the mountain peaks and cast shadows over the green fields.

The sudden gloom appeared to affect the Peace Corps volunteer showing the work he and his partner had been doing since their arrival in the Tenjo Valley 2½ months ago.

"We've got an awfully long row to hoe and sometimes it gets discouraging," he said. He quickly added, "But you've got to remember that down here a little bit goes a long way."

He motioned toward the crushed stone that filled the ruts of a narrow, twisting road and said that was the result of weeks dawn-to-dusk work in a quarry. The stone had turned a mud trail into a useable market road for the area's farmers. The volunteers' ability to get the government to loan a dump truck for the work had impressed the campesinos — peasants.

By the time he got to another project he was working on, at a country school, the clouds had rolled by. The sun was filling the lovely mountain-rimmed valley, and the young Peace Corpsman was looking again like one of the 62 enthusiastic, get-things-done young Americans who arrived in Colombia four months ago in an experiment in American idealism.

Four peasants at the school site were shoveling sand and rock over a marked-out quadrangle.

"My god," said the Peace Corpsman. "I didn't expect anything like this. I had no idea that they would come out on their own and work if I wasn't here."

He and his partner were building a basketball court for the children in the school. "And this is the first time I've seen anyone come out on their own and work when I'm not here," he said. "It makes me feel good."

So Michael Owen Willson, 23-year-old U.S. Peace Corpsman from Chicago, forgot for the moment the many frustrations a volunteer can encounter working in the hinterland of Colombia.

Assuredly it is a long row the Peace Corps has to hoe here in a country where $500 million in foreign aid in the last 30 years hasn't made a noticeable dent in the social system.

Sometimes the corps is misunderstood by the campesinos, who think the operation is a financial arm of President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress program. Sometimes it is derided by leftists as State Department whistling in the dark past a graveyard of dead policies. But the Peace Corp program here is trying with sincerity, patience and understanding to get the Colombian peasant to discover how to go about solving his problems and induce his community to take charge of its own affairs and make things work.

It appears to be making progress.

From Chitarague where Dave Downing of Los Gatos, Calif., is credited with saving the life of a woman by stopping heavy bleeding after she had suffered a severe head injury, to Zipicon where a good-will day was proclaimed in honor of corpsmen Dennis Grubb of Westport, Conn., and Thomas Whalen of Detroit, the volunteers are gaining the confidence of the campesino.

"We're learning a lot from the boys," said one grizzled peasant. "They're hard workers and they're always ready to help. We like them."

But while the volunteers are giving object lessons in grass roots democracy, can they hold out in the Colombian boondocks where they are up against disease, poverty, illiteracy and isolation?

From the outset when the volunteers arrived here last September they were hit with dysentery. The food was strange and to most unpalatable. Most of them lost weight.

One confided he felt that at one time or another it would have taken little convincing to get each and every one of them to chuck the whole operation and go home.

But now they appear accustomed to the life and like it.

In general they are working with Colombian counterparts teaching the nation's peasants more efficient farm methods, how to drill wells, lay sewage pipe lines, plant gardens and develop health programs.

"Basically," explained Mike Willson, "we're working on small projects to get the feel of the situation. We are trying to gain the confidence of the campesino and produce something tangible to show for our effort. But we're all looking to bigger things."

Their problems vary.

In Coachi where Frederick McClusky of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Charles Akin of Minneapolis, Minn., are stationed, the volunteers have to be careful not to show any partiality to either of two political factions in the town—both of which claim credit for the corpsmen being stationed there.

In Minca, Lyle Smith of Grain Valley, Mo., and Gerald McMahon of Daly City, Calif., have no running water or electricity.

At Chitaraque, Downing and his partner Kent Oldenburg of Sal Ore., had difficulty with their food, which consisted mostly of a poor quality of rice, yuca, potatoes and a bit of meat. They solved the problem by hiring their own cook.

On the other hand some volunteers have their own homes and maids.

In Tenjo for example, Willson and his partner, John Montoya of Orem, Utah, have a three-room house of their own with a kitchen, a bathroom with flush toilet, and hot running water for the shower.

They pay about $17 a month for the house and another $11 a month for a maid to do the cooking and cleaning.

Most of the volunteers live in rented facilities of one type or another. They get $150 a month and out of this must provide everything except clothing, medical care and on-the-job transportation.

The Peace Corps furnishes the volunteers with work clothing including a ruana—the wool poncho worn by the campesino.

The Peace Corps also provides either a bicycle, a mule or a horse for transportation. Some of the volunteers live as far as 2 miles from the outlying farm communities called veredeas where they work.

Entertainment generally is limited to the local fiestas and outdoor dancing. Occasionally the volunteer manages to utilize a business trip to Bogota for some diversion.

"What we really miss," said Bruce Lane of Austin, Texas, "is American beer and milk shakes."

The largest over-all problem is language.

There are 13 fluent Spanish speakers among the volunteers; 26 are classed as intermediate and the remainder range anywhere from poor to hopeful. However, even many of the intermediates are having substantial difficulties.

The Colombian government is satisfied with the Peace Corps and has asked for another 60 volunteers who are due here this spring.

Critics ask how 62 young men, operating on a budget of $836,000 can be expected to make the slightest impression on a country about nine times the size of the state of New York and with about 15-million persons, most of whom live in an appalling state of poverty and illiteracy. It is estimated that 40 per cent of the Colombian campesinos are illiterate.

Supporters argue: These men are working shoulder to shoulder with Colombian peasants at the bottom of the social pyramid where the need is most immediate and desperate. That fact will have the greatest and lasting effect.

Opposition among the lower ranks of the clergy has died down, partly because the church hierarchy has approved the program and partly because the parish priests can see the volunteers are not proselytizing and are helping the campesino.

The daily press has always supported the program. The attacks in leftists periodicals have not been very telling.

Upper-class Colombians themselves, many of whom invite volunteers to their homes, are on the whole privately dubious that the plan will have any real effect.

The average man on the street in the capital is unconcerned and the wealthy businessman is keeping one soft brown eye open for what's in it for him.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Honey For Tea Said To Be Very Delightful Work

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

If you want a delightful story, set in a quiet Devonshire village, but containing elements of romance and mystery, select a book by Elizabeth Cadell. Her latest title is "Honey for Tea." It is a delightful story and will interest many readers. "The Fox in the Attic" is the title of an outstanding new book written by Richard Hughes. It is the first in a series which he is writing about Europe between World War I and World War II. It is a work of genuine magnitude, filled with remarkably distinct and different characters and many striking scenes. It is held together by the writer's vision of life at various levels of man's experience. "The Gates of Eden" is a first novel by Allan McLean, who has written only children's books before this one. This is the story of a young Scottish boy, who finds growing up an arduous process. The author has written in a most illuminating fashion about the country of Scotland and it is a book which will be widely read.

2 MYSTERIES

Two new mysteries are available for the readers of mystery stories. One is "Old Students Never Die" by Ivan T. Ross and the other is "Chain of Death" by Nancy McLarty. Both are exciting and stimulating.

A book which should be most useful to all those who would like to improve their use of the English language is "Most Common Mistakes in English Usage" by Thomas E. Berry. This book should be very helpful and it is well done. Books of humorous reminiscences are always popular with the readers at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. The newest one of this type is "Never Tease A Dinosaur" written by Joseph F. Hannan. It is an account of the experience of a man school teacher and it will provide laughs for many readers.

A delightful book of travel, which will appeal especially to teen-age girls is "Moroccan Roundabout" written by Maureen Daly McGivern. Mrs. McGivern has written many books for the teen-age audience and this one should surely catch fire. With all of the unrest in Cuba, it is good to read a book about an island of the Caribbean, where life is stable and settled. This is Jamaica. Hugh Barnett Cave has just written an excellent book about this island called "Four Paths to Paradise." It is informative and interesting.

WORLD WAR II

A distinct addition to the coverage of World War II in the Pacific is "But Not in Shame" by John Toland. This is a compelling and candid appraisal of the first six months after Pearl Harbor. It is based on documents, manuscripts, private diaries, letters and hundreds of interviews. It analyses Japanese tactics, our own shortsightedness, unpreparedness and confusion along with telling portraits of leaders on both sides. Everyone who has read the books by Ralph Moody, beginning with "Little Britches" will want to read the latest one in this series "Mary Emma and Company." It continues the account of a delightful family and is a rewarding book to read.

The many people who use the genealogy collection will be interested in the addition of two new books. One is volume 1 of the Calendar of La. Colonial Documents, published by the Louisiana State Archives and Records Commission. This volume deals with Avoyelles Parish. The other volume is one dealing with Sumert County, Alabama and includes abstracts from orphan's court minute book, Early poll lists and miscellaneous lists. The Ouachita Parish Public Library has an unusually good collection of genealogy books for the use of the public. The staff is happy to show you the books, but we do not have enough people to do your reseafch for you. Some people who come to the library expect this and it is an impossibility for the library staff to do this for you.

Donizetti Opera Well Received

By JOHN CALE

Reports from the Shreveport operatic stage tell of a near-triumph of lead soprano Gianna D'Angelo who took the part of Lucia in Donizetti opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor." Shreveport and Houston pooled musical and financial resources for the production lat Monday.

Also coming up in the sister metropolis in north Louisiana are the district auditions for the Metropolitan Opera Company. These will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday February 25, at the Woman's Department Club, according to Mrs. R. Thaddeus Andress, member of the Met's national council and chairman for the Gulf Coast area. Mrs. Luther A. Beene is audition chairman for the north Louisiana district with Mrs. S. W. Smith serving as co-chairman. The Shreveport Civic Opera Association is the official sponsor of the auditions.

HIGHER LEVEL

Music by Johann Sebastian Bach — when performed by such an aggregation as the Robert Shaw Chorale and Orchestra—is best described as music on a higher level. And the Louisiana Tech Concerts Association has booked the well known orchestra and chorus for two performances of Bach's Passion according to St. John on Friday at 8 p.m. and Monday of next week at 2:15 p.m.

L.V.E. Irvine, chairman of the Tech concert group for many years, says he believes people are inclined to underestimate their abilities when it comes to listening to music on a higher level. He recalls an incident two years ago when a man living over 50 miles from Howard Auditorium on the Tech campus came good - naturedly but "under duress" with his wife to the Shaw rendition of the Bach "Mass in B Minor."

He was heard to say before the preformance, "I don't know why I'm here. I know nothing about Bach and I certainly know nothing about Latin."

At intermission, the same man was heard to say, "I didn't know it was going to be like this. Why that is the most beautiful music I have ever heard."

Good performances of Bach are that way. Even those who don't know horseracing realize they've seen something special when they see a real thoroughbred. So it is with the combination of Bach, the Bible and the Robert Shaw musicians.

ORGAN RECITAL

Also in the realm of religious music in the classical field is the recital of organist William Teague, set for 4 p.m. today at Grace Episcopal Church.

The program will include John Cook's "Fanfare for Organ;" Mozart's "Fantasie in F Minor;" the choral preludes "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring," and "Lord Jesus Christ," by J. S. Bach; the contemporary work, "Sonata in C Minor," by Herbert Nanney of Stanford University, and "Sonata on Psalm 94," by Julius Ruebke.

Teague is organist and choirmaster at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Shreveport. The program is open to the public.

While other of the state's larger cities are chomping at the bit to get a one-nighter booking of a Broadway musical, the northeast Louisiana cultural capital is getting a "one-two" serving. Little Theatre's "Bye Bye Birdie" will open February 22, and the Northeast Concerts Association has booked "The Music Man" for March 7.

This allows plenty of time for the playgoing public to attend both and should afford the financial standing of the sponsoring organizations a welcome shot-in-arm.

This brings to mind a situation which merits the attention of all who are interested in plays, musicals and traveling "name" attractions. Culture is not subsidized by the government in the United States. Regardless of the story of the Metropolitan Opera with its implications, it is more proper to our way of thinking is those who are interested foot the bills for such things.

Taxes for subsidies hit too many people who are not concerned.

Those who are interested, however, should not take theatres and concerts for granted. They need your continued participation, interest and support.

Story On Roads Of Romans

MERCHANTS, PILGRIMS AND HIGHWAYMEN. By Hermann Schreiber. Putnam. $4.95.

Sixteen hundred years ago an energetic fellow could travel good roads for 4,500 miles from northern England to Ethiopia — something no one has been able to do since.

The roads of course were those built by the Romans. For hundreds of years these grim conquerors, their legionnaires, slaves and subject peoples built and maintained a 50,000 mile network of main highways, plus 200,000 miles of feeder roads — the likes of which had never been seen before.

Roman roads were narrow but seven or eight feet thick. Almost literally straight, some were so steep that not even horses, let alone carts, could traverse them.

While constructed primarily for military purposes, they carried trade and travelers, and they attracted swarms of robbers, beggars and prostitutes. Yet their building was regarded as a noble thing, almost like the building of a church, and Romans were proud to rest in graves beside them.

The author of this book, one of those indefatigable Germans, writes not only of Roman roads but of the amber roads across prehistoric Europe, of the silk roads to Cathay, the royal roads of the great eastern empires, the fur road through Russia, the sacred roads of Greece, the skyhigh thoroughfares of the Incas in South America and the amazingly modern highways cut through the rocks of ancient Crete.

Schreiber has an eye for detail that illuminates what might have been an exercise in musty scholarship.

Parisian Memories Of The 20s

LIFE AMONG THE SURREALISTS. By Matthew Josephson. Holt, Rinehart, Winston. $6.

In his mature years Josephson has been a very competent biographer, but in his salad days he was operating in a much more adventurous field, that of the "little magazines," the avente - garde publications that always have to be so excruciatingly different.

He was associated closely with such journals as "Broom," "Secession" and "transition." He was in the midst of that motley parade of expatriate Americans who crowded into Paris in the 1920s and made such a dither of their protest against something or other.

His book is a memoir of that era and a good source for anyone interested in the anyone interested in the zany adventures of the twinkling Twenties.

It seems rather odd that Josephson's associations with both writers and artists throw a closer light on the artists than they do on the writers. He had more contact with the Dada School, which changed gradually in a process of mutation to the Surrealist School.

There are references here to Gertrude Stein and Hemingway, but they are rather oblique. Many of the writers and editors who engaged his closest attention were somewhat overblown aesthetes whose names now have faded from the public's memory. Their exhibitionist antics and their interminable quarrels now seem rather garishly sophomoric.

Hughes Exhibits Power

THE FOX IN THE ATTIC. By Richard Hughes. Harper. $4.50.

In his first novel in 18 years the author of "A High Wind in Jamaica" has created a memorable picture of an almost macabre period in world history—the year 1923, in neurotic postwar Germany.

His book is a blend of fiction and documentation. The incident of history portrayed here was the Munich beerhall putsch in which the absurd Hitler and his manipulators funked out miserably in their first real attempt to lead the German sheep into another goose-stepping episode. Hughes has introduced some new material into this incident, particularly on the point of Hitler's retreat to the attic of a house owned by the unspeakable Putzi Hanfstaengl.

On the side of fiction, Hughes has depicted the blind mentality of both the British and the Germans in this period. His hero is Augustine, the semi-recluse scion of a fusty old Victorian family which hasn't had a new idea in a century or more. For contrast, there is one of Augustine's friends, a narcissistic Oxford type whose supposedly radical ideas are flavored with intellectual notions straight out of feudalism.

Because of a tragic accident — and this is rather obscure — Augustine goes to Germany for several weeks to visit his cousins, and falls in love with a girl who is going blind. He and his German hosts are generally unaware of the political events going on all around them, except that the son of the family has turned fascist secretly, and is harboring a psychotic cast-off of an earlier putsch in the family attic. There is even a fox — literally — in the same attic.

Reviewers in England, where this book appeared first, have compared the author with Tolstoy. Hughes has announced that this is the first volume in a series to be titled "The Human Predicament."

He writes in a manner that is simultaneously elliptical and graphic, and has a remarkable skill in leading the reader to open his mind and reach out toward the implications of the things his characters say and do. If the further volumes in Hughes' series prove to be as powerful as this one, he will have some important things to say about the predicament every person is in.

BOMBS AND BABY TEETH

Extensive Studies On A-Bomb Effect

EDITOR'S NOTE — Strontium 90, a sinister fallout by-product of nuclear explosions, may cause bone cancer. Then again it may not. To try and settle the argument, a group of scientists began checking the only plentiful bone supply around—the baby teeth of children who give their molars to research instead of the good fairy.

By BOB POOS

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — From out the mouths of children is coming information about one of the most hazardous effects of the atomic bomb: strontium 90.

In St. Louis, children give their baby teeth to a scientific group that is studying strontium 90, mainly how much of it people are getting.

Instead of a nickel or a dime from the good fairy, a child gets a button that proclaims: "I gave my tooth to science."

This group, called the Committee on Nuclear Information, has been collecting baby teeth for more than two years.

What is strontium 90? Is it a direct cause of bone cancer of leukemia? If so, at what level does it become dangerous? How is it passed on from the atmosphere to people?

The first and last of these questions are known. The others aren't and may not be for many years. CNI's collection of children's teeth may be the first step toward the answers.

Radioactive fallout, which includes strontium 90, occurs immediately after a nuclear explosion and keeps coming down for about three years.

The debris from a blast of vaporized earth, water, stone, etc., is borne on high winds and eventually sifts down to earth. These minute particles settle upon the vegetables we eat. They are also passed on to us through grass, hay and silage consumed by animals that give meat and milk.

Strontium 90 is similar to calcium in makeup and therefore has an affinity for bone.

CNI, composed of scientists, physicians, teachers and citizens interested in the effects of radiation, is worried about radiation effects on human bones. Bad teeth can be removed easily. Bones can't.

Dr. Louise Reiss, an internist, was director of the baby tooth survey in its infancy.

She points out that baby teeth, unlike bones, can be acquired in large enough numbers for a significant study. Through analyses of the teeth scientists can learn bones.

An August 1958, article by Dr. Herman W. Kalckar, Johns Hopkins University biochemist, in a British medical publication provided the spark for the St. Louis baby tooth study.

CNI had to begin work on the project in a hurry because it needed teeth formed before there was any significant amount of strontium 90 on earth.

Baby teeth fall out between the ages of 5 and 13. Time was running out if the group was to get a large sample of preradiation teeth for comparison with teeth formed after strontium 90 became a reality.

First, CNI appealed to the dental school deans of both Washington and St. Louis universities.

Tooth collection programs were set up in schools, libraries, dentists' offices, even drugstores.

The teeth did start coming in, first in a trickle and then in a steady stream. CNI now gets 750 a week, an amount it considers sufficient.

Much of the work was done and all of the teeth were stored in the Reiss home, a big three-story brick residence.

A grant of nearly $200,000 to the Washington University School of Dentistry last year got the survey out of the Reiss home and into an honest-to-goodness laboratory.

"I didn't have any idea how fast it would grow," Dr. Reiss said. "But St. Louis was ripe for it, I guess. There had been a lot of discussion of strontium 90 because of reports that the milk here was higher than in most of the rest of the country."

The tooth collection program is running smoothly now. It is just beginning to pay off in valuable information about strontium 90 although its most important work is yet to be done, say the people who initiated it.

However one nationally known scientist, Dr. Barry Commoner of Washington University, said it was already significant because it was "the first data in the world on strontium 90 levels in the bones of a mass sampling of humans."

Dr. Reiss, no longer the project's director although still on its advisory board, said, "People often ask us if anything amusing happened. Oh, we got some teeth with the braces still hanging on and a few with worms in them. But most people who reacted to our appeal were serious and few saw much in it to be funny about."

"One woman who lost a son to leukemia in 1918 had saved his baby teeth all this time," she recalled. "She sent them in with a note saying we should have them if they would help shed some light in our search."

So far more than 70,000 teeth have been collected.

The scientists haven't yet come up with a concrete answer as to how much strontium 90 a particular child can absorb without getting leukemia or bone cancer, if at all.

But right now, said Dr. Commoner, "probably the most important result of the survey was it proved that what looked to be an impractical method to get a valid picture of how much strontium 90 can be passed on to the bones turned out to be very practical and successful."

WHAT IS A Valentine?

A joy to the one who shares your life. A bright spot in a teacher's day. A pleasant surprise to the girl at the next desk. A new beginning to a neglected friendship. A hearty laugh for a nephew in the service. A thank-you to the favorite aunt who forgets your age, but always remembers your birthday. A child's labor of love. A kiss wrapped in lace. A big thrill for the little miss next door or the young cow-boy down the street. Yes, a Hallmark Valentine is more than a Valentine. It is affection, beauty, friendship, fun, thoughtfulness itself . . . in an envelope.

Gas Drilling Operations Helped By Weather Turn

A gas well completed Tuesday in Ouachita Parish was among five finalled or placed in production last week in the 14 parish Monroe Oil and Gas District in a slight resurgence of activity occasioned apparently by a turn in the weather.

Also completed, according to a report yesterday through the office of District Manager Duncan S. Cook of the State Conservation Commission in Monroe, were two wells in LaSalle Parish and one each in Catahoula and Grant Parishes.

The rig in Ouachita Parish, in the Monroe Gas Field, was the Union State No. J-1, a uinit of J. D. Simmons and Company of Louisiana gauged to flow after acidizing at 500 MCF. Drilling reports showed a rock pressure of 250 pounds. Flow was estimated at 75 MCF before acidizing at a depth of 2216 feet.

Three other completions were in the Tullos Urania Field —two in LaSalle Parish and one in Grant. The Concordia Parish completion was recorded in the Milestone Forks Field.

The Elsie M. Webb No. 1 of the Cardinal Drilling Company of Shreveport, another gas unit staked in the Ouachita Parish Monroe Field was among a total of five new locations reported in the district at week's end. Others were in Union, Richland, LaSalle and Concordia Parishes.

Cook's report showed a total of 15 rigs actively drilling or testing in the area — four of them in Ouachita Parish. Four rigs were plugged and abandoned during the week, but the total on inactive sites fell, nevertheless, to 97. Locations numbered 33.

There were two re - completions recorded. Both in LaSalle Parish, they are Hunt Oil Company's Goodpine No. 2 and the Louisiana Central No. 68 of the Placid Oil Company. Both are spotted in the Olla Field.

Here is the weekly look at completions, new locations and active rigs: MORE MORE MORE

Forecast For Oil Noticed As Good

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two trade publications say the 1962 outlook for the domestic oil industry is pretty good.

The Oil and Gas Journal describes its annual forecast as optimistic.

World Oil Magazine says its outlook is brighter because of general improvement in the business situation.

Both publications say domestic demand for petroleum this year will increase three per cent and exceed 10 million barrels a day the first time in history.

The Journal says this increase in demand will mean domestic crude production will have to average a record 7,245,000 barrels daily. World Oil translates the demand hike into a 7,277,000 barrels daily crude requirement.

Both magazines expect only a minor increase in drilling activities, both for development wells and for wildcat tests.

The forecasts for drilling activities in the individual states contain a couple of surprises.

Both publications predict a 20 per cent jump in drilling programs in California where a postwar slump has dropped the state to third place among the nation's leading oil states.

Both expect drilling declines in south Louisiana and offshore Louisiana. Postwar booms in these areas moved Louisiana past California as runner-up to top ranked Texas.

World Oil's annual copyrighted outlook letter forecasts 2,525 wells will be drilled in California this year, compared to only 2,097 last year.

The Journal's annual review-forecast edition calls for 2,446 California wells, compared to last year's 2,023.

World Oil's survey of oil company drilling programs indicates only 1,472 wells for south Louisiana, a 12 per cent decline, and only 422 offshore wells, a 14 per cent drop. An 8 per cent gain is anticipated in north Louisiana but the magazine says this will leave the state as a whole with only 3,831 wells this year compared to 3,968 in 1961.

The Journal's figures are a bit more optimistic, calling for a 10 per cent gain in north Louisiana. This would mean 4,149 wells on a state-wide basis as compared to 4,049 in 1961. Such a gain would wipe out the Journal's forecasts for declines in south Louisiana and offshore. South Louisiana wells are expected to drop from 1,621 to 1,552, the offshore area to drop from 518 to 512.

In addition to California, the brightest spots for 1962 drilling operations include Montana and Wyoming.

World Oil forecasts 514 wells for Montana, a 16 per cent increase, and 1,123 wells for Wyoming, an 18 per cent gain.

Business Briefs

Meeting

The Stonewall Investment Annual Stockholders meeting was held in Castle Hall recently after their regular meeting. Officer for 1962 were elected by acclamation. They include Jim Tolson, president; H. O. Norman, vice president; and Johnny Holmes, secretary-treasurer.

Convention

The 54th annual convention of the Louisiana Bottlers Association is set to meet in New Orleans Feb. 15, 16, and 17. Headquarters will be at the Monteleone Hotel with registration beginning at 4 p.m. on Feb., 15. Henry A. Biedenharn Jr., Monroe resident, secretary-treasurer of the association, is expected to attend.

Remodeling

RUSTON — J. C. Penney Store in Ruston has begun a $35,000 remodeling job that will add some 800 square feet of customer service area and new stock room facilities, according to Les Shufield, store manager.

Attended

B. W. Biedenharn of Monroe, Pearl Beer distributor for the Ouachita Parish area, attended the 1962 distributors' convention of the Pearl Brewing Company, held in San Antonio January 24th and 25th.

Business sessions for the two-day meeting were held at the Pearl Brewery. The convention was attended by nearly 500 Pearl Beer distributors and sales personnel from throughout the Southwest.

Elected

JONESBORO (Special) — Mrs. E. L. Edmonds was elected president of the Pelican State Life Insurance Company for 1962 here Tuesday night at the annual stockholders' meeting.

Makes Progress

OLLA (Special) — The Olla State Bank continued to progress as 1961 proved to be one of the bank's better years. Deposits were slightly over two million dollars and bank resources at year's end totaled over two and one-fourth million dollars. The bank paid a 20 cent per share dividend to 50,000 shares of stock and paid $25,000 to saving depositors.

The scholarship fund which was established jointly by the bank and the Urania Lumber Co., Ltd., for the benefit of area students, has grown to $2,000 and qualification requirements are expected to be announced during this year.

Second Well Completed In New Field

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Shell Oil Co. completed its second producing oil well in the recently discovered Lazy Creek field this week. About 146 barrels per day are flowing from a sand at 10,729-35 feet.

The venture is the board of supervisors No. 16-3, sec. 16-n-8e, a north offset to the discovery well. well. Shell is below 8,700 feet in a third try in the area, No. 16-7, same section.

Drilling went to 12,506 feet with reports there is a total sand section of over 400 feet logged in the lower cretaceous formations. If completed, it would be the deepest penetration in Yellow Creek, where normal depth is 5,000 feet.

In Pike County, Love Petroleum Co. is drilling below 8,600 feet in the Bacot-Vest unit No. 1, sec. 1-3n-8e, south of Little Creek. Contract depth is 11,000 feet.

Pure Oil Co. resumed drilling on its Kemper County Wildcat, the Henry No. 1, sec. 15-12n-15e, below 6,250 feet. Contract depth is 15,000 feet.

Geo. H. Jett Drilling Co. is below 10,800 feet in the Harrison County Wildcat, the Dantzler Lumber Co. No. 1, sec. 15-5s-11w,. Contract depth is 12,500 feet.

In the Northeast Mississippi Hardrock Country, Pan American Petroleum Corp., is reported resumed drilling in the Ashby No. 1, 25-13s-1e, below 7,165 feet.

Three new oilers and one new gas well were completed last week. They were:

Pool Creek in Jones County, Texaco, Inc., its Alfrred Foote No. 3, sec. 14-9n-102, flowing 1,377 barrels of oil per day from sand at 10,690-742 feet.

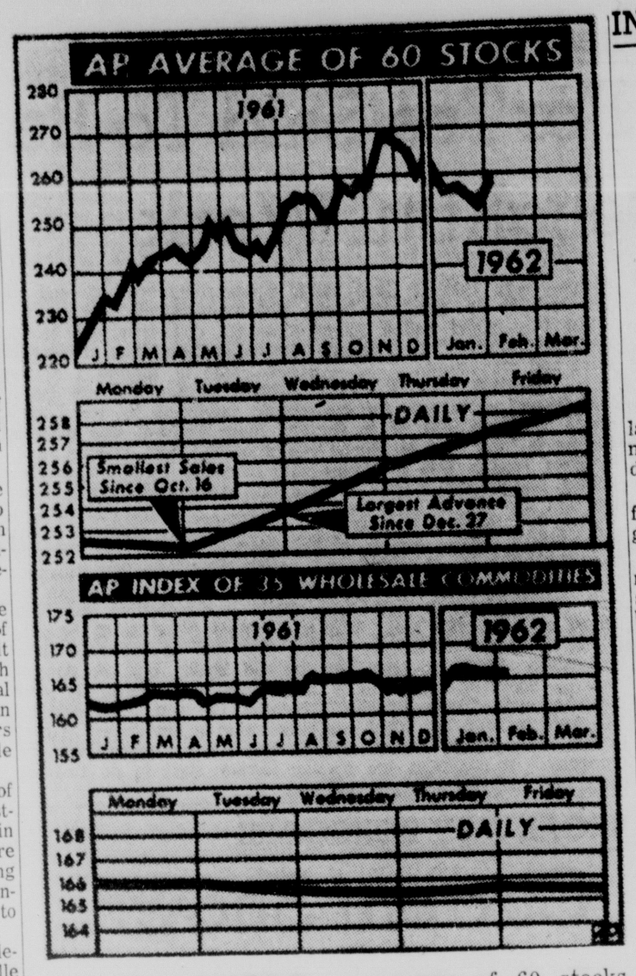
Small Business Representative Visits Monroe

Justin Green, Manager of the Small Business Administration Office in New Orleans, announced that a representative would be in Monroe Thursday and Friday in Room 216, U. S. Post Office and Federal Court Building, to confer with anyone interested in the services of this Government Agency.

This is a continuance of the policy of the Small Business Administration to make its service more convenient to the small businessman and banks in the Monroe area, Green said.

Green also said, "It would be very helpful if inquiries would bring with them at the time of the interview a recent balance sheet and profit and loss statements for the past three years."

It is planned that a representative of SBA will visit Monroe monthly, Green added.



THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks chalked up its sharpest weekly advance since early last October when it closed at 258.1 from 252.6 a week earlier as indicated in the above chart. The commodity index declined this week to 165.3 from 166.0 in the preceding period. Livestock showed the largest loss. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

16 PERMITS ISSUED

February Building Off To Good Start

The City of Monroe issued 79 building permits during January, 61 of them for new construction or additions costing $495,094.

Dale Martha, who issued the permits pointed out that 23 one family dwellings led the list, with a value of $340,950.

However, with only two days of business activity, February is off to a good start with 16 permits issued for $281,599 worth of construction.

The breakdown on January construction shows two warehouses, $48,000; one auto sales building, $50,000; one manufacturing building, $20,000; one used car sales structure, $1,000.

Twnety-seven alterations or additions were made to residences, for $20,222, while alterations and additions to six non-residences totalled $14,922.

Nine buildings were moved, nine were demolished.

Monday, Jan. 22:

N. R. Goins received two permits: 1. Add porch to frame residence, 3100 Jackson St., 168 square feet, $200; 2. Enclose porch at 611 Thomas, 20 square feet, $50.

Tuesday, Jan. 23:

J. S. James, construct brick veneer residence, five rooms, one and one-half baths, 1801 Crescent Dr., 1830 square feet, $16,000.

Wednesday, Jan. 24:

W. A. Carr, add carport to frame residence, 211 Foster, 22 by 24, $350.

Tuesday, Jan. 25:

Rev. W. W. Kelly, move frame residence from 608 Layton to Doolevville, outside city limits, 26 by 50 by 16 feet high.

Marie Smith, construct brick veneer residence, five rooms, two baths, 4107 Roger, 1600 square feet, $20,000.

M. W. Driggers, demolish frame residence, 413 S. Eighth.

Solons Seek To Tie Aid, Integration

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House education subcommittee has started an investigation that will combine the politically-volatile issues of federal school aid and classroom desegregation.

Whether the mixture will produce an explosion, especially in an election year, no one could accurately predict.

The investigating subcommittee was created by chairman Adam C. Powell of the parent Education and Labor Committee. A veteran of many congressional civil rights battles, the New York Negro Democrat has thrown the considerable resources of his committee behind the inquiry.

While even Powell would not predict that the investigation would result in legislative action this year, some congressional sources believe it will open a bigger campaign to speed up compliance with the 1954 Supreme Court desegregation ruling.

Civil rights advocates in and out of Congress have shown increasing impatience with that they consider foot-dragging compliance with the court's order to desegregate with "all deliberate speed."

Powell allied himself with this group at a news conference, saying the subcommittee investigation was "long overdue — eight years overdue."

To point this up, he told subcommittee chairman Dominick Daniels, D-N.J., to submit a report by May 17, the eighth anniversary of the desegregation ruling.

The subcommittee's avenue of attack will be somewhat different from past efforts to jog the desegregation process. It will go into the use of federal funds, from the lowest grades to the post-graduate college level, by schools which practice racial segregation.

Ruston Branch Bank Planned

RUSTON (Special) — The officers and directors of Ruston State Bank and Trust Company announced plans to open a branch bank location on West California Avenue at the site of the old Southerner Cafe.

"An attractive new building will be erected under the supervision of Barksdale and Roberts, architects, of Ruston and Alexandria," H. H. Smith, president, disclosed. "It is hoped to have it in operation within six months."

The bank will be located at the corner of West California and Thornton Street. Contract for construction will be awarded as soon as buildings on the site are cleared away and the architect completes the plans.

IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Production Gain Indicates Signs Of Labor Peace

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Hopes for labor peace in the steel industry mounted during the week as production increased.

Optimistic indications came from management, labor and government.

All seemed to feel that this is no time for a replay of the long strike of 1959. Prospects of 1962 being a good business year depend in large measure on whether steel production goes uninterrupted.

Contracts expire June 30 and already feelers have gone out for an early start on negotiations under the prodding of the government.

Roger M. Blough, chairman of United States Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, said he finds "the atmosphere conducive to an early resolution of negotiations."

But he indicated that management won't go along with any union demand for a 32-hour week. And, in reporting that his company's 1961 profits were the lowest since 1952, he emphasized that, "Costs have been going up while there's been no increase in prices."

The United Steelworkers Union scheduled a meeting of its policy committee in Pittsburgh next week. Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said this "looks like a response to our appeal for early bargaining."

Goldberg told the Joint Congressional Economic Committee he was confident that "a demonstration of industrial statesmanship" on both sides will prevent a strike.

Production during the week posted its eighth week-to-week gain, interrupted only by Christmas week. Output totaled 2,390,000 tons, an estimated 79.4 per cent of capacity. Steel men said users apparently aren't building inventories as much as expected in anticipation of a possible strike but are using up most of their orders.

Their biggest customer, the automobile industry, continued to use steel at a heavy rate. Production during the week was estimated at 139,000 passenger cars, compared with 141,498 the previous week and 100,712 a year ago.

President Kennedy called for an investigation of the multibillion-dollar emergency stockpiling program. He wants the Senate to look into contracts and profits.

He told his news conference that the program had accumulated $7.7 billion worth of materials, which he described as exceeding emergency requirements by nearly $3.4 billion. He said he had ordered an end to acquisitions for the stockpile except for three minor items which he did not identify. He cited the supplies of aluminum and nickel as especially excessive.

A vast development of recreation facilities appeared in the making to meet the needs of the people as their leisure time and income increases.

A special Outdoor Recreation Resources and Review Commission laid a broad program before President Kennedy and Congress, but left it up to them to decide how much money will be needed to provide areas near where the masses live.

The commission estimated that by 1976 the work week will average 36 hours and consumer income will have risen from the current $354 billion to $706 billion.

Labor Secretary Goldberg reported that in January the unemployment rate fell to 5.8 per cent of the labor force. This was the first time since September 1960 that it had dropped below 6 per cent.

Unemployed totaled 4,663,000, a decline of 722,000 from the January 1961 figure. The number of employed reached a January record of 65,058,000, up 606,000 from a year earlier.

Goldberg said the figures "confirm the continuing improvement in the economy while at the same time emphasizing the fact that our problem of hard-core unemployment is not yet diminishing."

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges urged businessmen to make a greater effort to increase exports.

"Expanding markets abroad are essential to our greater growth at home," he said. "It is also imperative that we increase our exports to solve our serious balance-of-payments problem."

Briefly around the business scene: Business mergers totaled a record 1,234 in 1961, up 222 over 1960. . . . National Airlines and Continental Air Lines dropped plans to merge. . . . Home mortgage foreclosures last year numbered an estimated 72,000, highest since 1940.

Columbian Announces Stock Swap

NEW YORK — Columbian Carbon Co. transferred to a wholly-owned subsidiary of Cities Service Co. all of its properties and assets in exchange for 1,088,489 shares of a new $4.40 cumulative convertible preferred stock of Cities Service Co.

The joining of the two companies was approved by stockholders of Columbian Carbon and Cities Service at special meetings last December.

Former shareholders of Columbian Carbon will receive 67-100ths of a share of the new Cities Service preferred for each share of Columbian owned by them. The preferred stock is available for exchange through Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, and is convertible at any time in the ratio of one share of preferred for 1.63 shares of Cities Service common stock.

Lyle L. Shepard, president of Columbian Carbon since 1958, will be president of the new Cities Service subisidary, also to be known as Columbian Carbon Co., it was announced by Burl S. Watson, chairman of Cities Service.

Shepard joined Columbian Carbon as treasurer in 1950 after a career in investment banking and public relations. He was elected a director of Columbian in that same year. He was named vice president in 1953 and executive vice president in 1956.

Shepard, born in Norwood, New York, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1926. He served as an officer in the U. S. Air Corps during World War II in the Indian and China theaters, advancing to the rank of colonel.

Cites Ordinance

FERRIDAY (Special) — Mayor L. Woodie Davis warned here that an ordinance prohibiting the moving of old buildings into the city limits will be rigidly enforced.

Northeast In Easy Victory At Coliseum Relays

Don Styron Ties World's Hurdles Time

MONTGOMERY (Special) — Don Styron tied another world's record with a 6.7 in the 60-yard low hurdles to lead Northeast to an easy team victory in Coliseum Relays here last night.

Northeast's 15-man team won six of the 12 events in the meet with Don Styron taking two victories and brother Dave one.

Don's other win came in the 60-yard high hurdles with a 7.4. Dave won the 60-yard dash in 6.2 and the twins ran on Northeast's winning mile relay team with John Baker and Randall Walker. The mile relay foresome won their event in 3.28.4.

The Styron twins last week tied world records, Don in the 60-yard highs and Dave in the 60-yard dash.

Don's times in the hurdle events this Saturday night set meet records while Dave's 6-2 in the dash tied a meet standard.

Freshman star Tommy Edmonson turned in another outstanding performance for Northeast in the pole vault, tying for second with two other vaulters at 13-6.

Dave Styron was fourth in the broad jump with 22.4-½, while Eiland came in third in the 880 with 1.58.8.

Walker was fourth in the low hurdles. No other Northeast entries placed.

Coach Bob Groseclose's Indians scored 36 points in the meet, 12 more than defending champion Alabama. Auburn was third with 13 one third, Furman was fourth with 12 points, Florida State had 9 one third and Kentucky 7 and third.

Southwestern Louisiana scored 7 1-3 points on English distance ace Malcom Robinson's first place in the two mile and third in the mile.

Georgia Tech had four points, Mississippi State three, Clemson two and Georgia two.

Northeast athletes will compete in the Will Rogers Indoor Games in Fort Worth, Texas next Saturday night.

Bernice Boys Hoop Winner At Linville

Bernice took first in its division with a 67-63 squeak over the Sterlington boys with Kermit Pilgreen scoring 28 points to lead the way. Gerald Corbin got 17 for Sterlington.

Named to the girls all-tourney team were: Elaine Binford, Marion; Carolyn Elliot, Bernice; Sue Williams, Sterlington; Martha Puckett, Sterlington; Judy Love, Linville; and Carolyn Franklin, Marion.

Boys all-tourney selections were B. B. Spence, Sterlington; Ronnie Fitzgerald, Bernice; Kermit Pilgreen, Bernice, Curtiss Allen, Farmerville and Johnny McKinney, Linville.

Pittsburgh Signs 4 To 1962 Pacts

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers announced Saturday they have signed two ends, a rookie and a veteran, to 1962 contracts.

Contracts were received from Preston Carpenter, a 3-year veteran of the National Football League Steelers, and Bob Wills of the University of California, the club's 11th draft choice.

GENE LITTLER watches the ball, upper left, as it flies toward the pin after an explosion shot out of a trap guarding the ninth green at Indian Wells Country Club during yesterday's fourth round of the $100,000 Palm Springs Golf Classic. Littler dropped the putt for a par 4. He moved into the lead by shooting a 68 yesterday for a 72-hole total of 270. The final 18 holes of the 90-hole tourney will be played today. (AP Wirephoto)

PALM SPRINGS MARATHON

Littler Leads By Two Entering Final Round

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Gentleman Gene Littler, pushing his hot stick to the limit, took over undisputed possession of the lead after four rounds of the $100,000 Palm Springs Marathon Saturday—but had to share the headlines with handsome Dick Mayer, who collected $50,000 for hitting a hole in one.

Littler, fresh from winning the $9,000 first prize in the San Francisco Lucky International Tournament, took a two-stroke lead over the field. The San Diego shotmaker had a 270 total.

The final holes of the 90-hole tournament are set for Sunday at the Bermuda Dunes course with the top 60 pros competing.

Young Tommy Aaron, Gainesville, Ga., picked up a check for $3,000 when he won the pro division of the 72-hole pro-am. Playing with nine different amateurs, three at a time, Aaron posted a score of 74 strokes under par counting the two best balls in each foursome.

Jack Fleck, Los Angeles, finished in second place in this division, with a 72 under par—winning $1,500.

Mayer, a blond 37-year-old veteran of the tournament trail who hasn't played in competition since last October, got his biggest thrill when he connected with a four-iron on the 174-yard second hole at Tamarisk.

But the 31-year-old Littler, current national open and former national amateur king, continued to display the best brand of golf. He now has rounds of 67-71-64-68.

NOW 5-1 IN SEC

State Romps Over Tiger Five, 87-66

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Mississippi State, ranked 10th nationally, kept in hot pursuit of Kentucky and surprising Tulane in the torrid Southeastern Conference basketball race Saturday night as it shellacked Louisiana State 87-66.

It was the Maroons' 16th victory against one loss and left the defending SEC champions 5-1 in conference play.

Mississippi State, led by red-haired playmaker W. D. Stroud and stubby Doug Hutton, riddled LSU's usually tight defense early in the game as the Maroons whizzed to a 19-point lead and held on to post a 49-34 intermission advantage.

In the second half, substitute Bobby Fetter sparked the LSU offense but MSU froze the ball and held the Tigers back until Maroon coach Babe McCarthy sent in substitutes.

MSU collected a bucketfull of fouls and plunked in 29 of 44 tries from the charity line. LSU lost three men and had three more playing with four fouls each at the final bell.

Stroud collected 22 points to take scoring honors while Hutton got 20 followed by teammate Leland Mitchell with 17.

Catahoula Rally Dominated By Harrisonburg

Harrisonburg (Special) — The annual Catahoula Parish Invitational cage tournament came to a close last night with Harrisonburg dominating the meet.

Of the eight Harrisonburg teams entered seven advanced to the finals and four of them won championships.

In the varsity boys finals, Sicily Island topped Harrisonburg, 74-73, behind All-Stater Albert Krause who had 26 points. Jackie Owens connected for 27 points to take high point honors for the game.

Harrisonburg won the Jr. boys' nals, 34-30 over Enterprise, but Harrisonburg's junior girls lost to Sicily Island, 16-14.

Elementary finals were won by Block's boys—40-33 over Harrisonburg—and Enterprise's girls—37-31 over Central of Larto.

Third McDaniel Signs With Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Signed contracts were received by the St. Louis baseball Cardinals from two Latin Americans and two first-year bonus players.

They are Julio Gotay, 22, shortstop from Puerto Rico; Ed Bauta, 27, Cuban relief pitcher; and pitchers Kerry Don McDaniel, 18, and Bill Wakefield, 20.

McDaniel, youngest of the three McDaniel brothers who have been with the club, and Wakefield probably will be sent to farm clubs once the season is under way.

Cincebox Out

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Rens said Saturday, 6-foot-7 John Cincebox has a broken jaw and will be out of action about two weeks.

The Rens said Cincebox was hit by an elbow last Thursday night in an American Basketball League game against the Chicago Majors.

Twins Have 26

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —The Minnesota Twins raised their total of signed players to 26 Saturday with the announcement that pitcher Danny McDevitt and infielder George Banks have inked contracts.

Wildcats Defeat Nebraska, 72-53

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Fourth-ranked Kansas State continued its pursuit of the Big Eight basketball title by shocking the Nebraska Cornhuskers 72-53 Saturday night for its fifth league victory.

Bradley Defeats St. Louis, 72-67

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — With the return of All-America Chet Walker, Bradley's ninth-ranked Braves stormed past St. Louis 72-67 Saturday night in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

The victory gave the League-leading Braves a 7-1 record and it marked Walker's return to action after missing several games because of a kidney ailment.

McCormick Gets West Virginia 5 Overtime Win

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — West Virginia's Jim McCormick hit two free throws with 10 seconds left of an overtime period Saturday to clinch an 82-81 victory over North Carolina State in a regionally televised basketball game.

McCormick's one-pointers offset a basket by N.C. State's Ken Rohloff five seconds later to give the Mountaineers of the Southern Conference their 16th victory in 20 games.

Rod Thorn, West Virginia's top scorer and rebounder, watched the game from the bench as he nursed a foot injury received a week ago. In his absence, six teammates scored in double figures to pick up the slack.

Boilermakers Hit 60 Percent; Win

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue University's Boilermakers hit a fabulous 60 per cent of their shots from the field and beat Michigan State's basketball team Saturday night for the second time this season, 86-64.

Terry Dischinger, Purdue All-America, connected on eight of 14 field goal attempts and the entrie team made 33 of 55. The 60 per cent broke a school record of 58.2 made against Illinois earlier this season.

Dischinger's 33-point performance left him just six short of the Big Ten three-season record of 1,027, set by Paul Ebert of Ohio State in 1954. The Purdue senior has six more conference games to play.

Badgers Score 5th Straight Win

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Wisconsin's cinderella badgers scored their fifth straight Big Ten basketball victory Saturday, coming from behind to clip Minnesota's luckless Gophers 94-88.

Down as much as 11 points several times in the first half, the Badgers rallied to close the gap by halftime but couldn't shake off the battling Gophers until the final 2½ minutes.

Wisconsin had to turn back a furious late rally by the Gophers. Trailing nine at 84-75 with 5:12 remaining, Minnesota rallied on the shooting of Don Linehan and Tom McGrann to pull within two points at 85-83 with 2:35 left.

But the Badgers began cashing free throws as Minnesota pressed for the ball and the Gophers never got closer than three points down the stretch.

Oilers, Patriots To Play In Orleans

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Patriots announced Saturday they will meet two-time champion Houston in an American Football League exhibition game Aug. 18 at New Orleans.

DICK MAYER looks at a plaque commemorating a $50,000 hole-in-one made two years ago by Joe Campbell shortly after Mayer scored an ace yesterday in the Palm Springs Golf Classic to win $50,000 for himself. Mayer got his hole-in-one with a No. 4 iron on the second hole at Tamarisk Country Club. Campbell's was made on the sixth hole of the same course. (AP Wirephoto)

NOW FOR THE WAITING GAME

Mayer Fires Hole-In-One For $50,000 Bonus Prize

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Dapper Dick Mayer scored a hole in one for a $50,000 bonus or at least a share of it—in the Palm Springs Golf Classic Saturday.

The ace came on the 174-yard second hole at the Tamarisk Country Club.

Mayer will now have to sit back and hope no one else scores a hole in one—because the fat bonus must be divided if anyone else makes such a shot.

This is the third straight year that a professional has hit the jackpot in the Palm Springs Classic. Don January did it in the second round at the Indian Wells Country Club on the 148-yard 15th hole last year. In 1960, Joe Campbell, at Tamarisk, accomplished the feat on the 205-yard fifth hole.

The handsome, 37-year-old blonde used a 4-iron and the ball took one hop and bounced into the cup. The surface of the second green is one of the hardest on the course.

Mayer is playing in his first tournament of 1962. He won only $2,825 in official purse money last year and was 91st on the list of golf's moneymakers.

After Mayer won the U.S. Open and the "world championship" in 1957, misfortune seemed to settle on him. The pressure that falls upon an Open champion damaged his aim. And, in 1960, he suffered a broken elbow during the Tucson, Ariz., Open, and was dielined many months.

The cost of insuring the prize here has increased each year. Lloyds of London underwrote the first one for only $4,500. After Campbell's feat, the price went to $13,500. And after January got his ace last year, the price went to $18,000.

"Making an ace was the last thing I was thinking about," Mayer said, "because I had been having a hard time even making a deuce.

"I guess I really started to realize what had happened about two holes later—and I was so shook up I hit the ball out of bounds."

Mayer said this was his fourth hole-in-one, but his only one in competition.

"It's a funny thing," he said, "but last night we were talking about an ace and I said, 'Gee, I haven't had one in a long time.' But it ended there because when I got on the course I forgot all about it. It was a little hot on this hole because I had just 3-putted the green before."

But Mayer's amateur partners, Bob Lynch, Carl Haymond and Malcolm Cravens, grabbed Mayer and hugged him when he got the ace. Cravens said, "We all got so excited we even kissed him."

Mayer's wife, Mary Lou, was another witness in an otherwise unattended foursome. She rushed up, gave her husband a big kiss, and started to cry.

Mayer said he hit a little hook shot toward the right of the green. "I turned away, feeling like it might be stiff (to the pin). I didn't pay much attention to it. Then all of a sudden, someone yelled, 'It's in!' "

Bulldogs Smash Ark. Tech, 78-69

RUSTON (Special) Louisiana Tech avenged an earlier loss here Saturday night by racing past Arkansas Tech 78-69 with a fast break style of play that produced a balanced attack.

Seven Bulldog players scored eight or more points as the Louisiana team built up a first half lead and coasted in for its third victory in 15 games.

Kenny Sailors, Wonder Boy pivot man, who is one of the nation's top scorers, was held to 20 points, well below his 32.2 season average. He fouled out with six minutes to play.

The Canines led 47-37 at halftime and maintained a 10 to 15 point margin until the final minutes.

Ron McNabb led the Bulldogs with 15 points, while Ray Penny had 12, Joe Abendroth 11 and Butch Miller 10. Jackie Fair, Jim Graves and Max Lewis each had eight points for La. Tech.

Bill Boley of Arkansas Tech took scoring honors with 25 points. Sailors, with his 20 was next, and Doug McKinney had 10.

Graves did a superb job of rebounding for the Bulldogs, pulling 17 off the boards.

Reserves played a big role for the Louisiana team. Miller came off the bench in the first half to score eight straight points and Lewis tallied six in a row just before intermission.

Penny turned in a good defensive performance on the hot shooting Sailors who could connect on only eight of eighteen from the floor.

The Bulldogs shot 42.5 percent for the night and the Wonder Boys 36.5. The Canine players did not help themselves in the second half with a three for 12 effort at the free throw line.

Wade Hankins Completes 61 Mile Run Home

OAK GROVE (Special) — Wade Hankins, a distance running freshman at Northeast State college, ran 61-miles non-stop yesterday according to Oak Grove high school coach Woody Broyles.

Hankins, who had failed at a similar attempt late in 1961, took 11-hours to cover the course that started about four miles east of Monroe and wound through Bastrop and Mer Rouge before ending near the Broyles home in Oak Grove.

Bastrop businessman, Leonard Pratt also accompanied Hankins on foot for 18 miles. Pratt started near Mer Rouge.

Illinois Defeats Indiana In Big 10 Match, 96-85

Bill Small was the Illinois hero, not only slowing up Big Ten scoring leader Rayl, who entered the game with a 35-point league average, but also pacing the Illinois attack with 29 points.

Illini scoring was concentrated mainly among four players, who accounted for all 40 Illini field goals and all except three points.

Air Force Beats Kansas, 76 To 72

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—Air Force built up a 12-point margin midway in the second half and then fought off a stirring Kansas rally to post a 76-72 non-conference basketball victory Saturday.

Back court specialists Nolen Ellison and Jerry Gardner teamed with rebounder Jim Dumas in a torrid shooting spurt that sent the Big Eight Kansas team into a 28-15 lead midway through the first half.

St. Joseph Over Cathedral, 72-57

ST. JOSEPH (Special)—Freddie Miller pumped in 34 points to lead St. Joseph to a 72-57 victory over Cathedral of Natchez, Miss., here last night.

Cathedral won the girls' game, 44-29. Francis Hustle netted 24 for St. Joe to lead all scorers. Judy Dabbage and Delilah Eidt paced Cathedral with 20 apiece.

Lake Providence, Holly Ridge Win Tourney Crowns

HOLLY RIDGE (Special)—The Holly Ridge boys and the Lake Providence girls won the big trophies of the Holly Ridge high school basketball tournament here last night.

Holly Ridge downed Epps, 47-40, in their finals. Epps' Louis Cleveland led all scorers with 16 points while Elvin Russell paced the winners with 15.

Shirley Johnson looped in 24 points to carry the Lake Providence sextet to a 65-31 victory over Delhi. Nancy Snider was high for the losers with 15.

The boys' all-tournament selection was as follows: Russell and Lester Germany, Holly Ridge; Ray Ford and Paul Mercer, Epps; and Charles Gammill, Rayville.

The girls' all-tourney team consisted of Snider, Delhi; Johnnie Green and Shirley Bigelow, Lake Providence; Ann Williams, Epps; Lanore McGowain, Start; and Helen Tyree, Holly Ridge.

The sportsmanship trophies went to the Rayville boys and the Start girls.

BY HALF INCH

Uelses Shatters Own Vault Mark

BOSTON (AP) — John Uelses, the Marine in orbit, crashed the 16-foot pole vault barrier again Saturday night and in the process shattered his own day-old record with a fantastic vault of 16 feet, three-quarter inches.

A crowd of 13,417 on hand for the Boston AA Games in Boston Garden sat glued to their seats as the 24-year-old Leatherneck corporal went over with perhaps a half inch to spare on his first try.

Only Friday night in the Millrose Games in New York, the handsome, crew cut from the Quantico (Va.) base became the first vaulter in history to get over 16 feet. In that one, he cleared 16¼.

He almost was eliminated when the crossbar was at 15-4. After going over 14, 14-6 and 15 with ease, Uelses missed twice at 15-4. But he made it on his third try.

Then it went up to 15-8½ and he hit it the first time again.

The bar was raised to 16-¾. At first, the officials said it was 16-1 and it was announced that way when he made it. But a re-measurement showed to be a quarter-inch shy.

Friday night, when Uelses cleared 16-¼, the crossbar was knocked down by a rush of bystanders to congratulate him in the pit. AAU Chief Dan Ferris at the time said there was some question of recognition because it was not remeasured as required in the rules.

They took no chances this time. No one was allowed near the pit until AAU officials climbed up the ladder and spent a full three minutes with a tape measure.

"I was very tired," said the Berlin-born Uelses, "and I almost stopped on my way down the runway because I felt something in my leg.

"But then I decided to go on because I already had stopped once."

When the bar was placed at the record height, Uelses stalled, grabbed a broom and swung at a piece of paper on the runway as though he were trying to steady his nerves.

Then he grabbed his fiberglass pole and raced down. At the last second, he slammed on the brakes and stopped just short of the pit. It did not count as an official try.

Last year, in this same meet Uelses managed to clear just 14 feet for a tie for fourth. He has been a 15-footer for only one year.

A week ago in Washington, he soared over 15-10¼, which broke Don Bragg's indoor record of 15-9½. That also equalled George Davies pending world outdoor record. But indoor records are not recognized by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Byrd And Jena Get Top Honors In Jena Meet

JENA (Special) — Byrd of Shreveport took top honors in the boys division by downing Jena, 72-53, and Jena's sextet rolled by Dry Prong, 68-40, to win the girls division of the annual Jena cage meet.

Bob Benfield fired in 22 points to carry Byrd to the title, and Leroy Joiner got 12 for the losers.

In Jena's girls final win, Edwina Skrable fired in 36 and Rita Slayter got 28 for Dry Prong.

The girls All-Tournament team included: Slayter and Burnson of Dry Prong; Breland, Skrable, and Sharbano of Jena; Courson of Neville; Mitchell of Colfax; and Sirman from Elizabeth.

Byrd dominated the boys all-star selections with three boys making it. It included McKinley, Benfield, and Boone of Byrd; Baker of LaSalle; Windham and Taylor from Jena; and Futrell of Colfax.

The Sportsmanship Award went to Dry Prong's girls and Colfax's boys.

Oak Grove Wins Freshman Game

Translyvania won a girls game 31-27 with Thompson scoring 13 points and Freeman 12. Sharon Ainsworth got 13 for Oak Grove.

Prairie View Nips Grambling, 92-88

First-ranked Prairie View, with Cornell Lackey netting 28 points, came back from a 46-45 intermission disadvantage.

The game featured a private duel between 6-foot-9 Zelmo Beaty of Prairie View and 6-foot-8 Charles Hardnett of Grambling, both Little All-America hoopsters.

Buckeyes Coast To 97-61 Victory

Jerry Lucas Leads Victory; Hits For 24

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's top-ranked Buckeyes exploded with 15 straight points in the opening minutes and then coasted to a 97-61 victory over Northwestern Saturday night.

The victory was the unbeaten Bucks' 16th of the season and their sixth in a row in the Big Ten. It was also their 21st straight in the conference over three years and their 30th in a row at home.

All-America Jerry Lucas scored 24 points in the 27 minutes in which he saw action, 17 in the first half.

Northwestern held its only lead in the opening seconds when Rick Lopossa hit a free throw and Wildcat captain Ralph Wells, who finished the night with 16 points, scored a field goal.

Then came the Buckeye point barrage in which Lucas contributed seven and Ohio State vaulted into a 15-3 lead.

107-77 SLAUGHTER

Kerwin Gets 41 As Greenies Roll

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jumping Jim Kerwin, the Southeastern Conference's leading scorer, drilled in 41 points Saturday night as Tulane slaughtered Mississippi 107-77 for its third straight SEC cage victory.

Kerwin left the game with two minutes left to play and only four points shy of the all-time single game record he set last year.

The Greenies didn't take long to remove doubt from the issue by jumping in front and winging to a bulging lead early in the first half. With Kerwin, a 6-foot-3 junior, spearheading the attack, the Green Wave broke the game open in the first five minutes and took a 52-30 intermission lead.

The Tulane defense shackled Ole Miss sophomore ace Donnie Kessinger in the first half, holding the 6-foot playmaker to one point before intermission. Kessinger entered the game with a 19-point average and finished the night with eight points.

The rapid Tulane attack showed little effect of the loss of sophomore star Mike Milholland who was dropped from school this week because of scholastic difficulties.

The triumph sent Tulane's record to 10-2 overall while the loss was Mississippi's ninth against eight victories. It was Ole Miss' fifth defeat in six SEC starts. Tulane, 3-0 in the conference, is knotted with Kentucky for the lead.

TO PUNISH UNRULY

SEC Commissioner Gets Broad Powers

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Southeastern Conference, acting with surprising accord, granted Commissioner Bernie Moore broad powers Friday to inflict severe punishment on unruly athletes.

All 12 members of the conference endorsed Moore's plea for spelled-out authority to declare permanently ineligible any player convicted of flagrantly unsportsmanlike conduct.

Presidents of the SEC schools agreed to arm the commissioner during a 2½-hour session that concluded the 29th annual meeting of the conference.

Their action followed a football season in which several instances of crippling personal fouls stirred controversy. The most furor emerged from an incident in Birmingham, Nov. 18, when Georgia Tech halfback Chick Graning suffered a broken jaw and lost several teeth when struck by Albama linebacker Darwin Holt's elbow.

The injury to Graning strained relations between the two schools, and they decided later not to renew their football series when the present contract expires after the 1964 game.

In another surprise action, the SEC agreed to permit Florida to start fall football practice several days ahead of the other 11 schools.

Florida launches a three-semester program this year and will begin classes Sept. 9 for the fall semester. Athletic Director Ray Graves contended this would put his football team at a disadvantage because it would restrict his two-a-day workouts.

The conference backed Graves despite heated opposition led by Mississippi State and Georgia Tech. Florida opens the 1962 season against Mississippi State Sept. 22 and plays Tech the following week.

Moore said the exact date for the start of Florida practice would be worked out with Graves. It will probably be Aug. 27 two weeks before Florida classes begin, giving the Gators a five-day start on the others who must wait for the Sept. 1 opening.

The conference rejected several other proposed rule changes, but Tulane almost won this time in its annual bid to require all prospective athletes to pass college entrance examinations. The proposal failed in a 6-6 tie vote. It was turned down last year 8-4.

Moore lifted the secrecy veil on voting long enough to inform newsmen of the tie but clamped it on again in reference to all other proposals except his own which passed unanimously.

With his new disciplinary powers, Moore may rule a player permanently ineligible, or for a fixed period. Or he could warn an offender privately, along with his coach and school, that if the foul is repeated it would mean a public ruling of permanent ineligibility.

Spring Football Drills To Begin Monday At NSC

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — Spring football drills at Northwestern State College will begin Monday afternoon and will continue through the first week in March, according to Jack Clayton, athletic director and head football coach.

Equipment was issued to some 50 gridders Friday afternoon.

Two intrasquad games are planned as a climax to the annual spring practice sessions.

Eight seniors will be missing from last year's squad which won seven and lost three games. Major losses were at tackle where three lettermen performers must be replaced.

Four transfer gridders joined the NSC squad after enrolling for the spring semester which began Friday. In addition, two other transfers who joined the team in the fall will be eligible for competition.

The 1962 ten-game schedule will be announced shortly after approval by the athletic council of the college.

Letters will be awarded and special awards will be made to members of the 1961 squad at the annual football banquet February 23 at St. Denis Hall on the campus.

McNeese Host For 4th Annual Golf Tournament

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — McNeese State will host the fourth annual Lake Charles Intercollegiate Invitational golf tournament on Thursday and Friday, March 15-16, at the Lake Charles Golf and Country Club.

The 54-hole tournament will be played in four rounds, 18 holes each morning and nine holes each afternoon.

Stephen F. Austin State of Nacogdoches, Tex., won the 1961 tournament over a field of 11 teams. The University of Houston, which did not compete last year, won the team title the two previous years.

Ellis Guillory, McNeese golf coach and tournament director, says schools are premitted to enter as many as five players. All will compete for individual honors, but only the four lowest scores will be counted in determining team rankings.

Teams from four states competed in last year's tournament. Entered along with S. F. Austin and McNeese were Lamar Tech and East Texas State of Texas; University of Southwestern Louisiana, Northeast Louisiana, Northwestern State, Centenary and Nicholls State of Louisiana; Mississippi Southern, and Spring Hill of Mobile, Ala.

Coushatta Clips Winnfield, 63-58

WINNFIELD (Special) — Winnfield and Coushatta split a District 1-A Basketball doubleheader here last night, Coushatta boys winning, 63-58, and Winnfield's girls taking a 66-44 victory.

Jackson ripped the nets for 26 points to pace the Coushatta quintet while Mike Tinnarello collected 22 for Winnfield.

Beekman Girls, Swartz Boys Are Tourney Champs

Beekman edged Swartz, 24-23, in the girls' final, but Swartz's boys got revenge by beating the Beekman quintet, 40-36, in the other final match.

Guinn hit 19 points for Swartz in the female contest to lead all scorers. Connie Lloyd paced the winners with 15.

Bastrop's boys won the consolation tilt, 30-25, over Bonita, and Goodwill's girls defeated Collinston, 30-15.

In semi-final action, Beekman's girls downed Collinston, 35-18, and Swartz rolled over Goodwill, 30-13.

Rebels Remain In 1st Place In YMCA Play

The YMCA Gray-Y and Tri-Gray-Y basketball league entered its fourth week with the undefeated Rebels winning their fourth straight game.

They defeated the Indians 11-8, with Jerry Cosby hitting five points for the Rebs.

The Thunderbirds defeated the Golbetrotters 26 to 22. Tommy Davidson sank 14 for the winning squad while Bobby Doughtery racked up eight points for the losing five.

In the girls division the Angels beat the Crickets 19 to 6. Sandy Sherman got nine points for the winner and Dimgerchik picked up four of the loser's total.

Baskin, Ogden Win Franklin Hoop Tourney

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Baskin boys and Ogden girls won first place in the Franklin Parish basketball tournament here last night.

Baskin defeated Gilbert 59-43 for the boys' trophy with James Evens scoring 19 points. Marty Harris collected 14 for Gilbert.

Ogden copped the girls' finals by downing Baskin 37-24. Linda Hatton scored 33 for Ogden and Frances Futch and Mary Jarrette scored nine apiece for the losers.

First and second place trophies were awarded.

At Jonesboro

JONESBORO (Special) — Lowell Mize pumped in 21 points here last night to pace Jonesboro-Hodge's ninth graders to a 40-39 win in the championship finals of the Jonesboro - Hodge junior boys basketball tournament.

Brooks and Horn were high for Ruston with 10 apiece.

In the eighth grade finals, Ruston clipped Jonesboro - Hodge, 24-22. James Early dropped in 12 points for Jonesboro to cop high scoring honors while Barham hit nine for Ruston.

In semi-final events, Ruston's ninth graders downed Arcadia, 32-22, and Jonesboro - Hodge beat Quitman, 30-21.

GSC CAGE LEADERS

Northeast-Southwestern Tilt Is 'Game Of Week'

Northeast State's 75-52 rout of Southeastern at Hammond Friday night, coupled with Southwestern's 83-63 conquest of Northwestern the same evening, makes Tuesday night's Northeast-Southwestern contest here the Gulf States Conference's "game of the week."

The Friday results left Northeast and Southwestern still tied for the GSC lead. Each has a 4-1 record with five league games left to play. Northeast is 9-7 overall and Southwestern is 12-5.

The Tuesday tilt will be the first of two crucial home games for Lenny Fant's Northeast Indians. The Tribe faces defending champion McNeese, only conference team to beat Northeast this season, in a Friday night encounter in the Brown Hall gym. McNeese knocked off the Indians, 77-67, in Lake Charles Jan. 9.

After the McNeese game, Northeast will have only one more GSC game at home. The Indians will meet Louisiana Tech at Ruston Feb. 16, Northwestern here Feb. 20 and close out their season Feb. 27 against Southwestern at Lafayette.

Southwestern has two more home GSC games remaining, one with Tech Feb. 20 and the Northeast game seven days later. Beryl Shipley's Bulldogs will meet McNeese in Lake Charles Feb. 16 and Louisiana Tech in Ruston March 2.

Northeast finished fourth in the GSC last year with a 4-6 record while Southwestern was second with a 7-3 mark. Neither team has ever won a Gulf States cage championship.

McNeese and Louisiana Tech are tied for third place behind the GSC co-leaders, McNeese with a 3-3 record and Tech with a 2-2 mark. Southeastern is fifth at 2-4 and Northwestern sixth with a 1-5 record.

GSC scoring leader Lanny Johnson scored 21 points to pace the Northeast victory over Southeastern, the Lions' first loss on their home court this season. All-GSC Johnson is averaging 19.2 points a game and needs only 13 points Tuesday night to set a new Northeast career scoring record. The present record is 1,153 points.

One of the most encouraging aspects of the contest was the fine showing of guard Stuart Toms. The junior playmaker was one of the leading scorers for the second straight game, collecting 15 points. He had 12 against East Texas Baptist Tuesday night. Toms averaged 12.2 points last season but had been in a slump most of this campaign and was averaging only 7.1 going into the Southeastern tilt.

Sam Snead Leads Pro Golf's Goofs

CHICAGO (AP) — Tournament golf is crammed with blowups, form reversals and downright goofs by some of the game's great masters.

The way Sam Snead lost the scent in several National Opens —the only major championship to elude him—has produced some of the classics in the category of incredibilities.

On the 358-yard last hole of the 1939 Open on the Philadelphia Country Club's Spring Mill course, Snead needed only a par 5 for a one-stroke triumph.

His drive wandered into the trampled rough. He picked a brassie to get out and pushed the shot into a bunker. He wasted a shot in the trap and barely was out in 4. He made the Green in 5. His first putt was three feet from the cup. He took two more taps to get down for an 8.

In the 1947 Open at the St. Louis country Club, Snead needed a birdie on the last hole to tie Lew Worsham. He got it with a 15-foot putt. On the same green in the playoff, Snead blew a 2½-foot putt to lose.

On the 210-yard, 71st hole of the 1949 Open on the Medinah No. 3 course near Chicago, Snead's tee shot across the water nestled in the wiry apron about three feet off the green. With a downhill lie, Snead chose a putter.

The ball rolled 8 feet past the hole and he took two putts for a bogey 4. He parred the last hole for a 287 total (tying him with Clayton Heafner) while Cary Middlecoff won with 286.

Lloyd Mangrum was bugged out of a chance to win the open at Merion in 1950. In a playoff, Ben Hogan led Mangrum by one stroke and George Fazio by three on the 16th green.

PETER SNELL of New Zealand, left, works out in Auckland, N. Z. with fellow-New Zealander Murray Halberg. Snell last Saturday set a new world record for the mile with a time of 3 minutes, 54.4 seconds. Then yesterday he bettered the world half mile mark with a time of 1 minute, 45-1 seconds. Halberg holds the two and the three mile world records. (AP Wirephoto)

TRACK WORLD--THAT IS

Snell, Uelses On Top Of Astonished World

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Peter Snell and John Uelses, two youths in their early twenties from countries 9,000 miles apart, reigned Saturday as crowned princes of an astonished track world that once again was beginning to ask: Is there any limit beyond which man cannot go?

Are there any barriers that cannot be surpassed as athletes whip through 100 yards, speed a mile, skim over hurdles, leap in the high jump, hurtle in the broad jump, heave the shot or climb stratospheric heights in the pole vault?

The 'impossible" 16-foot barrier in the pole vault was cracked by Uelses Friday night at New York's Madison Square Garden as the 24-year-old German-born U.S. Marine from Quantico, Va., sprung from his fibreglass pole and pushed his body over the bar at 16 feet, one-quarter inch.

A few hours later at Christchurch, New Zealand, Snell, a 22-year-old supply surveyor who eclipsed Herb Elliott's mile record with a 3:54.4 clocking eight days before, smashed two more world standards and completed an unprecedented mile-half mile double.

Snell, like Uelses a virtual unknown until recently, shot his powerful body through 880 yards in 1:45.1, bettering the recognized world record of 1:46.8 set by America's Tom Courtney in 1957, and cracking the 800-meter mark en route with a 1:44.3 clocking.

Timers were waiting both at the end of the race and at the 800-meter stage (874 yards, 2 feet, 8 inches) to clock Snell, and both times will be submitted as world records. Roger Moens of Belgium holds the recognized 800-meter mark of 1:45.7 set in 1955.

Snell's achievement, coming only a week after he beat Elliott's best time and ran the 71st under 4-minute mile, gives him a hold on two of track's proudest posessions — the half-mile and mile records—at the same time.

Uelses' supreme effort, which made him the first to reach the 16-foot pinnacle once believed beyond any athlete's capabilities along with the already bettered 4-minute mile, 7-foot high jump and 27-foot broad jump, will not go into the record books.

According to international regulations only outdoor marks can be submitted, and his vault itself may be open to question because the crossbar was brushed down by well-wishers before the height could be remeasured.

His vault did, however, erase the last mythical standard set by track expert Brutus Hamilton, former athletic director at the University of California and head coach of the powerful 1952 U.S. Olympic team.

Recognized throughout the world as an authority on records, Hamilton established "perfect records" in 1954 (the third time in 20 years he was forced to revise them upward for 18 commonly contested track and field events. All have already been surpassed.

The 4-minute mile barrier fell when England's Roger Bannister clocked 3:59.4 at Oxford, England, May 6, 1954; Charlie Dumas leaped 7 feet in the high jump at Los Angeles, June 29, 1956 and Ralph Boston soared 27 feet in the broad jump at Modesto Calif., May 27, 1961.

All those records also have been surpassed in the short time in which they have been existence while such records as a :09.2 clocking in the 100-yard dash by Frank Budd and Jay Silvester's 210 foot, 2½ inch heave in the discus have accentuated the record-breakers' progress.

A glance at the Olympic records show that all but two of the Games' marks have been set since 1952, the year Hamilton headed the U. S. team. Every one of the women's marks was broken at the 1960 Rome Olympics.

What are the reasons for the ability of athletes around the world to continue their endless assaults on world records? Diet, training, coaching, equipment and facilities.

Athletes are using improved diets and subsequently becoming stronger, more able to withstand gruelling, endurance track events and able to build muscles that allow for more prowess in field events of the throwing variety.

Training methods, such as running in sand to strengthen leg muscles, and coaching methods, which teach better pace, also have brought about advances while better equipment and continually improving facilities have aided the athlete.

Snell, for instance, is a powerfully built, well-coordinated runner who was able to better Elliott's mile mark on a grass track considered slower than cinder surfaces. But he set his half-mile standard Saturday on a composition course at Lancaster Park considered the fastest in the country.

A virtual unknown until he whipped Moens for the 1960 Olympic title, Snell began to reach his peak this year. He first set his sights at a sub-4-minute mile and then, after cracking the world record, decided to add the half mile laurels.

He was pointed toward his latest mark by Barry Robinson, a New Zealand Olympic quarter-miler, who reeled off the first 440-yards in :49.3. Snell hit the mark in :50.5, made his move at the turn going into the stretch for the second lap and opened up to win by 30 yards.

Jim Dupree of Southern Illinois University, AAU 880 champ, was second with John Bork, graduate student at Miami, Ohio, University, third.

Snell said he intends to make one try at bettering his mile mark. He is scheduled to compete in the Los Angeles Times indoor meet on Feb. 10 and is being paged to remain in the United States for other events.

Meanwhile, Uneless, who couldn't clear 15 feet at this time a year ago, competed at Boston Saturday night, hopeful of going over 16 feet again and making it official with proper measurements.

JOHN UELSES, the Quantico, Va. marine who became the first pole vaulter in history to clear 16 feet when he vaulted 16 feet 1/4 inch at last night's Millrose Games in New York's Madison Square Garden, embraces the height marker after his jump. Uelses cleared the high bar on his third try before a crowd of more than 15,000. Since it was made indoors, it can not be accepted as a world's record. (AP Wirephoto)

NY Knicks Rally In 4th Quarter For 121-110 Win

NEW YORK (AP) —The New York Knickerbockers rallied from an eight-point deficit in the fourth quarter to defeat the Cincinnati Royals 121-110 in a nationally televised National Basketball Association game at Madison Square Garden Saturday.

Richie Guerin, with 34 points, was the Knicks' top scorer, but Willie Naulls, with 14 of his 32 points in the final period, and Johnny Green, who had 21 points and 21 rebounds, led the final rally.

The Royals, who twice stopped what appeared to be New York runaways when the Knicks went out to lead 26-16 in the first period and 56-47 in the second quarter, opened their biggest margin, 94-86, early in the last session.

The Knicks went 5:15 of the last period before getting their first field goal, and then Naulls started to spurt. The Royals held on, trailing by only one point, 111-110, with 1:29 left, but Naulls, Guerin and Green scored 10 straight points in the final stretch.

Spiked Leg Helps Greatest Vaulter

Uelses, who became the first man Friday night to pole vault higher than 16 feet, was a hurdler when he reported to the Miami High School track coach in 1954.

Tony Hogan of Miami Edison, arch-rival of Miami High, defeated Uelses for two years at hurdles and Uelses decided he wanted to be a pole vaulter.

But Bob Cook, his coach, kept Uelses in reserve as a hurdler until a spike wound stopped him for six weeks in his senior year.

"It would have been too tough for him to get back into condition for both events," Cook recalled Saturday, "so we had him just concentrate on pole vaulting. I'd say he's done pretty well at it since then."

Cook, now retired as track coach but still a physical education teacher, said Uelses has a lot of his own ideas.

"When he came out for track, we tried him at hurdles and vaulting. But he didn't seem to like vaulting too much. I like my boys to be happy, and we went with John's wishes.

"Then, in his senior year he made the decision to vault again. He got over his spike wound in time for the Florida Relays late in March and then tied Henry Wadsworth for the state title at 12-feet-6 in May."

Cook credits Howard Bankston, who graduated at Miami High ahead of Uelses, with teaching John a great deal about the sport.

"Howard was a pretty good vaulter, and a lot of our boys like to return and help others. Howard did that and John benefited greatly.

"When John was a sophomore he could barely get to 11 feet. He was scoring points as a hurdler. He was content to go along with that, but then Tony Hogan came along."

Uelses was born in Berlin 24 years ago. His father was killed fighting on the Russian front and he came to this country in 1952 to live with his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Uelses, in Miami.

Tigerettes Top Waldo To Win Junction Meet

WINNFIELD (Special) — The Winnfield High Tigerettes, paced by a trio of All-Tournament selections, downed Waldo, Arkansas Saturday night, January 27, to capture the Junction City Dual State Tournament.

Led by All-State forwards Mary Taylor and Diane Maxey, the Tigerettes defeated Waldo 69-48 in the finals to capture the crown.

The Tigerettes jumped off to an early 5-1 lead and moved on out to a 21-10 advantage at the end of the first quarter.

With the Tigerettes leading 25-18 after a brief Waldo surge, Mary Taylor then burned the nets off the goals with four field goals in less than a minute. The rally gave the Tigerettes a 37-22 half-time lead.

Hitting from every angle, Taylor and Maxey, who scored 34 and 22 respectfully, received assistance from Phil Love with 8 points and Sheryl Mixon with 2 points.

The Tigerettes defeated Strong, Ark., 50-11 in the first game with D. Maxey hitting for 19 points.

In the second game against Marion, La. the Tigerettes, led by Mary Taylor with 26 points and Marion Taylor with 26 points and Diane Maxey with 17 points, swept the quarter-finals by a score of 47-37.

In the finals against Waldo, Ark with Mary Taylor and Diane Maxey scoring 56 points between them, the Tigerettes took a 69-48 championship victory. Carolyn Rowe led Waldo with 26 points.

Coach Delores Carter's Tigerettes bench was cleared every game during the tournament.

Coach Carter states, "I would not like to have been the one to select All-Tournament guards, because all Tigerettes guards were superior."

Named to the All-Tourney girls' squad were Mary Taylor, Cornelia Curry, and Diane Maxey, Winnfield; Carolyn Rowe and Mary Belle High, Waldo; Thelda Owens and Gloria Davis, Junction City; Betty Hanson and Vicky Ritchie, Stephens; Grace Henely, Norphlet; Judy Lee, Summerfield; and Rosa Futch, Spearsville.

Wilhelm Signs

BALTIMORE (AP) — Hoyt Wilhelm, the veteran knuckleball specialist, has signed his 1962 contract with the Baltimore Orioles.

The 38-year-old right-hander is the only pitcher ever to lead both major leagues in earned run averages. He captured the National League title as a rookie with the New York Giants in 1952 and repeated in the American League with Baltimore in 1959.

Cowboys Trying To Break Road Losing Streak

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — McNeese State will be trying to break out of its road slump and keep its Gulf States Conference basketball title hopes alive in clashes at Natchitoches and Monroe this week.

Coach Ralph Ward's Cowboys visit Northwestern State Tuesday and Northeast Louisiana Friday in their final jaunts of the season. Both conference tilts are scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

McNeese defeated both teams at home, but the Cowboys have not won a conference game on the road this season. The defending loop champions will carry a 3-3 GSC record and 15-6 full-season slate into Tuesday's Northwestern contest.

The Cowboys currently boast the eighth best team defensive record in the nation, according to latest NAIA statistics, having yielded an average of only 56.6 points per game. McNeese is also among national leaders in field goal shooting, with a .473 percentage, and in free throw shooting, with a .726 mark.

McNeese's only ranked individual is big Al Nesmith, who is 19th in field goal shooting. The 6-5 senior pivotman is dropping in shots at a .579 clip, having hit 66 of 114.

Nesmith has been troubled with a cold and has scored only 11 points in McNeese's last two starts. He showed signs of recovery, however, in Thursday's 79-59 non-conference victory over Nicholls State by nabbing 11 rebounds while playing less than half-time.

Captain Jimmie Shields (6-1) leads the Cowboys in scoring with a 13.3 average. Don Troutman (6-2), who is zeroing in on the career 1,000-point mark, follows with an 11.3 average. Troutman has scored 970 points and needs only 30 more in his last four games as a Cowboy to reach the coveted mark.

Lloyd Eaton Hired To Coach Wyoming

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — The University of Wyoming hired Lloyd Eaton, 43, Saturday to guide Wyoming's football future in the new Western Athletic Conference.

Eaton, defensive line coach under Bob Devaney at Wyoming the past five years, was chosen unanimously by the Wyoming board of trustees following a 1½ hour session Saturday morning.

The board deliberated about six hours Friday before freeing Devaney to become head coach at the University of Nebraska.

LLOYD EATON

Eaton announced that he was retaining one other Devaney assistant, C.W. Hewgley, as offensive line coach. All other Devaney assistants will follow him to Nebraska.

Eaton said other members of his staff would be assembled as soon as possible.

Eaton was hired under a three-year letter of employment, more similar to that given members of the faculty, than a coaching contract.

No salary terms were announced.

Eaton said Wyoming's brand of football would remain basically the same as under devaney—a Michigan State-type of multiple offense. But Eaton said there may be more emphasis on a balanced line.

Assistants moving to Lincoln with Devaney are backfield coach Mike Corgan, end coach Jim Ross, offensive line coach Carl Selmer and freshman coach John Melton.

Eaton has made a habit of winning at football. In 17 years as a coach, his teams have never had losing season.

In 1956, he became head coach at Northern Michigan College at Marquette. The previous year, Northern Michigan went through a seven-game season without winning one. Eaton turned that mark completely around in 1956 by winning all eight games. That feat earned him the title of Michigan's small college coach of the year.

Eaton is a native of South Dakota and was graduated from Black Hills Teachers College at Spearfish in 1940. He went directly into coaching at Black Hills that fall and the next year began work on a master's degree at Wyoming.

Members of Devaney's Staff who will go with him to Nebraska are Mike Corgan, backfield coach; Jim Ross, end coach: Carl Selmer, offensive line coach, and John Melton, freshman coach.

Wyoming moved into the new Western Athletic Conference this fall along with Arizona, Arizona State, Utah, Brigham Young University and New Mexico.

Mitchell Wins Elementary Cage Tourney Crowns

Mitchell elementary school boys and girls won their respective divisions of an elementary school basketball tournament which was sponsored by the West Monroe Jaycees.

Mitchell's girls clipped Ransom, 7-5, to win the girls' division. Donna Whitehead of Mitchell and Norma Carroway of Ransom tied for high - scoring honors with four apiece.

The boys' all-tournament team was composed of Albritton and Bob Boulware, Mitchell; Dickey Smith and Wayne Butler, Ranson; and Terry Peddy, Kiroli.

Girls selected to the all-tourney team were: forwards — Whitehead, Mitchell; Carroway, Ranson; and Lois Wade, Woodlawn. Guards—Laura Kelly and Patsey Spillers, Ransom; Jo Ann McClain, Mitchell; and Marilyn Brady, St. Pascal's.

Colts, Eagles

Navy Takes Win From Maryland

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Navy's basketball team built a big early lead, then staved off a late second half rally by Maryland for a 67-58 victory over the Terrapins Saturday.

The Middies moved to a large lead in the first period, using fast break and accurate shootings, while their defense, a pressing man-for-man, had the Terps throwing the ball away. Navy held a 20-point, 39-19, halftime edge.

Reds Now Have 18 Signed Pacts

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds had 18 signed contracts on hand Saturday night with receipt of contracts from reliever Bill Henry and third baseman Mel Queen.

Henry, a 34-year-old left-handed fireballer, appeared in 47 games while the Reds were struggling towards their National League championship. He finished with a 2-1 record and led the club with a 2.21 earned run average while being credited with 16 saves.

Engagement of Miss Jacquelyn Masur to John Hess McElhaney of Dallas, Texas, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Masur, 2742 Point Drive. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis K. McElhaney of Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Miss Masur is a senior at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas, where Mr. McElhaney was graduated from the School of Law. An August wedding is planned in the First Presbyterian church of Monroe.

Below: Solemnized yesterday, February 3 in the First Presbyterian church was the wedding of Miss Mary Jo Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams Davenport, 610 Loop Road, and John Robert Lusk III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Finley Moore of Dallas, Texas, and the late John Robert Lusk Jr. Dr. Wave H. McFadden performed the double ring ceremony at 4 p.m. The couple will reside in Dallas.

Mrs. John Powell Jordan, prior to her marriage Tuesday, January 30 in Grace Episcopal Church was Miss Kay Garrison Snelling, daughter of Mrs. John Snelling, 2101 Marie Place, and the late Dr. Snelling. Mr. Jordan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivy C. Jordan, 1304 Forsythe. After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will be at home in Baton Rouge where Mr. Jordan is a senior at Louisiana State University.

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Cynthia Ashley Dawkins and James Leslie Moore in the Church of St. John Berchman's at Shreveport on January 29 at 5 p.m. The bride is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins Jr., Shreveport and the granddaughter of Judge and Mrs. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins Sr., of Monroe. Mr. Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Clark Moore, Shreveport.

Below: Mrs. George Allen Smith, before her wedding on Friday, February 2 in the First Baptist Church of Monroe, was Miss Kathryn Ann Talton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulton Talton, 204 Sherrouse Avenue. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Goldie Horrell Smith, 118 Riverbend, West Monroe. Upon their return from a brief wedding trip the couple will be at home at 3511 Hippolite in Monroe.

First Baptist Church of West Monroe, was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Diana Cobb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Cobb Jr., of West Monroe, and Jerry Joe Bonner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis G. Bonner of Springhill. Dr. Clifton R. Tennison performed the ceremony which was solemnized Sunday, January 28 at 3 p.m.

This week's social calendar has been enlivened with a number of informal parties honoring out of town visitors. Here from Orange, Texas, was MAVIS POWELL, former Monroyan who is always a welcome guest. This trip Mavis stayed at the home of the EVANS ETHRIDGES, while her daughter NANCY visited ANN SHERROUSE.

Old friends of Mavis were invited for coffee at the home of MILDRED VANDERPOOL last Friday morning. Guests nibbled on nut bread and butter sandwiches, biscuits with sausage, and hot orange muffins while catching up on the news with the Powells and other Monroyans now living in Orange. Plans were for Mavis and Joe to accompany the SLADE BROWNS to go to New York for the Broadway opening in mid-March.

'Twas interesting to hear of CELESTE HART's deer-hunting prowess. Celeste, another former Monroyan now living in Orange, was awarded a rifle as prize for shooting the largest deer killed by a woman during the season in Kerr County, Texas.

On Saturday, JOYCE KELLOGG was hostess at luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club, also honoring Mavis. Red carnations centered the table on the porch, where the party was held. Red cups filled with chocolates marked places for eight guests. Broiled chicken and lemon chiffon pie were included on the menu.

Home from Mississippi State Women's university last weekend, MALISE MAPP was accompanied by her roommate, CAROL BURKHALTER of Hammond, Indiana. Included on their schedule was a bridge party honoring MARY JO DAVENPORT, given by Malise and her mother on Saturday; and a dinner at home that evening for a group of the college set.

When she drove up from Alexandria to spend the day with her mother, BESSIE FOSTER, Thursday, SALLY M'SWEEN was accompanied by FRANCES HARGIS. At noon, MAE MICKEL was hostess for luncheon at her home. A massive arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums was placed on a side table in the dining room. Mae served her excellent chicken pie with congealed salad, hot rolls, and mincemeat pie for dessert. Others invited to share the visit with Sally were LUCILLE CARROLL, JEAN GIFFEN, JOY MARSHALL, and MARY ALICE HUSTED.

On Wednesday SANCY MADISON planned a bridge - luncheon honoring her sister, MARY MILLS ABINGTON of New Orleans. Sancy invited her bridge club, plus extra players, making a party of sixteen. Games began at ten-thirty in the young people's lounge, with luncheon served in the private dining room at noon. Prizewinners were ANN PADGETT, high; and DONNA WICKER, low ..... Also honoring MARY MILLS, SOPHIA BLANKS and SALLY SHAFTO entertained at a small luncheon on Friday at Bayou DeSiard country club.

An exotic dessert consisting of lemony custard layered with crumbs and oodles of whipped cream was served with JEAN DAVIS and SUE DOUGHERTY hostesses to that most relaxed of book clubs, the POTPOURRI. Continuing the year's study of "Elizabeth's Golden Age," BENNIE ABELL reviewed the biography "Shakespeare of London" by Marchette Chute, and ELEANOR BROWN, one of the Bard's plays "All's Well That Ends Well."

Bayou DeSiard country club looked particularly festive Monday evening for dinner following rehearsal of the wedding of KAY SNELLING and JOHN JORDAN. Hosts for the party were the G. L. MORGANS, the LOUIS PETERS, and the ALVIN FURLOWS of Baton Rouge. A white and silver theme, first seen in engraved invitations mailed some days ago, was carried out in decorations in the club's main ballroom. A horizontal arrangement of white stock and chrysanthemums in a silver container centered the main table, and four branched candelabra, wreathed with greenery and white carnations were placed down the length of the table. Individual tables held branched candelabra decorated with white chrysanthemums and tied with white satin bows. Around the walls were trees made of magnolia foliage and hung with white wicker bells whose clappers were sprays of white carnations ..... The menu served to about fifty guests included broiled chicken breasts, Balinesian rice, casserole of asparagus and English peas, congealed cherry and pecan salad, hot rolls and angel pie.

Chocolate angel pie was the dessert served Thursday afternoon by ELEANOR TERZIA when she entertained with a bridge party honoring JO ELLIS, a recent newcomer to Monroe from Tallulah. Two tables played at the Terzia home on Loop road, with Jo herself winning high, and YVONNE ANDERSON, low.

And speaking of lavish desserts, weight - watchers downfall was at the party given Thursday afternoon by FRANCES ADCOCK and CLAIRE BROWN in the Adcock home. Guests were invited into the dining room, where the white - covered table was centered with white chrysanthemums in a silver bowl. The choice was either-or, with most ladies availing themselves of the opportunity to have some of each. Included in the selection were homemade cream puffs, fudge cake topped with heavenly hash, cherry-topped cheese cake, salted pecans, and a luscious layered confection of almond - flavored cream and strawberry - pineapple ices ..... In the bridge games, VIRGINIA WARNER was awarded a copy of "Ghosts along the Mississippi" for first place; JEAN HAMILTON received "Poor Richard's Almanac" for second high; and LOUISE KLAM won a book of Peanuts' cartoons for low.

I don't care much for carrot sticks
Or celery to munch on;
I scorn the lettuce-grapefruit mix
That passes for a luncheon.
But anything with chocolate sauce on,
Whipped or sweet or sour cream on,
Sugar glaze or frosting gloss on,
B'earnaise or sauce supreme on,
Kirsch or brandywine ablaze on,
Walnuts, almonds, or cashews on,
Olive oil or mayonnaise on,
Gravies that serenely oooze on,
A la mode or a la king on,
Jelly, jam, or marmalade on,
Anything with everything on —
Such is stuff as dreams are made on.
But I am stuck with carrot sticks
And greens (insipid twosome!)
For no one goes for chubby chicks.
And that's my life; it's gruesome.

FORMER RESIDENT, Mrs. Joe Powell of Orange, Texas, seated, was entertained at a number of informal courtesies during the past week while a guest in the home of Mrs. Evans Ethridge, with whom she is pictured, and Mr. Ethridge on Deborah Drive.

Drew PTA Hears Discussion

Drew Parent Teacher Association held its January meeting in the school cafeteria with Mrs. Allen J. Pinckard presiding.

During the business session Mrs. Pinckard announced plans for observance of Founder's Day at the February meeting. The membership chairman, Mrs. Alex Myatt, informed the group that the organization presently held a membership of 97 and urged others to join. Mrs. A. P. Burkett, principal, made announcements concerning the school program.

Room count was won by Mrs. S. E. Horton's second grade, who also served refreshments to members and guests.

Mrs. Henry Colvin, program chairman, introduced members of the panel who discussed "our Social Children." Participants were Linda Mangum, West Monroe High School student, who gave a high school student's point of view; Mrs. David Smith Sr., gave a parent's viewpoint and S. T. Howell, Ouachita Parish High School, who give the views of a guidance counselor. The discussion was on social activities of teenagers and the effects on the academic work of students involved.

Diana Cobb, Mr. Bonner Exchange Wedding Vows

First Baptist Church of West Monroe, was scene of the wedding of Miss Diana Cobb and Jerry Joe Bonner, which was solemnized Sunday, January 28 at 3 p.m. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Cobb Jr., of West Monroe, and Mr. Bonner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis G. Bonner of Springhill.

Dr. Clifton R. Tennison performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of large fan-shaped bouquets of gladioli and myriads of white candles in branched candelabra, draped with Southern smilax and garlands of white holly. The candelabras were arranged in pyramid fashion at the altar.

Ronnie Brothers, organist, accompanied Mrs. Estelle Schulze Sanders, who sang "Through the Years," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer," and also played traditional nuptial music.

The bride's father gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of white bridal satin, designed with portrait neckline, fitted basque bodice appliqued with imported lace motifs and long sleeves which tapered to lily points over the hands. Front of the skirt featured deep folds of appliqued imported lace and the sweeping chapel train extended from a large bow bustle. The lace applique motif was repeated on the train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a double scalloped queen's crown of pearls, tear drops and rhinestones and her crescent bouquet was comprised of white glamelias and white butterfly roses, showered with velvet and pearl streamers.

Miss Linda Carol Loper of Shreveport was maid of honor and Mrs. Marvin L. Kitchens of Monroe, was matron of honor. They wore dresses of winterberry red velveteen, styled with fitted bodices, bell shaped skirts and three - quarter sleeves. Their headdresses were matching velveteen cabbage roses. Miss Loper carried a bouquet of glamelias centered with white roses and Mrs. Kitchens bouquet' was of blush pink glamelias tied with velvet and pearls to match the bride's.

Bridesmaids, Miss Laura MacMillian, Shreveport; Mrs. Paul E. Hines, Ruston; Miss Sandra Kay Beard, El Dorado, Arkansas; Mrs. J. E. Dupuy Jr., West Monroe and Mrs. John Marshall Woodward, Arcadia, were dressed identically to the honor attendants and carried bouquets of blush pink glamelias accented with pink velvet ribbons and poufs of wine and pink tulle.

Sharon Fordyce was flower girl and Earl Hanna Bennett, cousin of the bride, acted as ring bearer. Candles were lighted by F. P. Cobb III and Cary C. Bonner.

Mr. Bonner attended his son as best man and groomsmen-ushers were F. P. Cobb III, brother of the bride; Gary C. Bonner, Fort Worth, Texas; Terry Teague, Haynesville; Ken Stanford, Shreveport and Sammy Drew O'Bier of Springhill.

For the occasion the bride's mother was wearing a dress of mauve lace over taffeta, trimmed in matching satin, with hat of mauve satin covered with crystal beads. Her shoes and bag matched her costume and she wore a corsage of blush pink glamelias. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Bonner wore a dress of pale blue peau de soie, with matching shoes and bag and hat in shades of pink to magenta. Her corsage was also of blush pink glamelias.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlors. The T shaped table was covered with a floor length cloth of net over satin and centered with arrangements of white roses, pompon chrysanthemums and glittered branches. Silver candelabra held lighted white tapers and twin punch bowls were at either end.

For a wedding trip to San Antonio, Texas, the bride was wearing a beige wool suit with natural blue fox collar, matching straw hat and beige accessories. They plan to establish a home in Dallas Texas. Mrs. Bonner graduated from West Monroe high school and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and Mr. Bonner was graduated from Springhill high school and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Scarpulla, Chicago, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, Mary Payne Allen, Sara Frances Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hudson, all of Springhill; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reeves, Arcadia; Mrs. Raymond Meeks, and Mrs. Richard Bass, Farmerville; Mr. and Mrs. Bayne Taylor, Magnolia, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dyson, Ruston; Mrs. J. K. Salter and Jakie Salter of Eunice.

MRS. JAMES E. GLASS JR., prior to her marriage on January 29 was Miss Wanda Sue Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robin H. Green, 200 Gilbert St., West Monroe. Mr. Glass, a former student at Northeast Louisiana State College and member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Glass of Gainesville, Florida. The couple will estabish a home at 1584 N. W. 21st Avenue in Gainesville, Fla., where they will both continue their education. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. J. T. Cummings of West Monroe.

Cynthia Ashley Dawkins, James Leslie Moore Wed In Shreveport Church

Miss Cynthia Ashley Dawkins, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins Jr., of Shreveport, became the bride of James Leslie Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Clark Moore, also of Shreveport, in a ceremony solemnized at 5 p.m. Monday, January 29.

The Very Rev. Michel B. Majoli, S. J. officiated at the exchange of vows in the Church of St. John Berchmans in Shreveport. Arrangements of white stock and red roses against a background of ferns, graced the altar, to form a setting for the bridal party. Miss Mary Glorioso, organist, presented a concert of nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza, fashioned with taunt bodice and Sabrina neckline, embellished with appliques of re-embroidered lace. Back fullness of the bell shaped skirt formed a bustle effect with side panels of French net appliqued in the lace motifs falling over the chapel train. Her tiered veil of silk illusion cascaded from a crown of iridescent crystals.

Mrs. Don Hoyt Davis, Shreveport, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Flavia Ann Leary of Shreveport and Miss Judith Jones of Alexandria. They wore identical ballet length gowns of pomegranate chiffon, styled with brief sleeves, scoop neckline and matching satin cummerbunds. Their headdresses were circlets of white flowers and they wore shoes to match their gowns.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was his twin brother, John Clark Moore and groomsmen were Benjamin C. Dawkins III, brother of the bride and Joseph R. Viola. Ushers were Robert M. Guice, Charles D. Powell, Frank G. Camus and Robert Clark Curtis of Dallas, Texas.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in the Lake Room of Captain Shreve Hotel. Mrs. Whitfield Jack and Mrs. Percy Eakin greeted guests at the door and alternating at the bride's book were Mrs. A. D. Lewis, Sewanee, Tenn., Mrs. Haydn Cutler, Monroe; Miss Mary Ann Moore and Mrs. John C. Moore.

Centerpiece for the bride's table was an all white arrangement of stock, roses and iris, interspersed with accents of fern and flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers. The cake was served by Mrs. T. M. Oxford, Mrs. A. M. Leary and Mrs. Ward Jones of Alexandria, and alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Clarence Yancey, Mrs. Samford Fullilove and Mrs. C. T. McCord. Rice bags were distributed to the guests by Miss Laura Yancey and Miss Katherine Overbes.

For travel when the couple left for a wedding trip to Mexico, the bride was wearing an ensemble of raspberry Fortsman wool with matching hat and alligator accessories. Upon their return they will establish a home in Shreveport.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Richard Franklin White and the late Mr. White of Alexandria and Shreveport, and of Judge and Mrs. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins Sr., of Monroe.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Victor N. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. William King Stubbs, Mr. and Mrs. James Sparks and Mr. and Mrs. Haydn Cutler, all of Monroe; Mrs. Paulking Rand, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rand and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Rand, of Alexandria.

Silver Bowls Are Versatile Home Accents

Silver bowls, of all sizes and shapes, are extra special accents for the home this year for they hold the pleasure of many uses and long - lasting charm for homemakers who have an eye for beauty in their homes.

The use of silver bowls extends far beyond the dinner table, according to the Jewelry Industry Council. The smartest of the new bowls are classically simple with many copied from the famous designs of 18th century New England silversmiths. Their uses range from the strictly practical function of food serving to the delightfully decorative role of living room accessories.

Miss Kay Snelling, John P. Jordan Are Wed In Grace Episcopal Church

All white arrangements of stock, carnations and camellias banked with magnolia foliage formed a setting in Grace Episcopal Church for the wedding Tuesday, January 30 at 6 p.m. of Miss Kay Garrison Snelling and John Powell Jordon. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John G. Snelling, 2101 Marie Place, and the late Dr. Snelling, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ivy C. Jordan, 1304 Forsythe Avenue.

Cathedral tapers on the altar completed the setting for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Bill Baldridge. A preludge of organ selections was presented by C. Allison Salley, who also accompanied Mrs. Robert Wood, as she sang "O Perfect Love," and "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother - in - law, T. O. Bancroft Jr. She wore a gown of white peau de soie fashioned on traditional lines. The scoop neck with sheer yoke and long tapered sleeves was appliqued in reembroidered Alencon lace, lightly traced with seed pearls. A fitted cummerbund above the beautifully shaped skirt was cross draped at the waist, with a small flat bow defining the back from which the full skirt extended into a court train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion cascaded from a crown of pearl encrusted lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses with lily of the valley and specimen camellias.

Miss Jan West, maid of honor, was gowned in an ice blue taffeta frock, styled with square neck, and short sleeved bodice assymetrically draped over the bell skirt and marked at the waist by a small bow. Her headdress was a circular dot veil attached to a small bow and she wore matching satin slippers. Dressed identically to the honor attendant were the bridesmaids, Miss Bunny Cannon and Miss Nancy Snellings, and the junior bridesmaids, Miss Bonnie Bancroft and Miss Roberta Cobb. They carried bouquets of yellow roses and acacia, encircled by miniature ivy.

Flower girls, Misses Rebecca Bancroft and Pattie Pipes, were also dressed in ice blue taffeta, styled identical to the other attendants. They carried miniature bouquets of the acacia and yellow roses.

Mr. Jordan attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Tommy Grant Jr., Pat Riley, and Dan Keith. Serving as ushers were Robert Pipes, Neal Morgan, Kent Furlow and George Trousdale Jr.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Snelling wore an oyster silk brocade sheath with matching shoes and hat of pale green leaves. Her corsage of white camellias was attached to her purse. Mrs. Jordan, mother of the bridegroom, chose a gown of silk chiffon in Sea Nile green, with softly draped bodice, topped by a short jacket. Her hat and accessories were in matching shade and she carried white camellias.

The glass top refreshment table was centered with tall glass bauble lights, based with asparagus fern and orange blossoms and garlanded with satin ribbons. Flanking the centerpiece were crystal candles in graduated sizes with silver punch bowls at either end. Two hanging swags of ivy entwined with white satin ribbon extended from ceiling to floor on the porch overlooking the bayou.

Those assisting with the reception hospitalities were Miss Linda Lee Woods, Miss Sydney Greenblatt, Miss Maidye Strickland, Miss Jan Adcock, Miss Nancy Wilson, Miss Carol Slakter, Miss Carolyn Cordell, Miss Barbara Jordan, of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. Harold Woods, Mrs. Conway Crossland, Mrs. George Weaks, Mrs. Faheam Cannon, Mrs. Henry Guerriero, Mrs. Benton Wakefield, Mrs. Shelby Hill, Mrs. Morgan Simonton, Mrs. T. A. Grant, Mrs. Jamar Adcock, Mrs. Ed Seymour, Mrs. D. A. Strickland, Mrs. T. B. Godfrey, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. Clifton Flynn, Mrs. Lou Updegraff, Mrs. T. O. Bancroft, Mrs. Jack Collins, Mrs. A. B. Clarkson, Mrs. John Mullins, Mrs. Ben Cobb, Mrs. Robert Oliver, Mrs. R. R. Rhymes, Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Mrs. W. J. Riley, Mrs. Joe Guerriero, Mrs. Evans Ethridge, Mrs. George Snellings and Mrs. George Trousdale.

The couple will be at home in Baton Rouge, where Mr. Jordan is a senior at Louisiana State University. Both are graduates of Neville High School and Mrs. Jordan was a freshman at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute prior to her marriage. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and Mr. Jordan is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Miss Jacquelyn Masur To Wed Dallas Attorney

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Masur, 2742 Point Drive, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jacquelyn, to John Hess McElhaney of Dallas, Texas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis K. McElhaney of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Mr. McElhaney is a graduate of Southern Methodist University, where he was a member of Blue Key, the Varsity swimming team and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. A Dallas, Texas attorney, he is a 1958 graduate of Southern Methodist University School of Law. He was managing editor of Southwestern Law Journal, a member of Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity, Barristers, honorary legal fraternity and of Calyx and Dervish social clubs of Dallas.

An August wedding is being planned to take place in the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe.

First Presbyterian Church Scene Of Lusk-Davenport Wedding Saturday

Amid a formal setting of white calla lilies and stock and lighted white tapers Miss Mary Jo Davenport and John Robert Lusk III exchanged wedding vows Saturday, February 3 in the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams Davenport, 610 Loop Road, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Finley Moore, Dallas, Texas and the late John Robert Lusk Jr.

Dr. Wave H. McFadden performed the double ring ceremony at 4 p.m. Two large vases of calla lilies and stock stood at the base of the chancel, which was decorated with four seven-branched candelabra. Masses of green fern formed a background for the setting.

A concert of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. William L. McIlvaine, organist, who also accompanied Davis Bingham, as he sang "I Love Thee," preceding the ceremony and "The Wedding Prayer," following the Lord's prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of ivory satin. The basque bodice featured a marquisette yoke embroidered in seed pearls, and long sleeves which tapered to lily points over the hands. The full skirt, caught up in back to form a bustle effect, fell in graceful lines to a long court train. Her veil of Duchess lace framed her face in Madonna style and also fell into a court train. She carried a bouquet in sunburst design of white orchids, stephanotis and lily of the valley. A rose point lace handkerchief formed the background of her bouquet.

Mrs. B. G. Tucker, Monroe, served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Karen Weinert, Galveston, Texas and Miss Dianne Tinsley, Houston, Texas. They wore identical street length dresses of gold delustered satin, fashioned with fitted bodices, Sabrina necklines and elbow length sleeves. The softly pleated full skirts were accented in back with a flat bow of self material. They wore small veiled pill box hats of the same material and matching embroidered satin shoes. Their bouquets were of white gardenias.

Miss Frances Henderson of Shreveport, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and wore a dress of matching gold satin, topped by a white organdy pinafore. Her headdress was a matching flat bow and she carried a flower decorated white basket that was used at the bride's mother's wedding.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was Oliver Perry Clay of San Antonio, Texas and groomsmen were Tom Davenport Jr., and William Lawes, Galveston, Texas. Ushers were Richard Ringheim, Monroe; Ted Davis, and Dave Harrison, both of Dallas, Texas.

Clarence Finley Moore III acted as ringbearer.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Davenport, wore a beige lace gown with scoop neck, elbow length sleeves, fitted bodice and slightly flared skirt. A matching sequin hat and satin shoes completed her ensemble and she wore a cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Moore, moiher of the bridegroom, chose a bone shantung sheath with side drape, matching accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. White calla lilies, stock and smilax in a silver epergne with tall white tapers formed the centerpiece for the table with punch and coffee services at either end. A five branched candelabra decorated with white calla lilies and tapers graced a table in the reception hall and a similar arrangement was used on the bride's book table, which was presided over by Miss Sally Hinkle of Monroe and Miss Susan Weil of Shreveport.

Serving the wedding cake were Mrs. H. F. Madison Jr., Monroe; Mrs. J. A. Davenport, Mer Rouge; Mrs. George T. Madison, Bastrop and Mrs. John M. Gaddis, San Antonio, all aunts of the bride. Mrs. Harvey W. Wallender, Tyler, Tex., and Mrs. Duke Shackleford of Jones, presided at the coffee service and Mrs. J. H. Kerrigan, Des Moines, Iowa and Mrs. Mary M. Henderson, of Shreveport alternated at the punch bowl.

Others assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. T. Fitzhugh Wilson, Mrs. Jack Bunn, Mrs. Haydn Cutler, all of Monroe; Mrs. Thomas W. Barham, Oak Ridge; Mrs. J. M. Gregory, New Orleans; Mrs. Hugh McDonald, Brookhaven, Miss., Mrs. Ruth Owen of Tyler, Tex., Mrs. Conrad Ezell, Dallas, Tex., Mrs. Thomas Terry, Dallas; Miss Lynn Hapeman of Niagara Falls, N.Y., Miss Carol Sue Wolff, Fort Smith, Ark., and Miss Marilyn Terry of Dallas.

Music throughout the reception was provided by Mrs. George N. Hemphill at the organ. Rice bags were distributed by George Shackleford, John Shackleford, Clarence F. Moore Jr., Frances Henderson and Linda Terry.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a bone lightweight wool suit with short boxy jacket, trimmed in matching beaver. Her hat was of bone satin accented with gold and she wore matching kid shoes and bag and a white orchid corsage. They will establish a home in Dallas.

Mrs. Lusk graduated from Neville high school, attended Stephens College, Southern Methodist University and graduated from Northeast Louisiana State College. She is a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Mr. Lusk graduated from Highland Park high school and Southern Methodist University in Dallas, and is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Fireplace Decor

If you are lucky enough to own a wood - burning fireplace, you can build your room around it. Pier cabinets or bookcases are natural for either side. A pair of loveseats — and this year there are many to choose from — can stand in front.

Cheer Sick Child

Serve a sick child his food in fluted paper cups set in a muffin tin. The cups can be burned, and the tin is easily sterilized. The change in the usual method of serving and the color of the cups will brighten the meal for the little shut-in.

MRS. VERNON BOYD DUNN JR.

Emerald fern formed a background for the candlelight ceremony in the First Methodist Church of Winnsboro which united in marriage Miss Drew Margaret Hatfield and Vernon Boyd Dunn Jr., on Sunday, January 28 at 4 p.m. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carlyle Hatfield of Winnsboro and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Boyd Dunn Sr., of Monroe.

Rev. Frederick Schwendimann performed the double ring vows before the altar which was banked with fern trees of woodwardia and emerald foliage. Myriad white cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra were placed along the altar rail and in windows of the church sanctuary. Family pews were marked with bows of white satin caught with sprays of woodwardia fern.

A program of organ music was presented by Mrs. C. L. Moore Jr., who also accompanied James D. Mays, as he sang "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional gown of white satin and imported Alencon lace. The reembroidered lace bodice was fashioned with a scalloped scoop neckline and long sleeves that tapered to points over the wrists. Numerous unpressed box pleats shaped the wide satin skirt with a full bustle above the chapel train. Her fingertip veil of English silk illusion fell from a half hat of lace petals and satin roses, outlined with seed pearls. Her bridal bouquet was a curved design of yellow-throated phalaenopsis orchids and llily of the valley with sprays of gold velveteen leaves. It surmounted a small satin covered testament.

The maid of honor, Miss Nancy Jo Dixon of Midland, Texas, wore a gown of gold peau de soie styled with belt shaped skirt and fitted bodice with scoop neckline and long sleeves. Her headdress was a gold pill box hat matching her gown and she wore gold satin slippers and carried a large single white glamelia on a curved moss green velvet stem with sprays of velvet leaves. Dressed identically to the honor attendant were the bridesmaids, Miss Patricia Ann Ellis of Port Gibson, Miss., cousin of the bride; Miss Judy Entrikin of Baton Rouge; Miss Minette Goff of Ruston and Miss Jane Boungarner of New Orleans.

Miss Ellen Drew Ellis of Port Gibson, Miss., cousin of the bride and Miss Barbara Gravelle of Winnsboro lighted the candles. They wore long white robes.

Donald Spatafora of Monroe, served as best man for Mr. Dunn. Groomsmen were John Robert Shaw of Port Arthur, Texas; Granville Alpha Jr., and C. C. Laborde Jr., cousin of the bridegroom of New Orleans and Clark Martin of Baton Rouge. Ushers were Glynn Badon and Wallace Machensen of Baton Rouge; Sam Ray of Natchitoches and Frank Hover of Monroe.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in their home on Loop Road. A masssive fan shaped arrangement of creamy white gladioli and greenery graced the mantel. The bride's table was covered with a floor length white satin cloth over laid with white net, edged in white satin ribbon. A silver candelabra garlanded with fern and white feathered carnations centered the table. A white filigree container of fresh lily of the valley and fern interspersed with maline poufs and satin ribbons topped the square wedding cake which was served by Mrs. Elmo Gentry of Mansfield. Mrs. C. W. Kennedy of Baton Rouge, aunt of the bride, presided at the crystal punch bowl and Miss Mary Ann Givens of Winnsboro had charge of the guest book. Tea girls were Miss Rebecca Kennedy of Baton Rouge; Miss Barbara Gravelle of Winnsboro and Miss Ellen Drew Ellis.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip to New Orleans the bride was wearing a costume suit of black and beige wool and the white orchids from her bouquet. The couple will make their home in Baton Rouge and continue studies at Louisiana State University.

MRS. WHITNEY ROBERT MUNDT

Miss Lord, Mr. Mundt Are Wed

Solemnized Saturday January 27 in the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Lake Charles was the wedding of Miss Shirley Marguerite Lord and Whitney Robert Mundt.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Jones of Monroe, is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College and has been teaching school in Lake Charles. She is a candidate for the Master of Arts degree from Louisiana State University.

Mr. Mundt, employed by the Lake Charles American Press, holds the MA degree from Louisiana State University. He is the son of Mrs. Mabel M. Mundt and the late John W. Mundt of Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Lake Charles until April 1, when they will depart for Fort Benning, Georgia, where Mundt, a reserve army lieutenant, will attend infantry school.

Lakeshore PTA Hears Program

Topic of the program presented in a panel discussion was "Links," which demonstrated how each organization in a community is linked together. Mrs. Jake Humphries, program chairman, introduced P. J. Scalia, president of the Lions club, who in turn introduced other members of the panel. They were Grady Merriman, Harman Everett, R. B. Martin and Harry Bell.

Mr. Merriman and Mr. Everett gave questions and answers dealing with the intents and purposes of the communist party. Mr. Martin gave an address on the topic, "The True Face Behind the Mask," in which he stressed a better understanding of the enemy so that resistance would follow automatically.

Mr. Bell concluded the program with an informal discussion on "What Can I Do To Become Better Informed?" He offered information as to how documented pamphlets and books can be obtained from Senate committees and the House un-American activities committee. The panel placed before the group the true nature of Marxist Communism in relation to the ultimate objectives it holds in store for the human race.

Stanley Brister, president, conducted a business session and room count was won by Mrs. Louise Thacker's first grade. Fourth grade parents were hosts and served refreshments during the social hour.

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Kathryn Talton, George Allen Smith

Miss Kathryn Ann Talton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulton Talton, 204 Sherrouse Avenue, became the bride of George Allen Smith, son of Mrs. Goldie Horrell Smith, 118 Riverbend, West Monroe, on Friday, February 2, in the First Baptist Church of Monroe. Dr. James T. Horton performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Ronnie Brothers, organist, accompanied Veo T. Gray, as he sang "Because," "Always," and at the end of the service, "The Wedding Prayer." He also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding she wore a ballerina gown of antique taffeta and lace, highlighted by back panel effect. The scalloped Sabrina neckline ended in a V in the back and long sleeves tapered to lily points over her wrists. Her elbow length veil of illusion was held in place by a crown encircled with tiny rosettes encrusted with seed pearls, and her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white butterfly roses.

Mrs. George Varino was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Gay Brown and Miss Montez Brothers. They wore identical dresses of turquoise velveteen with bell-shaped skirts and scalloped necklines. Their headdresses were matching satin pillbox hats with face veils and they carried heart shaped bouquets of pink carnations.

Miss Vicki Spatafora, flower girl, wore a frock of turquoise velveteen with white lace trim with headdress and bouquet identical to the other attendants.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was his uncle, George Horrell. Groomsmen were Ralph McNabb and Douglas Brewer who with Jerry Lott, and Billy Calvert, also served as ushers.

A reception followed in the social room of the church, where Miss Susan Broomfield presided at the guest book. The round cake table, reception table and guest book were covered with floor length white satin covers. A mass arrangement of pink stock and carnations flanked by pink tapers in crystal candelabra centered the punch table and similar arrangements graced the other tables. The clover leaf tiered cake on a mirror plaque was embossed with white sugar bells.

Mrs. George Mullins had charge of the reception. Tea girls were Misses Linda Broomfield, Ann Spatafora, Georgia Mullins, Hope Little and Gail Oetgen. Mrs. W. W. Tubb and Mrs. Harold Oetgen presided at the punch bowls and Mrs. Arnold Horrell and Mrs. Aubrey Chapman served the cake.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home at 3511 Hippolite. For travel the bride wore a white wool suit with black accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. A graduate of Neville high school and Northeast Louisiana State College, Mrs. Smith is now teaching in the city school system. Mr. Smith graduated from West Monroe high school and Northwestern State College and is presently employed as physical director for the Y.M.C.A.

Breeze through Spring — and on — in this carefree two-piecer of 54% Cotton, 46% Arnel triacetate. The knife-pleats are in to stay. "Rich man, poor man" abundance of buttons on the double-breasted, cardigan neck jacket. Tiny checks in black/white, beige/white, and mint/white. Sizes 5 to 15.

Look For...

Miss Granberry, Leon Bojarsky Exchange Vows

The Presbyterian Church at Houma was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Beverly Gray Granberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Edward Granberry Jr. of Bastrop, and Leon Wolfe Bojarsky, son of Mrs. Joseph Wolfe Bojarsky and the late Mr. Bojarsky of Houma.

The bride is a graduate of Bastrop high school and Northwestern State College in Natchitoches. For the past four years she has taught in the West Park Elementary school of Houma.

The couple will be at home in Baton Rouge following a wedding trip to New Orleans and the Gulf Coast.

MRS. HUBERT CRUME RILEY

Riley-Armstrong Vows Read In Crossett Church

The First Methodist Church of Crossett was the setting Saturday, January 27 at 10 a.m. for the wedding of Miss Nancy Lynn Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Armstrong, and Hubert Crume Riley, son of Mrs. Mary Emma Crawford and the late Hubert Crume Riley.

Seven - branched candelabra holding white tapers and floor baskets of white gladioli formed a setting at the altar where the double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Clinton M. Atchley. Miss Grace Calhoun was organist and accompanied Mrs. Deanna Tinnell, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white wool flannel sheath suit, with trim of white satin and silver braid. Her headdress was a circlet of pearls to which was attached a nose veil of tulle. She carried a white lace-covered Bible, topped with a single white orchid, encircled with maline and lily of the valley sprays.

Mike Young, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man and ushers were Harold Glynn Young, also his cousin; Wayne Gulledge, uncle of the bridegroom, Phillip Pennington and Gene Hogan Deal.

Mrs. Riley received her degree in January from Arkansas State Teacher's College in Conway and Mr. Riley will complete his work on a degree there in August.

MR. AND MRS GRADY WAYNE LOWERY

Miss Tatum Married In Newellton

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Patricia Ann Tatum, of Newellton and Shreveport and Grady Wayne Lowery, Lufkin, Texas, and Shreveport on Saturday, January 27 in the First Baptist Church at Newellton at 5 p.m. Rev. J. I. Funderburk, pastor of Summergrove Baptist Church, Shreveport, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stanley Tatum of Newellton and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Grady Lowery, Lufkin, Texas.

Mrs. W. B. Netterville was organist and accompanied Miss Barbara Funderburk of Shreveport, who sang "Because," "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a princess gown of traditional white satin, styled with scalloped Sabrina neckline, appliqued with imported French lace reembroidered with pearls. Long sleeves formed lily points over the hands and appliques of the reembroidered lace accented the bell skirt and extended down the back panels outlining the chapel train, which fanned out from a cluster of satin roses. A lace crown embroidered with pearls held in place her waist length veil of silk illusion. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom and carried a bouquet of a white orchid, surrounded by lily of the valley.

Miss Johanna Hulls of Newellton was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Marilyn Cooper, Newellton and Winnsboro, and Mrs. Roy Bostwick, Houma and West Monroe. Their gowns of sky blue velveteen were fashioned with fitted bodice, scoop necklines and elbow length sleeves with softly pleated skirts. Circular veils of sky blue illusion held in place by velveteen circlets and bows formed their headdresses. They wore matching blue satin shoes and carried bouquets of white glamelias.

Buddy Lowery, Lufkin, Texas, uncle of the groom, served as best man and groomsmen were Bobby Lowery, Lufkin, Texas, brother of the groom and Bill Shaw, Shreveport. Ushers who also lighted the candles were Carl Tatum and Buddy Tatum, brother and cousin of the bride.

For the ceremony and reception which followed in the recreation room of the church, Mrs. Tatum, mother of the bride, was wearing a Dior blue silk linen ensemble with matching blue satin shoes, purse and hat. Her corsage was of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a peacock blue silk shantung ensemble with matching shoes and bag and white sequin hat, and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a peacock blue shantung ensemble with matching shoes and bag and white sequin hat, and a corsage of white carnations.

An embroidered white linen cloth covered the table which held the crystal punch bowl and tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Three large white glamelias entwined with ivy surrounded the base of silver candelabra which centered the table. Miss Helen Burnside presided at the punch bowl and Miss Dianne Thames served the cake. The guest book on a table with a memory candle was presided over by Miss Dorothy Vines, cousin of the bride. Tea girls were Misses Betty, Barbara Ann and Sandra Vines, cousin of the bride. Others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Steve Hulls and Mrs. Bruce Tatum.

After a brief wedding trip the couple will be at home in Shreveport. For travel the bride wore a blue wool suit with mink collar, matching mink and satin hat with brown accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

DEPARTING in the near future to establish a home in Doringkop, Natal, Union of South Africa, are Mrs. Ronald Wyatt and infant daughter, Virginia Ann, who with Mr. Wyatt will leave for their new home after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Richard Pierce, 1015 Hilton. The Wyatts arrived in Monroe January 30 following Mr. Wyatt's graduation from Louisiana State University, where he was recently initiated into Phi Kappa Phi honor society.

Swendson-Wilson Vows Read In Church Scene

In a double ring ceremony Saturday, January 27 in Boeuf River Baptist Church, Miss Lorene Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Wilson of Rayville, became the bride of Joe A. Swendson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Swendson of Start. Rev. J. W. Kennedy officiated at the 4:30 p.m. wedding.

Candelabra and candle trees, entwined with English ivy and two baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemusm, interspersed with jade and ferns formed a background for the exchange of vows.

Preceding the ceremony Jerry Futch sang "Whither Thou Goest," "O Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer." He was accompanied by Miss Linda Hardwick, who also played traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a princess style gown of white delustered satin, styled with V neckline and long pointed sleeves. A tiara of sequins and pearls held her veil of illusion and her bouquet was of white carnations and lily of the valley encircling a white orchid with streamers tied in love knots. For ornamentation the bride wore a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Jeanette Wilson, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Carlette Swendson, niece of the bridegroom, served as attendants for the bride. Their frocks of pink satin brocade were styled identically to the bride's and they wore matching pink headbands with flat bows in front. They carried bouquets of deep rose carnations with ribbons in shades of pink.

Jerry Wilson was best man and Carl Swendson served as groomsman. Ushers were James Dixon and Don Wilkes.

The bride's mother wore a jacket dress of rose wool crepe with white satin hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of garnet roses with moss green net. The bridegroom's mother wore an ensemble of rose beige brocade with beige accessories and a corsage of garnet roses.

A reception was held in the church reception room where the bride's table was covered in pink overlaid with a lace cloth. The tiered wedding cake and punch bowl were placed opposite a centerpiece of candles and the bridesmaids' bouquets.

For a short wedding trip the bride wore a light green wool suit with black hat and matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The bridegroom, a graduate of Start High School and Northeast Louisiana State College, recently received his commission as lieutenant in the army and he and his bride are presently awaiting orders of assignment from the army. Mrs. Swendson was graduated from Rayville High school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College for two years.

Delta Theatre Will Reduce Admissions

Admission prices for the Delta Theatre will be reduced beginning February 8, Ted Hatfield, city manager for the Paramount Gulf Theatres, Inc., announced.

The new prices will be 33 cents for teenagers and adults and a dime for kiddies through 11 years of age.

The downtown Delta Theatre wil feature four hours of family movie entertainment daily including two feature attractions, a color cartoon, and an all-new serial, "Cody of the Pony Express," every week end.

The first attraction under the new price police, Hatfield said, will be Thursday's program of Mark Twain's best loved story, "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," in CinemaScope and color, and starring Eddie Hodges, Judy Canova, Buster Keaton and Andy Devine. The co-feature is the underwater adventure "Secret of Deep Harbor."

'THE KING AND I,' starring Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr,, and filmed in CenimaScope 55, color and Hi-Fi Stereophonic sound, opens today at the Paramount Theatre. The return engagement was brought by popular demand.

Curtain Call

By B B Stron

Rehearsals are going along at a rapid pace, and the teenagers are having a ball. Among the schools represented by the teen chorus are: West Monroe High School, Neville High School, Ouachita Parish High School, Jefferson Junior High School, Lee Junior High School, Bastrop High School, Westside Grammar School of Bastrop, and Northeast Louisiana State College.

Two additions have been made to the teen chorus. Dorothy Bubb and Patty Smith have joined this group and have been hard at work.

ADULT CHORUS

The adult chorus has added John Henry Vaughn, Lee Gonzales, John Pierpont, Fred Cpples and Arthur Griffith. Also Scherck Bogen has taken over the roll of one of the reporters.

Among the visitors to the set last week was W. J. "Bill" Haddad, who was taking a few days between semesters at LSU. He tells us that he is one of the property men for an opera which they will do in February. However, he plans to get someone to take over his duties one night to enable him to see a performance of "Bye Bye Birdie."

Also the KNOE-TV photographer was at the playhouse last week, making a filmstrip, which you will see from time to time on the news and other programs.

NEEDED

Richard has put out an SOS for some black motorcycle boots, size 11-D. If you have some boots, or know of someone from whom we may borrow them, we will greatly appreciate it if you will call Richard at the Strauss Playhouse, FAirfax 3-1235.

Mrs. E. L. Brooks from Minden attended a rehearsal this week. She has been directing "The Golden Fleecing," for the Minden Little Theatre, which is enjoying its first season. Mrs. Brooks tells us that they have about 15 people who plan to come over to a performance of "Bye Bye Birdie."

SUMMER PLAYS

The Play Reading Committee has been at work and has selected the plays for the summer theatre. We are sure you will be looking forward to seeing "Inherit the Wind," and "Anniversary Waltz."

We also wish to call your attention to the fact that "Arsenic and Old Lace," has been substituted for "Under the Yum Yum Tree." We are certain you will enjoy this delightful comedy.

Attention all Board Members! There will be a meeting at the home of Mrs. C. C. Boardman tomorrow evening at 7:30.

It is not too early to write in for your reservations. Write now and be assured of the seats you want on the night you want to see "Bye Bye Birdie."

INGE PLAY POSTPONED

NEW YORK (AP) — "Natural Affections," a new play by William Inge, is now scheduled for Broadway arrival next October. Originally it was on the Robert Whitehead - Roger L. Stevens agenda for spring debut.

Shelley Winters is set to star in the drama, and Harold Clurman will direct.

Stamp News

Many nations (approximately 76) have announced stamp issues to publicize the world-wide campaign to eradicate malaria. The over-all program is being promulgated by the United Nations' World Health Organization.

The U. N. Postal Administration also will issue a special stamp for this occasion on March 30. It will be the second U. N. commemorative stamp of 1962. The theme of the new stamp will be "The World United Against Malaria."

The stamp will be printed in six colors in denominations of 4 cents and 11 cents. The design, by Rashid-ud Din of Pakistan, will feature a mosquito.

The United Nations' first commemorative stamp of the year honoring "Housing and Related Community Activities" will be issued on Feb. 28. It was originally announced for issuance on Feb. 19.

Collectors desiring first - day covers of the Housing stamp should send their addressed unstamped envelopes to the U. N. Postal Administration, Room 1B-1, United Nations, New York 17, N.Y. First day cover requests must be postmarked before midnight Feb. 22. The outside envelope should be clearly marked "First Day Covers — Housing and Related Community Facilities."

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Things are humming in the color film field in this country. Several changes have been announced in American - made films and a couple of foreign color brands, well established in Europe, are seeking a foothold here.

First there is the news that amateur photographers will no longer be able to get the Type F Kodachrome, the transparency film for shooting indoors with clear flashbulbs. It is being discontinued, Kodak announces, because other methods are available to shoot the same type of pictures.

Here are the alternative ways: (1) Switch to Type F Ektachrome film and continue to use clear flash bulbs. An advantage is that the film is faster than the old Kodachrome F. (2) Use daylight type Kodachrome II film and switch to blue flashbulbs. The advantage here is that the film is ready for either daylight or indoor shooting at all times. (3) Use the new Kodachrome II with electronic flash, if you have such a unit.

It should be noted that Kodachrome professional film, Type A, for artificial light indoors is not affected by the change and remains available.

Some changes are also taking place with Ektachrome film, at present only in the 127 roli film size. An "Improved Ektachrome 127" film is now available, aimed principally at box camera users. The new film is double the speed —ASA 64—of the old Ektachrome and it also has better color quality. The color slides look sharper and have truer colors than before and, because of its extra speed, it can reach into shadow areas and put a little color where it didn't heretofore.

Another note, quite easy to take, is the announcement that the premium price tag on the new Kodachrome II film is being removed so that it now costs the same as the old Kodachrome. Its speed is faster — ASA 25 compared with ASA 10 for daylight shooting — giving its users the advantage of closing the lens one-and - one - half stops, under the same lighting conditions. Its quality has also been changed so as to give more subtle and truer color renditions, particularly in the yellows and greens. However, camera fans who prefer the more brilliant, poster-like colors can continue to use the original Kodachrome despite its slower speed. It is probable that Kodachrome I will remain on the market as long as consumers demand it.

Perutz and Agfa are the West German firms which are introducing their European color films and color processing plants in the United States. Perutz has already been established for several months with a plant in Chicago and color processing operations soon to open in San Francisco and Washington D. C. The Agfa color plant is scheduled to get under way in May in Flushing, New York City.

Both the Perutz and Agfa color films are 35mm positive, transparency slide films and each has an ASA speed of 50. The Perutz films have been tested and found to be of high color quality. Each transparency is given a protective lacquer - coating and returned in a durable plastic mount which will not warp or become dog-eared in time.

However, the advantage of the plastic mount is offset by the loss of several conveniences which we get with our cardboard mounts: 1. The plastic ones are not numbered in sequence of shooting. This is often the way we keep track of and check our exposures and learn how to shoot properly in the future. 2. They are not dated. It is a handy aid to have the processing date permanently recorded. 3. It is not as easy to write identifications on plastic as it was on cardboard.

4. They do not fit in some slide magazines.

Bids Scheduled For First Phrase Of Highway Job

FERRIDAY (Special) — State Senator Howard M. Jones of St. Joseph, has advised constituents in Concordia Parish that bids will be let Wednesday, Feb. 28 for the first phase of a two phase program covering the construction of a divided four-lane highway from the Vidalia - Natchez bridge into Ferriday on U.S. Highway 84.

Jones said "The first phase of this construction covers a distance of 5.463 miles, running from Vidalia."

"The second phase of the contract will be let after all right - of - way problems have been solved and work on the first phase has progressed to the point where daily traffic flow has been properly provided for.

"The letting of this contract is, to me, a personal triumph for it fulfills a promise to the people made by me during my campaign for senator.

Concordia Bond Sales Progress

FERRIDAY (Special) — Percy L. Rountree Jr., Concordia Parish savings bond chairman, reports that sales in the parish totaled $7,861 for the month of December.

Rountree said this represents 62 per cent of the 1961 goal for the parish.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Showing Of Flowers Is Colorful Event

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

In spite of the weather and time of the year the Dubach Garden Club members brought a very colorful flower show to the TV and Garden Center last week.

With the help of evergreens, house plants, and florist's flowers they were able to bring color into the lovely arrangements displayed by several of their members. These arrangements were judged just before the show. The scores were very close. However, there were two who tied for highest place with the same grade of 95.

GRACEFUL BRANCHES

The first top - winner was made by Mrs. Burl Davis. She used the graceful branches of Japanese Yew to form the diagonal line design in a very attractive tan colored pitcher. One the left side of the design the yew was brought down to follow the line of the pitcher's handle.

The base for this design was made by placing a brown ceramic saucer upside down on a plate which had been placed upside down, also, very clever and very suitable for this design.

Three handmade cornshuck roses completed this design. These were placed within the (line of the yew near the central area. The light tan color of the roses blended perfectly with the color of the pitcher and base.

Next, Mrs. Merril Jarrel created a very attractive triangular design by using the branches of the winged sweet gum. These branches were gracefully curved by nature to form a natural triangular design. Mrs. Jarrel placed this primary line in a low can which had been covered with brown florist's tape. She used an oval shaped hardwood base to create good balance. This was stained a dark brown. The container and base were handmade. The line of the sweet gum was filled-in with decorative bronze mums (bought from the florist). The mums were clustered near the base to form a center of interest. These were accented by the placement of several magnolia leaves. For an over - all filler she used a waxy green boxwood foliage. As I mentioned, the scoring of the arrangements was very close. This design rated 94.

Mrs. C. B. Colvin scored 87 points on her lovely vertical design made of pussy willow and winter honeysuckle. This line material was placed in a tall glass-shaped green metal container. In fact, it was made by placing a metal drinking glass to top of an inverted metal salad bowl.

CLAY USED

Clay was used to hold the two together. Very attractive and clever. To create a center of interest in this design Mrs. Colvin placed one large rosette of Sansivera in the central area. For depth and background she used one aspidestra leaf and two sansivera leaves in a tiered fashion just behind the rosette. This is a lovely study in green into greenish white. It is longlasting and can be used with any color scheme in the home.

Another vertical line design was made by Mrs. C. B. Colvin. This design scored 89 points. For line material in this arrangement Mrs. Colvin used the succulent plant with it's coral colored blossoms. This was placed in a slender ceramic pale green container.

A round black glass base was used under this container to achieve good balance. A center of interest was brought about in this design by placing a cluster of the succulent blossoms in the central area. This unusual material created a very pleasing and interesting design.

The last arrangement shown in this show was also a top winner, scoring 95 points. This design was made by Mrs. Hershel Colvin. She created a right angle triangle design by using two large sansivera stalks for the main vertical placement.

A very interesting container was used for this arrangement. This was hand made by Mrs. Colvin — two wooden bases - one elevated above the other to form a thickness or depth the height of a pin point holder cup (about 1½ inches).

UNUSUAL PLANT

A round hole was cut in the top base thus allowing the placement of plant material into the cup holder. For the second placement within the line of the sansivera Mrs. Colvin used a very unusual California plant (euphorbia) which she had bought from the florist. The leaves of this plant are a yellow - green and the blossoms at the end of each stalk are Chautreuse in color. Following the line of this flower Mrs. Colvin used as a filler the golden mums (also, bought from the florist). These were grouped low in the design to create balance and add color.

The coloring in this design is lovely — so cheerful for the home now — like borrowed sunshine. Ginger lily foliage was placed low in this design to accent the mums at the base and create good balance.

Thanks so very much for these lovely and colorful arrangements made by the ladies of the Dubach Garden Club. Hope you saw this show. By the way the president of this club is Mrs. C. H. Colvin.

This week be watching for our next show brought to you by the West Oak Garden Club of Monroe, whose president is Mrs. Will Mac Jones. This show also will be judged by an accredited flower show judge.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Winner of the Tailor Trix pressing board this week is Mrs. John Kolano, Ludlow, Mass., who sends this suggestion.

"After making corduroy dusters for my daughter, I got disgusted with the frayed looking edges, so decided to bind the raw edges on all parts of the garment with light-weight cotton bias binding.

"I was so thrilled with the looks of the finished garment that I wanted to pass this tip along to others. It is much easier to bind the seams before assembling the garment."

SHORTEN PATTERN

"Dear Eunice:

"Being on the short side, I always cut some of the pattern off at the lower edge, or simply shorten it after it was completed. I recently had a sad experience by trying to shorten a skirt in this manner.

"My garment had quite a bit of fullness at the waistline and then tapered down to a very narrow hemline. When I shortened my skirt from the bottom, the facing didn't fit."

Mrs. M.B.

Dear Mrs. M.B.:

With any kind of shaped skirt, you must shorten the skirt in the place that is marked on your pattern, ususally about 10 inches above the lower edge. This would be especially important when you have a shaped facing for the hem.

Many of you may wonder why it was necessary to have a separate facing. If the hemline was curved or shaped in at the lower edge, it would be impossible to turn the hem up as we usually do.

ENDS WOOL CLINGING

"Dear Eunice,

"I just finished a wool dress and the fabric has a tendency to cling to my legs at the hem. I didn't know what else to do except use a bias strip of matching cotton and apply this over the wool at the hemline. Was this the correct way to solve this problem?"

Mrs. V.G.

Dear Mrs. V.G.:

The wool clinging to your legs is often a static condition that is caused by certain types of fabrics, usually with nylon content. Cold weather is also a cause of this. I think you were very clever to think of the bias to match the fabric, it won't show and will solve your problems.

HANDY LAP BOARD

I have had so many requests for a repeat of the column about constructing a "lap board." One of the most important points to remember in working on any garment, is to work on a flat surface. This is important when pinning or assembling any parts of your garment. Often a table isn't too convenient, so we find ourselves using our lap or some cramped space. A perfect solution to this is the use of a lap board. To me, it is indispensable because it can be kept close to your sewing maching and when you need a flat surface, you merely push yourself back from the sewing machine and place the board on your lap. Since these are not available on the commercial market, I am giving you complete instructions for making one.

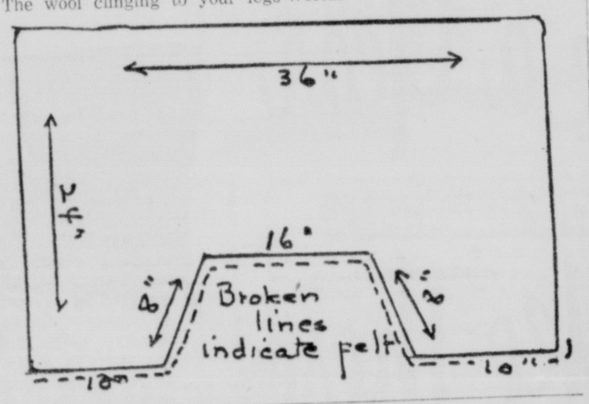
The lap board should be cut out of thin hard board so it won't be too heavy. If you make a paper pattern from the sketch given below, you may be able to get a lumber company to cut it out for you — or maybe you have a handy husband.

For added convenience, cover the board on one side only, with felt. I use a green felt because it doesn't show the soil and is easy on the eyes. The felt will keep the fabric from slipping while you are working on it. It should be cut about 1 inch larger than the board. Glue it on with household glue.

You will have to clip the felt in at all the inner edges, and notch out the excess at all the outer curves. Now glue these outer edges of the felt to the other side of the board.

Once you get used to a "Lap Board" you won't be able to get along without one.

Please send all questions to Sew Simple, in care of Morning World.



Misbehavior Clue May Be Seen In Test

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't simply stand Junior or Janie in a corner when they're charged with chronic misbehavior in the classroom.

Order up a physical checkup, including an eye and ear test. Maybe even a session with a psychologist or psychiatrist will help.

Numerous reports in medical literature contain proof that some youngsters who don't pay attention in school can't see what's going on. Others can't hear too well. Still others have chronic infections.

RECENT REPORT

Dr. Blaine E. McLaughlin, chief of the department of psychiatry at Women's Medical College, Philadelphia, recently reported on the treatment of a group of emotionally distributed school children aged nine to 16.

A recent report in the "Annals of Allergy" noted that children who are slow learners, inattentive and somewhat retarded in their speech patterns may well suffer from unrecognized hearing disturbances associated with allergic disease.

Dr. Victor L. Szanton, of the Pediatric Allergy Clinic Hospital of St. Raphael, New Haven, Conn. found a high incidence of hearing impairment when audiometric tests were administered to 100 allergic children.

TESTS

In a series of tests, 42 children showed a hearing loss. Fifty-six per cent were under nine years of age and 22 per cent, nine or older.

Another doctor reports that three famous Renaissance artists probably wouldn't have a chance to achieve greatness if they grew up in the present time — and their parents saw that they had regular physicals.

Dr. William G. Ridgeway, of Durham, N.C., reporting in "Missouri Medicine," said abnormal vision is believed responsible for the distinctive art styles of Holbein, Granach and El Greco.

"If Holbein, Cranach and El Greco had lived in the present time they undoubtedly would have been fitted with corrective glass in childhood," Dr. Ridgeway said "leaving them perhaps with normal eyesight.

"But if such had been the case they would never have produced those strange and highly individual masterpieces that grace art galleries today."

EXTENSION NEWS

Cold Damage Questions

By AUDREY DAWSON

Gardeners are still calling about cold damage to plants, whether to prune the burned foliage. My recommendation is to wait and see just how much of the plant is damaged. Don't prune as yet.

Surely the weather man will give us some good weather in the next few days and there will be the urge to get busy in the garden, so make your plans now. Remember this is an excellent time to plant trees and we plant them where shade is needed. If you, Mrs. Gardener, are planning a patio surely a tree or so will be needed to furnish shade in this area.

You, Mrs. Home Gardener, may be interested in the communication from Dwight S. Hall, our assistant specialist in horticulture, giving the following information.

GARDEN MANUALS

The Louisiana Garden Club Federation is providing a wonderful opportunity for the public to get out their garden manuals, garden equipment and design abilities to go to school, landscape design school. The school will be conducted February 19-21 on the LSU campus. Housing will be available on the campus.

Sessions will be conducted by a specialist in the landscape field. Hubert Owens, professor and head of the department of Landscaping Architecture, University of Georgia; Arnaud Burnet, professor of landscape architecture, LSU, and Bobby Chapin, landscape architect, Baton Rouge, are the instructors.

Topics to be given include: basic principles of landscape design, why a property needs design, theory of landscape design and plant composition. The school is open to anyone who has a desire to be a better landscape gardener. If you want further information, contact Mrs. Frank Gladney, 224 North 12th Street, Baton Rouge.

WASHABLE WOOL

The wool bureau announces that for the first time machine washable and machine dryable wool blankets are available on a wide scale. The chemical process which makes this possible is trademarked dylonize. After treatment with dylonize the blankets can be immersed in hot water containing ordinary detergents and still retain all of the natural qualities of wool without special care in washing and drying. This process also eliminates felting, matting and pilling. It is anticipated that a blanket treated with the dylonize process will be no higher in cost than the untreated.

NEW IN FOODS

You, Mrs. Homemaker, will be interested in some new processing techniques under development or being tried out which include: Instant dehydrated vegetables, ready to eat after five minutes simmering in water. The new process gives vegetable pieces, such as potatoes and carrots, a porous structure that enables them to take up water rapidly.

Dried honey is a new product developed by USDA to increase use of honey. Tests show dried honey will hold its flavor and color a year at normal room temperature. When reconstituted with water, dried honey has the flavor of fresh liquid honey.

Proten is the name given a new tendered beef developed by a leading meat packer. The process will involve the addition of natural vegetable proteins into meat tissues. The added enzymes do not affect the keeping quality, appearance or flavor of the meat, but help to reduce the cooking time.

Our housing specialist, Mrs. Bertha Bryson, gives some excellent suggestions for planning the linen closet, which includes locating the closet where it will open directly into a hall adjoining the bedrooms.

A closet 84 inches high, 24 inches wide, and a depth of 16, 20, or 24 inches, is usually adequate for the average family. Eight or more shelves are recommended for this type of closet.

Trays and drawers are very good for linens, but they increase the cost of construction. Trays nine inches are convenient, but a few four inch depth trays or sliding shelves could be used to advantage for items such as towels or pillow cases.

A THOUGHT

We make a living by what we get, we make a life by what we give.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: In the event of a nuclear attack, if a man's family's were dying and no help was available, would it be wrong for him to put his family out of the way?

G.O.

ANSWER: Circumstances do not alter moral law. What is wrong under normal circumstances is wrong under abnormal circumstances. In the Judeo-Christian concept the deliberate taking of another's life is morally wrong.

When that concept is abandoned 'mercy killing' will then be in vogue, just as it is in vogue now in some non-Christian societies. Hitler, having departed from Christian practices, killed many whom he considered a burden on society. This scandal has recently been reopened in Israel.

Christ's emphasis was two -fold: the dignity and value of the individual, and his right to act for abandoned man will sink to a level of conduct lower than he himself. When these are ignored or has ever known.

Reduction Of Shrubs

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Very large shrubs which have grown too big can be reduced to smaller size by careful pruning and shading.

Old and starved specimens are not worth the trouble, and the large kinds of shrubs planted in too small a space should be removed. They will only try again to attain their normal size and will have to be cut back year after year.

LONG TASK

Reducing very large shrubs usually takes several years, and you may not think they are worth saving if you have to go through the ugly stages and trouble of pruning, shading and feeding. Only healthy specimens in good soil are worth reducing. Starved ones should be removed and new ones installed after the depleted soil has been improved and enriched.

Drastic pruning is necessary to reduce large glossy privets, photinias, English laurels and osmanthuses. In most cases, we do not try to prune such big bushes back more than about one-third. Taking them back this much removes the outer protection of foliage, and the trunks are exposed to the drying and scalding sun. In hot, exposed places, it is wise to erect a shade over your shrubs and keep it there a season or two until the new branches and twigs have developed and shaded the trunks completely.

BROADLEAVES

Only the broadleaved evergreens can be successfully reduced in as drastic a way as we are here describing. As we have noted in former pruning notes in the column, most conifers cannot be cut back to any great extent because they do not readily put out new growth on old wood. Our native hemlocks, the yews and plum-yews (cephalotaxus) nearly always have some small branches with foilage on them even on the inner branches. These are the exception because they are shade lovers and can grow needles without full sun. Since we usually grow these evergreens in the shade, anyway, they are not in danger of sun scald.

After you have reduced big shrubs, there is a temptation to feed them heavily in order to get them back in shape in a hurry. Resist that urge. Feed them only moderately until they have put on new growth because heavy feeding will result in the production of large new growths which have to be eliminated at once. If the new growth is too thick, you will have to remove some of the branches in a year or so.

Calm, Cool

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Why women live longer than men:

Automation Enters Field Of The Poet

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—RPC 4000 is the latest terrifying example of what can happen when you don't keep computing machines in their place.

This one writes poems. Sample:

"Lastly, its teeth were broad and plump.'

Another one was:

"Oh, panic not to this docile juice.

"Finally, few of my jackets did distrust the goose.

"Butterflies."

RPC 4000, as you can see, may never be nominated poet laureate of the United States, But, as a matter of fact, RPC 4000 is not being groomed to drive Robert Frost into the hardware business. Its developer, the Librascope Division of General Precision, Inc., is simply trying to teach computers not to be such snobs, so ordinary people can understand them.

But the gang at Librascope would like to share their pleasant association with RPC 4000. So they're trying to teach it to understand, and to write, everyday English.

If they can do this, businesses will be able to take advantage of the enormous brainpower of such machines without having to hire mathematics professors as interpreters.

Frank Bristow of Librascope explains the project like this: "Our ultimate aim is to sit down and converse with the computer by voice or by typing into the machine, using the same language we would in ordinary conversation.

"We programmed an earlier machine with the basic rules of grammer, as taught in high school. Then we gave the machine lessons in simple sentence structure. Then we gave it a little vocabulary.

Vows Unite Gloria May, Mr. Herrington

Vows uniting Miss Gloria Ann May of Monroe and Lowery Herrington, West Monroe, were solemnized Sunday, January 21 in Trinity Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion May of Grayson and Mr. Herrington is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Herrington of West Monroe.

Rev. James White performed the double ring ceremony at 3 p.m. before an arch entwined with ivy and flanked by arrangements of white gladioli and white tapers.

Miss Sally Jackson, organist, played appropriate nuptial music and accompanied Ronnie Sanford as he sang "Because," "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Lord's Prayer." Candles were lighted by Dannon Herrington and Bubba Rhone.

Larry Herrington attended the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Rob Herrington, Marvin Conrad and Dwight McGough.

MR. AND MRS. LOWERY HERRINGTON

'Contemporary'?

"Contemporary" is a period in furniture fashions just as "Early American" is. Perhaps it would be best to say contemporary is a period without a period at the end of it yet. It represents new thinking and new ideas developing today, as opposed to new interpretations of old designs.

Dress Well

Top dress designer Norman Norell has this advice for women who want to dress well on a budget: buy good basics, don't overdress, and keep clean! This American trend-setter says, "I like a well - washed look: clean, scrubbed, well put together."

MISS FRANKIE LEE NEWSOM

Miss Newsom, Fiance List Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. Gussie W. Newsom of Rayville, announce today the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Frankie Lee Newsom to Hugh Wilkerson of Vicksburg, Mississippi. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Louise Wilkerson of Vicksburg.

February 14 is the date selected for the ceremony which will take place at Woodlawn Baptist Church at 5:30 p.m.

The bride - elect is a graduate of Rayville High School and the School of Nursing at Mercy Hospital in Vicksburg. Her fiance is a member of the police force in Vicksburg.

Painting Furniture

A hard drying exterior type enamel is the kind of paint that should be used for both metal and wood outdoor furniture. Never use ordinary house paint (some hard drying trim paints are suitable) since house paints are comparatively soft and may chalk or rub off on clothes.

Pale Crepes Sail Into Summer

Remember a few seasons back when crepes appeared to be the fashion perogative of the older woman? This most supple and easy - flowing of fabrics is still infinitely becoming to elegant maturity, but a beautiful blossoming of flower - bright shades means that, this year, exquisite crepes woven with Celanese acetate, the beauty fiber, in every weight and weave are as good for the teenager and her sophisticated elder sister as they are in other hues for their young - looking mother.

Among the colors to look for in delectable crepe dresses specially designed as a brilliantly pale accessory to holiday plans are the pastels—turquoise, a subtle desert pink, sea blue, the yellows and greens from lemon to lime and, of course, opal white — the most flattering hue a suntan ever met!

In colors with more depth of tone consider the capucine family —remembering that this word is French for nasturtium and that this decorative flower blooms in every hue from amber yellow to gay, vibrant orange.

Another color that is delectable in crepe is melon. Because of the lushness of the fabric, crepes give beautiful depths to 1962's favored paprika. And in beige, from palest sand to the warmer wood tones, crepes are becoming, subtle and immensely chic.

Celanese has carefully selected this collection of pale crepes that are ready to sail for the sun now and will adapt themselves beautifully into your important summer plans later. All will delight the traveler because they require only a soupcon of suitcase space and any wrinkles hang out over night without the need of an iron.

Sam Friedlander's flowing white crepe is right for any climate. Maurice Rentner's tropical yellow crepe gown will look wonderful in the south and will also have a long life ahead of it in the gay summertime.

Three Held Hours By Gunmen Tell Of Terror

CHICAGO (AP)—A mother and her two teen-age children told police Saturday of their terror when they were abducted from their home by two gunmen and held in a dingy flat more than five hours. They were freed after $5,000 ransom was paid.

"We sat frozen," Gloria Chanenson, 42, told investigators. "I told the kids not to move. The two men kept fingering their guns."

Her daughter, Eileen Chanenson, 13, said, "We were in darkness, sitting on the edge of the bed afraid."

Lawrence Chanenson, 14, said, "It was like a bad dream."

Mrs. Chanenson's husband, Irving, said the family's ordeal began Thursday night when he answered a knock at the door.

Chanenson, 43, said he was asked to sign for a package. Then three other men walked in with guns. Chanenson told police they were Negroes. All wore false mustaches and one wore a surgical mask covering the lower part of his face.

Walker Cites Reasons For Texas Race

AUSTIN, Tex., (AP)—Former Army Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker said Saturday his race for governor of Texas is part of his fight against international communism.

"The reason I am running and my platform are the same," he told a news conference in a committee room off the State House of Representatives. "That is the need to defend the United States under God in a struggle for survival against international communism. With nine million others, I want Texans to lead this fight."

Walker lighted one cigarette after another. He leaned back in a chair with two microphones hung around his neck, carefully considering each question before answering. Occasionally he said, "No comment."

A number of spectators stood in the doorways to the room, then came forward to shake his hand afterwards.

Walker surprised state Democratic officials Friday afternoon by walking into state Democratic headquarters and presenting a $1,000 check to get his name on the Democratic ballot at the May 5 primary.

In answer to questions why he chose to run on the Democratic ticket instead of Republican and about his voting record, Walker said he thought he voted for a Democratic presidential candidate once and he remembered voting twice for Republican candidates.

Walker said he marked his ballot in 1960 for Richard M. Nixon, the Republican candidate, but he was sure his overseas ballot arrived too late to be counted. He said he remembered voting for Dwight D. Eisenhower either in 1956 or in 1952.

"I am sure I voted once for (Franklin D.) Roosevelt," he said when asked if he ever clearly remembered voting for a Democratic candidate.

Robert Kennedy Gets Dunking In Boat Mishap

Flipped into the water with Kennedy Friday was his wife, Ethel, and Mrs. Donald Wilson, wife of the deputy director of the U.S. Information Agency. She is making the goodwill trip with the Kennedys.

They weren't in the water long until two Navy pilots waterskiing in the lagoon went to their rescue and returned them quickly to anxious Navy people on shore.

The Kennedy party, in a Navy-owned dinghy, set out from Hickam Harbor at Keehi Lagoon near Honolulu. They were in choppy seas about a quarter of a mile off Sand Island when the little sailboat went over.

There was no explanation for the dunking or who was at the tiller.

Bank Robbery Suspect Jailed

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Kristian C. Ohre, a native Norwegian, was held in Hinds County jail on bank robbery charges Saturday.

Ohre will be arraigned before the U.S. commissioner Monday. Federal authorities have asked for $25,000 bond.

Ohre is accused of robbing the Hancock County Bank June 14, 1960. He went to Norway where he lost a bitter extradition fight.

Federal authorities said $30,000 was recovered when the Norwegian was arrested Sept. 25, 1960. Nearly $50,000 was taken in the robbery.

Gas Employees Attend Classes

Fifteen supervisory employees of Texas Gas Transmission Corp. have learned the operation of radiation - detection instruments and interpretation of their showing in a two-day course of instruction that ended Friday at the Penn Hotel in Monroe.

Coming from Texas Gas installations within a radius of approximately 100 miles of Monroe, those attending the classes were prepared to become links in a nationwide radiation detection system.

Capt. James Scruggs Jr., Louisiana Civil Defenese Representative for area four, was a guest at Thursday's session.

"We hope those who received training in radiological monitoring never find it necessary to enter a radiation field existing as a result of nuclear war or a nuclear accident," J. P. Fortson, assistant manager for safety and training of Texas Gas said. "It is hoped the knowledge of nuclear fission and fusion will always be use in peaceful pursuits. But the best means of assuring this desirable end is to be prepared for any contingency. The establishment of radiological capability throughout the nation is one means of obtaining this end."

Election Set For April 7

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special)—The Lake Providence Democratic Executive Committee has set Saturday, April 7, for the town election for offices of mayor, aldermen, marshal, and Democratic Executive member.

Deadline for filing for these offices was set for Wednesday, Feb. 7.

Members of the Democratic Executive Committee are F. A. Babb, chairman, and Mrs. Katie Hamley There is a vacancy due to the resignation of W. C. Deal, who now resides in Monroe.

REDS EXECUTE PAIR

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China executed two men Friday on charges of serving as espionage and sabotage agents for the Chinese Nationalists, Communist newspapers here reported Saturday.

Judge Orders Girl To Learn Cooking

Magistrate Percy Gurr, 70, told Barbara, 19, Friday that she could not marry her fiance until she learned how to cook.

Barbara and Eric Goldsjck, also 19, became engaged a year ago, but her father opposed the marriage because she didn't know how to cook. Since both youngsters were under age, they went to court to get legal permission to marry.

But Magistrate Gurr turned them down.

"You can't expect young husbands to live on tins of sardines," he said. "They need a substantial meal.

"I made sure before I married that my wife could cook," he went on. "It is a nasty blow to a happy marriage if the husband can never come home to a proper meal."

WHO LIT THE FUSE?

RAMBLER OF COURSE—WAY BACK IN 1950

With the introduction of the First American Compact Car. Competition declared that this model would never leave the launching pad — A real "Fizzer" they said. In just a few short years, this so called "Fizzer" has zoomed right on by most competition to a solid third place in the American Car Market. They have watched the phenominal rise of Rambler and have tried to launch similar compacts. But if you'll come in tomorrow you'll see the only compact that ever really got into orbit.

The PENTAGON Washington...

...and so Miss Kane has moved on — and Maumee will never be the same again! I am off probation, but I'll think of some way to get in a jam so I can holler for help from you (joke). Please hurry back! I love you! Poteet XXX

↑ as if you didn't know.

STEVE! HUH? OH! YES, SIR!

I WAS TO SIT IN ON A COMMUNICATIONS PROBLEM, BUT THE BOSS JUST CALLED... ...WILL YOU COVER THE MEETING AND FILL ME IN? YES, SIR!

COL. CANYON, WE HAVE A TAPE RECORDING OF A RADIO VOICE TRANSMISSION IT WAS PICKED UP BY A CIVILIAN — BUT THE SOUNDS ARE IN A LANGUAGE WE CAN'T UNDERSTAND!

THESE GENTLEMEN ARE FROM THE 'VOICE OF AMERICA' AND THE OTHER INFORMATION SERVICES AS WELL AS LANGUAGE EXPERTS FROM UNIVERSITIES IN THE WASHINGTON AREA

WOULD YOU PLAY IT BACK AGAIN, PLEASE? I CAN'T TELL IF THE VOICE IS MALE OR FEMALE THE SOUNDS ARE SO VERY MUFFLED! — AS IF SPOKEN UNDER GREAT STRESS!

THE LABORATORY HAS BROKEN THE INDIVIDUAL SOUNDS DOWN ONE BY ONE — LISTEN! I WOULD SAY THAT IT IS IN THE MIDDLE-AFRICAN RANGE! SOMETHING LIKE SWAHILI!

YES — THERE IS A TRIBE IN THE NIDICI HILLS WHICH USES THAT RISING TONE ON EACH FINAL SYLLABLE! YOU'RE RIGHT, JOHN! IT IS THE — AH-GHTUNU! MAJOR, WE CAN PROBABLY HAVE THIS TRANSLATED... WHERE DID YOU GET THE TAPE?

NEAR THE NORTH POLE!

Hanna-Barbera's YOGI BEAR

JELLYSTONE PARK WILD WEST RODEO

I'LL MAKE THOSE BRONCOS LOOK LIKE BUMS! YOU JUST LET ME AT 'EM, CHUMS!

HERE ARE YOUR DUDS, YOGI! HA, HA! ENJOY THE SHOW!

OH, BOY, BOO BOO... AND YOU SAID THEY WOULDN'T HIRE ME! NOW YOU'LL SEE SOME RODEO RIDING THE WAY IT OUGHTA BE!

JELLYSTONE PARK WILD WEST RODE

AND WASTE THIS FANCY RIDING RIG! NOT ME! I LIKE TO DO THINGS BIG!!

HEY, SLEEPY! OPEN UP THOSE DREAMY EYES! I WANT TO TRY YOU ON FOR SIZE!

YOGI! THAT'S A WILD ONE!

HEE-EE! YEOW! YI-I... WHO RELEASED THE BRAKE?

NO RIDE COULD BE THIS ROUGH!!

IT MUST BE A FAKE!

OWW! MAMA SAID THERE'D BE DAYS LIKE THIS... BUT HERE'S ONE I'D RATHER MISS!!!

HA! HA!

WHAT A RIDER!

SILLY BEAR!

McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

EVERY PERFO... OH, NO! NOT NOW OR THEN! I'LL NEVER RIDE A HORSE AGAIN!

ER... WELL, MAYBE! I GUESS IT'S SHOW BIZ!!

NOW THAT EVERY COUNTRY HAS ATOM POWER, YOU SPACE POLICE HAVE A MIGHTY URGENT TASK, APE...

OKAY, FLASH -- I'LL TAKE BACK WHAT I SAID ABOUT THIS JOB!

THIS GUARD SATELLITE HAS ENOUGH FIRE POWER TO WIPE OUT ANY AGGRESSOR!

UP TO NOW, APE.. IT'S DONE ITS JOB!

WE TAKE NO CHANCES, FLASH! YOU SEEN THEM SCANNING US BEFORE WE COULD LAND!

THERE'S ONE WEAKNESS, APE..!

ATTENTION, ALL PATROLMEN! ASSEMBLE AT EARTH FERRY FOR CHANGE-OF-GUARD SHIFT!

THE HALF HOUR WHEN THE FERRY TAKES ONE SHIFT TO EARTH...AND THE OTHER IS ON ITS WAY! THE CONTROL ROOM CAN RUN THIS SATELLITE -- BUT I, MUST REPORT THIS FLAW!

LAST CALL FOR CHANGE OF GUARD!!

AIR L

STAND BY TO MOVE IN! THEY WILL NOT ATTEMPT TO OVERTHROW GENERALISSIMO SANRE WITHOUT PAYING THE PENALTY!

NEXT WEEK: SPACE COUP!

PETE DROPS BY TO WATCH CRISPIN FRY REHEARSE MARY IN JOHN PARRISH'S NEW PLAY...

SORRY—AM I IN THE WAY?

NOT AT ALL! WANT SOME COFFEE?

THANKS, BUT I'M JUST A VISITOR. MY WIFE...

SURE—MARY ASKED ME TO LOOK FOR YOU. SIT DOWN AND MAKE YOURSELF COMFORTABLE, PETE.

SHALL I TAKE THE COFFEE BACKSTAGE, MR. PARRISH?

JOHN PARRISH? HOLY SMOKE! I MISTOOK YOU FOR...

I KNOW—AN ERRAND BOY OR SOMETHING! IT'S A POSE I AFFECT...

...I TRY TO MAKE PEOPLE THINK MY MIND'S TOO FULL OF LOFTY THOUGHTS TO WORRY ABOUT HOW I LOOK! SHHH! HERE THEY GO AGAIN!

MARY, RON... PAGE EIGHT FROM THE TOP.

I'LL...TRY IT AGAIN.

WONDERFUL, RON! PERFECT! IF YOU WERE SUPPOSED TO BE HOLDING A SACK OF LAUNDRY YOU'D BE PERFECT! ARE YOU TRYING TO PUT MARY TO SLEEP OR WHAT?

WELL, I DON'T...

YOU AIN'T SEEN NOTHIN' YET!

NO, NO, NO!! TAKE IT OVER AGAIN!

"CHANCE AND VALOR ARE BLENDED IN ONE"-VERGIL- "THINGS DO NOT HAPPEN IN THIS WORLD — THEY ARE BROUGHT ABOUT." WILL H. HAYS.

CAMERAS ON THE DRAGGER WILL PICK UP THE PLANES AS THEY PASS OVER LOW, AND FOLLOW THEM UP HERE OVER OUR ISLAND!

I DARE SAY IT WOULD MAKE QUITE A MOVIE IN THEIR COUNTRY!

"WOULD" MAKE? LOOK AT'M! THEY'RE COMING NOW! IN TWO MINUTES THEY'LL BE OVER US, WITH THAT H-BOMB!

GREAT SCOTT! HAVE WE BEEN HIT?

ONLY A VERY SOFT GLANCING BLOW! BUT DON'T LOOK OUT THERE JUST YET! LET'S GO DOWN TO THE CASTLE, EH?

YEP! ALL NICE AND SAFE AND COZY DOWN HERE! DON'T GO OUT TILL THE BOYS HAVE CHECKED FOR FALLOUT, IF ANY!

THAT FOOLED YOU! THE WHOLE BIT FOOLED ME! I STILL DON'T GET IT!

OH, I TURNED ON OUR RAY GIMMICK! IT PARALYZED THE CONTROLS ON THOSE PLANES! THEY COULDN'T PULL OUT OF THEIR DIVE, SO KEPT STRAIGHT INTO THE DRAGGER! THAT I FIGURED!
